HOOVER GRANTS FARMS RESPITE ON SEED LOANS

PLAN CALLS FOR ONLY 25 PER CENT PAYMENT

Senator Smith, South Carolina, Raps It as "Sectional Discrimination."

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

As a further measure of emergency relief to wheat farmers, President Hoover promulgated yesterday a partial moratorium on Government seed loans, to apply in cases where immediate repayment of the full amount would involve undue loss and hardship to the grower.

Loans maturing this fall may be handled by a repayment of 25 per cent together with a blanket extension on the balance under terms to be specified by Congress in the next session.

Approximately $85,000,000 in seed and feed advances now are outstanding, but Department of Agriculture officials estimate that perhaps not more than half of this amount is subject to the extension, which applies only to grains loans.

Announcement of the plan provoked a vigorous protest from Senator Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, who characterized it as a "glaring sectional and partisan discrimination." The cotton and tobacco farmers of the South were equally in need of loan extensions, he said.

Author of Crop Loan Law.

"I am the author of the crop production legislation," Senator Smith said in a formal public statement. "I secured its passage on account of the distressed and impoverished conditions of the farmers throughout the entire country, and I protest against any such glaring sectional and partisan discrimination."

Senator Smith added he would "insist" that cotton and tobacco loans be handled on the same basis as those secured by wheat.

Under the law the Government seed loans constitute a first lien upon the current year's crop. Congress, in authorizing the loans, made no provision for waving the Government's claims against the crop or for any extension of individual loans. Anticipating formal approval of the ex-

Federal Judges to Hold Conferenee Here Today

(Associated Press.)

Chief Justice Hughes will preside today over a conference of judges representing the ten Federal circuits to discuss the condition of business in Federal courts and to remove any congestion which may be found.

The judges will call at the White House during the day to pay respects to President Hoover and will receive from Attorney General Mitchell and Solicitor General Thacher a detailed report of conditions in the courts as viewed by the Government.

Death Toll Is 328 In Greek Disaster

Earth Shocks Continue After Isle and Refugees Sink Into Sea.

Athens, Greece, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—A death toll of 328 was estimated tonight in the Chalkidici Peninsula earthquake which was reported to have caused the disappearance under the water of a small islet crowded with scores of refugees. Earth shocks continued today with the entire peninsula laid waste, many villages in ruins and houses far from the center of the disaster reported damaged. More than 1,000 were injured.

The islet of Amogiana, near the Chalkidici coast, was occupied by many refugees who fled from the villages when their houses tumbled about their heads. After about 200 refugees had reached the islet, it was reported to have vanished in a new quake.

Colorado Mayor Orders Suspension of Business

Montevista, Colo., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—A town was virtually closed up today by proclamation of Mayor F. B. Gzow, who ordered all but necessary business suspended until Saturday afternoon.

Mayor Gluzow said business stability was threatened by 25 cent potatoes and poor collections. Depositors of the two banks here signed pledges in January to leave their money intact until November 1, to aid business recovery.

Davis Is Transferred By Glassford's Order

Beckett Also Is Shifted; Other Changes Made Because of Raids.

Dissatisfied with the functioning of the Crime Prevention Bureau of the Police Department, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent, yesterday ordered Inspector O. T. Davis, from its command, and transferred him to command of the Second Inspection District.

By the same order, Inspector J. F. Beckett was transferred from supervision of the Second Inspection District to headquarters as administrative and personnel assistant to Gen. Glassford.

A shake-up in the subordinate make-up of the crime prevention unit was also instructed by the police head, three men being transferred to other duties because of unauthorized vice raids, and a fourth switched to the Detective Bureau because of a personnel exigency in that branch.

With regard to Inspector Davis' transfer, Gen. Glassford said:

"The transfer of Inspector Davis is made without prejudice. No explanation is necessary. I am head of this department and may make such changes as I think are needed. I will

Gen. Glassford Scores Democrats' B. E. F. Talk

Although the material problems in the occupation of Washington by the bonus army had disappeared, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, said yesterday that controversial issues were still raging and that the "Democratic party was making political capital of the affair."

Addressing members of the Argo Lodge of the B'nai B'rith, assembled at the Jewish Community Center, Gen. Glassford pointed out that while Federal troops were evicting the veteran group there were no deaths, whereas during the attempts of police to handle the riots, two fatalities resulted.

Gen. Glassford explained that the war tanks and gas equipment used by the troops had a double value, serving as a psychological factor in preventing violent opposition and as a safeguard in case a large hostile group of the veterans gathered to offer resistance. He stated that the prompt action on the part of troops prevented the veterans from a possible rally to organize against eviction.

PUERTO RICO STORM RELIEF IS SPEEDED

Hurricane Now Reported to Be Heading Toward Jamaica.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Puerto Rico began the work of rehabilitation in her hurricane-wrecked areas today hardly 24 hours behind the tropical storm that killed 200 or more islanders and wrought millions of dollars damage.

Exhorted by Gov. James R. Beverley to face the tragedy with grim determination, the Red Cross concentrated the control of emergency medical and food relief to a single agency, the Puerto Rico Chapter.

This action was taken under orders of the governor and his emergency relief committee, and it was stated late today that work for the care of storm sufferers was well under way.

In fact, reconstruction was progressing before it had been possible to compile the death toll beyond Gov. Beverley's estimate of 200 with 1,000 injured yesterday.

Reports from outlying districts, however, convinced authorities that this estimate was conservative. They based their opinion on an incomplete official casualty list showing 99 known dead and 1,013 injured.

After the hurricane left Puerto Rico it caused considerable damage in agricultural regions of Santo Domingo, but apparently there was no loss of life. After it was reported south of Port au Prince, Haiti, and Havana meteorologists said it was moving in the direction of Jamaica.

At the request of the citizens emergency relief committee, the Puerto

Lewis Is Ill in Paris; May Have Appendicitis

Paris, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, has been confined to his hotel here for more than a week, threatened with acute appendicitis. Mrs. Lewis is arriving from the United States Friday.

The senator had intended to sail tomorrow with Ambasssador Walter E. Edge that he might participate in the election campaign, but his doctors advised against it. He is being cared for by two nurses. Senator Lewis said he felt better today and hoped to sail next Wednesday in time to take part in the campaign in Illinois.

MANCHURIA UPRISING CREATES NEW CRISIS

Key Town on Border Seized by Chinese Insurgents; Many Are Killed.

Mukden, Manchuria, Thursday, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The newly created state of Manchukuo apparently was helpless today against an uprising in far northwestern Manchuria, after the insurgent Chinese general, Su Ping-Wen, had seized the key town of Manchuli, on the Manchurian-Russian border.

An undetermined number of Manchukuo troops, described here as many, were killed on Tuesday when Gen. Su's artillery destroyed four barracks, and apparently seized the town, together with other nearby villages.

The uprising created a delicate situation on the border, involving four elements, the Japanese, the Soviets, Manchukuo and the insurgents.

The Manchukuo authorities apparently were unable to take any definite steps, while the nearest Japanese troops were at Tsitsihar, 250 miles southeastward.

Japanese military action would be handicapped anyway owing to the possible danger of a frontier incident involving Soviet forces.

Soviet troops previously had been reported as crossing the old Russian-Manchurian boundary. They advanced half way to Manchuli.

Soviet neutrality was indicated, however, by an offer of refuge for Japanese in Manchuli if they would come to the Soviet side of the border.

The only possible relief in sight in the area of the rebellion appeared to be the Mongol cavalry at Dalainor.

(The reference to Dalainor apparently was intended to denote the village at Lake Dalainor, 50 miles due south of Manchuli, in Manchuria. Despite the fact that Dalainor is within the technical boundary of Manchuria, the Mongols roam that area without paying much attention to boundary lines.)

Gen. Lejeune Continues To Show Improvement

Lexington, Va., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, superintendent of Virginia Military Institute, was reported today as showing continued progress toward recovery from a fracture of the skull and broken arm, suffered last week in a fall.

REICH TO DEFER DEBT PAYMENT DUE TOMORROW

Mills Reveals Previous Waiving of Notice Requirement.

$7,800,000 IS SUM INVOLVED IN MOVE

(Associated Press.)

Germany yesterday formally notified the United States that she would have to postpone the $7,800,000 payment due under the funding agreement tomorrow.

In announcing the postponement, Secretary Mills disclosed that on application by the German Ambassador three months ago, he had waived the 90-day notice of intention required for such action. Provision for waiver on the part of the United States was written into the funding treaty.

Reason Given.

Mills said inability to obtain the necessary foreign exchange was the reason given by Germany for the postponement.

The formal announcement by the Secretary of the Treasury said that when Ambasasdor von Prittwitz called upon him just before the start of the 90-day period, he had informed him that while Germany desired to make the payments, exigencies might arise which would make it impossible, and unless he could be assured that the 90-day notice requirement would be waived, he would have to give notice then of the postponement. Mills said that in hope the payment would be met, he agreed to waive the notice.

Payments Due.

The payment due under the mixed claims section of the funding agreement amounts to $4,800,000 and is postponed for two years at 5 per cent. The American army of occupation costs, accounting for the balance, are postponed 2½ years and carry interest at 3½ per cent.

The Secretary said no similar situation has arisen with any of the other debtor nations, which altogether must meet payments of $123,500,000 on December 15 unless action is taken to postpone them.

The action of Germany makes a total of $9,052,000 in debt payments postponed this year.

Estonia, Latvia and Poland served notice of September 15 that they would be unable to make payments of $1,252,000 due on December 15.

The army of occupation costs were postponed last year under the year's moratorium of international war debts and the mixed claim payments for last year were postponed under the treaty for 2½ years.

Mills' Statement.

Secretary Mills' statement said:

"Paragraph 5 of the debt funding agreement dated June 20, 1930, between Germany and the United States requires in connection with the postponement of the payment of any installment 'not less than 90 days advance notice in writing' and paragraph 8 provides that 'the United States in its discretion may waive any notice required hereunder.'

"Accordingly, as to the September 30 payment the 90-day notice would have been given by Germany on or

Frazier Declares Against Hoover

North Dakota Progressive Republican Senator Opposes Regime.

Los Angeles, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—United States Senator Lynn J. Frazier, Progressive Republican of North Dakota, said today he will not support President Hoover for reelection. The senator is here as chairman of the Senate Indian affairs subcommittee holding a series of hearings in the West.

"I am by no means satisfied with the present administration," Senator Frazier said. "I do not belong to the wing of the Republican party which that administration represents. Virtually all of the Progressive group in the Senate has adopted the same attitude which I have."

The senator did not say whether he would support any presidential candidate.

Churchill's Condition Reported Much Better

Thieves 'Fete' 25 Youngsters Out for Drive

Oklahoma City, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Out at "Three Falls," where the autumn breeze rustles through the blackjacks and the night driving's nice, two robbers entertained this morning—for 25 young gues.

The watch party—the robbers took watches and what cash they could find—was by invitation. There were no regrets, and nobody left early. It lasted three hours and the hosts forgot their manners and departed among the first.

By carload after carload, couple after couple were herded from the road shortly after midnight, with all the persuasion two automatic pistols can command.

NORRIS LAUDED BY ROOSEVELT

Thousands of Nebraskans gathered about the track of the Red Willow County Fair Grounds and jammed into the high-roofed grand stand directly in front of the speaker's stand to hear their veteran Republican Independent senator call for the election of "another Roosevelt" as President.

A few minutes later they saw the Democratic presidential candidate stand before the same microphone in the gathering darkness and call Norris "the very perfect, gentle knight of American progressive ideals."

Searchlights from the roof of the grand stand in front of Roosevelt sent a glaring light down upon him as he stood in a rope-inscribed circle at the edge of the track and spoke.

Mr. Roosevelt said that his quarrel was not with "the millions of splendid men and women who in the past have called themselves Republicans," but against "certain forces now in control of the leadership of the Republican party who have forgotten the principles on which that party was founded and have become representatives of a selfish few who put personal interests above national good."

Norris a little earlier had said that when Gov. Roosevelt first was nominated there was talk that if he were elected Tammany would control the White House, but that "when he got through with little Jimmie Walker

Bad Weather Holding Von Gronau at Manila

Manila, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Bad weather today forced Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and three companions to postpone until Friday their 600-mile flight overseas to Borneo, in continuance of their leisurely journey around the world from Germany.

The aviators arrived yesterday from Hongkong. They expect to return to Germany late next month.

Meanest Man Nabs Life-Saving Serum

Dr. Mayo's Kit Stolen After He Rushes to New Mexico With Remedy.

Albuquerque, N. Mex., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Serum rushed here by Dr. Charles W. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., in the hope of saving the life of Richard Spahr, son of a Santa Fe Railroad clerk, was stolen last night a few hours after the physician arrived here.

Dr. Mayo's instrument case containing the serum was stolen from a motorcar in front of a hospital. He had administered one dose of the serum before it was stolen.

A new supply was ordered sent by plane from Rochester. Dr. Mayo was called here by Albuquerque physicians when Spahr's condition became critical. He has an intestinal ailment.

Garner Back in Capital; Will Go to Albany Soon

(Associated Press.)

Speaker John N. Garner returned yesterday to his office at the Capitol after two days in New York where he conferred with Democratic leaders.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate said he would go to Albany next week to confer with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, his running mate, about the campaign.

YANKS BEAT CUBS, 12-6, IN FIRST GAME; GEHRIG PAVES WAY TO VICTORY

HOMER IN 4TH STARTS ROUT

Guy Bush Falters After Getting Early Lead.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Yankee Stadium, New York, Sept. 28.—The pitching that had carried the Chicago Cubs to the National League pennant in a whirlwind finish foundered today on the reefs of a bristling Yankee attack, and the first game of the 1932 world series passed into the keeping of New York, while the American League banner floats high over the baseball battleground tonight.

Above the clatter of the base hits that submerged the Cubs' own offensive sounded the bludgeon of Columbia Lou Gehrig, which crashed a home run into the stratosphere down upon the laps of the right field bleacher customers to score Babe Ruth ahead of him, the blow that figuratively broke the back of the Bruins, wiped out a 2-to-0 lead and sent the Yankees on their merry way to a 12-to-6 triumph in this opening game of the series.

This first sudden sally of the Yankees into the scoring realm initiated Pitcher Guy Bush, of the Cubs, into the murderous qualities of the New York slugging array, which he met professionally for the first time this afternoon. It punctured the aura of invincibility that Bush had erected about three innings of hitless toil for the Yankees and two innings later he was off the mound with the game irretrievably lost.

Cubs Rally in Late Innings.

Big Red Ruffing, the Yankees' pitching choice, needed that 3-run uprising in the fourth and the 5-run outburst in the sixth by his mates to withstand the counterassault that the Cubs launched in the late innings. He yielded the Cubs ten hits to eight curried by the Yankees off the combined offerings of Bush, Burleigh Grimes and Bob Smith, but he worked easily under the 8-to-2 lead after the sixth inning.

The Cubs were the first to strike today, ramming out three clean hits

FEDERAL DRY RAIDS IN KANSAS TRAP 150

Special Grand Jury Is Called After Exposure of Wholesale Law Violation.

Kansas City, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—A special Federal grand jury, meeting here Friday, will dig into evidence uncovered here in widespread raids last night and early today, when the Federal Government struck its sharpest blow at illicit liquor traffic in this State.

William L. Vandevanter, United States district attorney, said today he will ask indictments of scores of operators, owners, bartenders and employes connected with more than 30 night clubs, road houses and gambling resorts closed within six hours by 99 prohibition agents, all but a few of whom were imported.

Watching from Washington will be the Attorney General of the United States, who passed on the plan of attack, more than two months in the making.

The zero hour came at 10 o'clock last night. Then, fifteen raids were launched upon the biggest resorts, among them Scotland Yard, where patrons were served in barred cells

Hoover to Broadcast Plea for Childhood

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover will deliver a brief, nationally broadcast radio address tonight shortly after 8:30 o'clock giving his ideas on the protection of children for the benefit of representatives of 1,800 women's organizations gathered in a round table discussion at New York.

White House officials said yesterday the President had been requested by 3,000 women representing organizations in 26 States to give his suggestions over the air in order to aid them in drawing up a child protection program for the coming year.

HOUSE BODY VOTES 2-CENT MAIL RATE

Restoration Will Be Asked of Congress; Furlough Plan Rapped at Hearing.

(Associated Press.)

The House postoffice subcommittee investigating the postal service yesterday went on record as favoring restoration of the 2-cent postage rate on first-class mail to "provide more revenue and work opportunities."

In a statement, the subcommittee said it advocated return of the 2-cent rate "in view of representations made to the subcommittee at its hearings, the falling off in the volume of first-class mail since the 3-cent rate went into effect, the Postmaster General's recent public statements that the 2-cent rate should be restored as soon as the postal business warranted it, and the desire of the subcommittee to build up mails so as to provide more revenue and work opportunities for the postal employes and substitutes who are being deprived of employment as a result of the decreased postal business."

At the opening hearings of the investigation authorized by the House,

Mrs. Borah Believed On Way to Recovery

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Mrs. William E. Borah appeared tonight to be on the road to recovery from an attack of psittacosis, or parrot fever.

A bulletin issued at 6 p. m. by her physician said:

"Mrs. Borah shows slight but steady improvement."

Her heart continued to grow stronger and her fever to lessen, improving her appetite. Mrs. Borah, wife of the senior senator from Idaho, has been ill almost two weeks.

Several telephone calls to the hospital were placed by the White House physician, who sought information on her condition.

U. S. Serves Meals to 20,000 At Noon, Post Probe Finds

Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner May Be Obtained in Four Federal Restaurants; Persons Outside Service Are Not Absolutely Barred.

By ROBERT F. WHITNEY.

Is Uncle Sam a restaurateur?

Where do the approximately 80,000 Federal employes in Washington get their lunch during the half-hour period allowed them?

Does the Government profit, or does it pay in any manner for the feeding of its employes?

These questions are especially pertinent now, since the Shannon committee of the House of Representatives, which is investigating Government competition with private business, has promised a complete probe into the management and reasons for the existence of cafeterias and restaurants in the Federal buildings here.

To answer these questions a complete survey of the methods of feeding Federal employes has been made by The Post. It will be presented in this and later articles.

A primary fact discovered in The Post's investigation is that 25 per cent, or one in every four Government workers, lunch daily in a Government building. Nearly 20,000 workers are served their midday meal at one of a score of restaurants located on Federal property.

ROOSEVELT'S POWER SPEECH IS ATTACKED

Hurley Accuses Governor of "Carrying Water on Both Shoulders."

Johnson City, Tenn., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Secretary Hurley, in a campaign speech tonight, said Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is "carrying water on both shoulders" on the question of Government operation of public utilities.

The Secretary of War asserted before a Republican rally in the city auditorium that the Democratic presidential nominee had been "unfair" in saying in his Portland, Oreg., speech on utilities, that President Hoover was "opposed to Federal regulation and control" of power companies. The President, said Hurley, "had hardly taken oath of office before he was calling for further Federal regulation."

Made Strategic Retreat.

The Secretary's speech, as given to the press by the Republican national committee, continued:

"On the question of Government operation of public utilities, the governor has made a strategic retreat and is now carrying water on both shoulders. Early in the campaign he flirted with the radicals. Later he moved over to the conservative side.

"At Portland, he tried to please both. To bait the conservatives, he praised the efficiency of private operation at the expense of public operation. To please some of his Western friends, he suggested Government operation as a 'stick in the cupboard' with which to beat recalcitrant companies which refused to be good.

Both for Federal Control.

"Both parties are for Government ownership of power sites. * * * The Republican platform at Chicago came out for Federal regulation of interstate power rates. Gov. Roosevelt is trying an issue where none exists. In his effort to cater to class interests, he is willing to create an issue even though it is not based on facts."

Of President Hoover's power board, Hurley said:

"In his first annual message to Congress in 1929, he advocated making the Federal Power Commission the ultimate arbiter of interstate transmission. He has renewed that recommendation every year since. The Republican platform takes the same ground. * * * He inaugurated the present Federal Power Commission and he has repeatedly recommended that it be given the proper jurisdiction."

Jury Today Gets Capital Bond Case

Inquiry in $13,500,000 Issue Floated Here Is Finished.

Chicago, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Months of investigation of $13,500,000 bond issue floated on eleven buildings in Washington, D. C., will culminate tomorrow in presentation of evidence to a Federal grand jury at Milwaukee, Government officials indicated today.

Forrest A. Harness, Special Assistant Attorney General, and E. J. Armbruster, of the Bureau of Investigation, conferred here today with local Federal prosecutors. They were en route to Milwaukee to start prosecution, choosing that city because a large number of the bonds, now in default, were sold there.

The officers declined to make known the basis of the prosecution. The bond issue was underwritten and sold by Halsey, Stuart & Co., and was issued by a syndicate including A. B. Leach & Co., Wardman Construction Co., Wardman Real Properties, Roger Caldwell of New York, Compton & Co., and Hamilton & Co., of New York.

Rail Tunnel Report Denied by Officials

Refute Tokyo Declaration U. S. Will Undertake to Link Nations.

Good-natured raillery was the unofficial reaction yesterday in State Department and military engineering circles to dispatches from Tokyo saying the Japanese newspaper Kokumin printed a story which declared the United States plans to build a railroad that would traverse this country, part of Canada, tunnel under the Bering Sea and join the trans-Siberian Railway at Moscow.

Besides the insurmountable diplomatic obstacles such a project would involve, high officials privately and mirthfully pointed out the gigantic engineering and financial problems such a venture would entail.

Charges carried by the Japanese journal that Roy Chapman Andrews' explorations in the Gobi Desert in Mongolia were undercover surveying operations for such a stupendous railroad project, cloaked under the guise of a hunt for dinosaur eggs and such specimens, were scouted.

Indian Feminist Decorates Statues

Mrs. Mayadevi Gangulee Praises Pioneer U. S. Suffragists.

Paying tribute to American pioneer suffragists, Mrs. Mayadevi Gangulee, leading feminist of India, yesterday visited Statuary Hall in the Capitol and laid a wreath upon the statues of Lucretia Mott, Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

Mrs. Gangulee was accompanied in her mission at the Capitol by Miss Ruth Taunton, secretary of the National Woman's Party in this country. The Indian feminist is a member of the party of V. J. Patel, former Lord Mayor of Bombay, who is here in the cause of Indian nationalism.

The action of Mrs. Gangulee in laying floral tribute at the statues of the famous American suffragists is in line with the custom of many foreign feminists, who do so in token of their hope that their advocates may be as successful as those of the American women.

Text of Roosevelt's Talk Praising Senator Norris

McCook, Nebr., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Following is the text of the speech by Franklin D. Roosevelt today at the meeting attended by Senator Norris, independent Republican, of Nebraska:

I am happy to be with you progressive citizens of Nebraska today. You are progressive not alone by long practice, but equally by a deep-seated intuitive understanding. Your hearts and minds understand the true meaning of the word humanitarian and support constant progress in behalf of the prosperity and the happiness of our people.

I believe, too, that the great majority of thinking people throughout the Nation have come to realize that this is the true basic reason for your support of your great progressive statesman, Senator Norris.

This support, even in his independent political action, demands with increasing respect and sympathy the admiration of every patriotic citizen in the East, as well as in the West.

In our long national history we have seen in every decade the rise of public servants to positions of great power and great acclaim. In my studies of our history I have always been deeply interested in the fact that the appraisal of the greatness of statesmen by their contemporaries has often been so completely reversed by a later verdict. If you will take even the history of any one great State during a given ten years you will find a de facto leadership and a temporary acclaim for many political leaders whose very names are wholly forgotten a generation later.

Ultimate Analysis Of Men by History.

We should remember that the ultimate analysis of history asks the answer to questions which are not concerned so much with what you and I, in these modern days, call ballyhoo, or headlines, as they are with much simpler fundamentals.

History asks: "Did the man have integrity?"

"Did the man have unselfishness?"

"Did the man have courage?"

"Did the man have consistency?"

And if the individual under the scrutiny of the historic microscope measured up to an affirmative answer to these questions, then history has set him down as great indeed in the pages of all the years to come.

There are few statesmen in America today who so definitely and clearly measure up to an affirmative answer to the four questions as does the senior senator from Nebraska. In his rare case history has already written the verdict.

Not you alone in Nebraska, but we in every part of the Nation, give full recognition to his integrity, to his unselfishness, to his courage and to his consistency. He stands forth—whether we agree with him on all the little details or not—he stands forth as the very perfect, gentle knight of American progressive ideals.

Would Have First Voters Study Norris' Career.

I am hoping that at this moment thousands of boys and girls—thousands of first voters—are listening to my words, for I should like them to give some thought and some study to the very remarkable public service of the man in whose home town I now stand.

I should like them to read of the able and heroic fights on behalf of the average citizen which he has made during his long and honorable career. I should like them to know that sometimes he has made this fight with his party, and sometimes—as now—against the leader of his party.

I should like them to know that always he has been thinking of the rights and the welfare of the average citizen, of the farmer, the laborer, the small business man—yes, and of the rights and the welfare of those who have been born to or have acquired greater wealth.

But especially it has been an unselfish fight, and directed to the fact that it is the little fellow who has the fewest friends in high places, and that too often it is the little fellow who has been forgotten by his Government.

I have spoken of his consistency—and by this I mean a consistency in the great things of life; a consistency which has held through the years, through success and adversity toward a goal that overlooks the pettinesses and the jealousies of politics as we use politics in the wrong and narrower sense.

Holds He Has No Fight With Republican Ranks.

During this campaign, as the senator knows, I have stressed the fact that my quarrel is not with the millions of splendid men and women who in the past have called themselves Republicans, but that my battle is against certain forces now in the control of the leadership of the Republican party who have forgotten the principles on which that party was founded and have become representative of a selfish few who put personal interests above national good. That is why I rejoice in and approve the statement that Senator Norris is "a better Republican than President Hoover."

To those who would say that Senator Norris has been no respecter of parties, I would suggest something more important; the forces of evil are far less respecters of parties. Selfish business which seeks through the tariff a monopoly on a given product in order to obtain vast private profit at the expense of the people, is no respecter of parties. Those bankers and brokers who in order to obtain a commission will willingly deceive an investing public into buying worthless domestic or foreign bonds are no respecter of party; a conscienceless power trust seeking to charge the home owner, the small manufacturer, the little business man, all the traffic will bear, is no respecter of parties.

Cites Epithets Hurled At Great Americans.

These men and these organizations seek to fatten themselves by the use of the kind of party regularity—whether it be Republican or Democratic—in which can best be purchased to serve them.

Theirs is the type of bad citizenship which cries the loudest against public servants like Senator Norris who are consistent, unselfish, courageous and can't be bought. They are the lineal descendants of the men and the organizations who called Jefferson a "radical;" who called Jackson a "demogogue;" who called Lincoln a "crack-pot idealist;" who called Theodore Roosevelt a "wild man;" who called Woodrow Wilson an "impractical idealist."

Senator Norris, I go along with you because it is my honest belief that you follow in their footsteps—radical like Jefferson, demagogue like Jackson, idealist like Lincoln, wild like Theodore Roosevelt, theorist like Wilson—dare to be all of these, as you have in bygone years. So can we most greatly help our beloved Nation in time of need, our cause in common. I welcome your support. I honor myself in honoring you.

ROOSEVELT AND NORRIS MAKE PLEA FOR REPUBLICAN VOTES

the cry died down. We haven't heard it since."

The Nebraskan said that President Hoover had turned a deaf ear to the ills of the farmer and he assailed the public utilities stand of the President. They cheered as the Nebraskan outlined some of his own beliefs and the New York Governor announced that "I go along with you."

"Our cause is common," he said. "I welcome your support and I honor myself in honoring you."

Introduced by Gov. Bryan.

The two were introduced by Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, brother of the late William Jennings Bryan. Immediately after his appearance at the fair grounds, Mr. Roosevelt boarded his train to continue his journey to Sioux City, Iowa, where he will speak tomorrow.

The New York Governor said the whole Nation gave full recognition to "the integrity, unselfishness, courage and consistency" of Norris. Addressing an appeal to "thousands of boys and girls, thousands of first voters," Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I should like them to read of the able and heroic fights on behalf of the average citizen which he has made during his long and honorable career. I should like them to know that sometimes he has made this fight with his party; and sometimes—as now, against the leaders of his party.

"I should like them to know that always he has been thinking of the rights and welfare of the average citizen, of the farmer, of the laborer, the small business man—yes, and of the rights and the welfare of those who have been born to, or have acquired greater wealth.

"But especially it has been an unselfish fight, and one directed to the fact that it is the little fellow who has the fewest friends in high places and too often it is the little fellow who has been forgotten by his Government."

"That is why I rejoice and approve the statement that Senator Norris is a better Republican than President Hoover," he added.

"The forces of evil are far less respecters of parties," he continued, referring to Norris' outspoken disregard of party lines.

"Selfish business which seeks through the tariff a monopoly on a given product in order to obtain vast private profit at the expense of the people is no respecter of parties.

"Another Roosevelt Needed."

"Those bankers and brokers who in order to obtain a commission will willingly deceive an investing public into buying worthless domestic or foreign bonds are no respecters of party.

"A conscienceless power trust seeking to charge the home owner, the small manufacturer, the little business man, all the traffic will bear, is no respector of parties."

Concluding, the candidate called Norris "radical like Jefferson, demagogue like Jackson, idealist like Lincoln, wild like Theodore Roosevelt, theorist like Wilson."

In his speech of introduction, Norris said, "We have been wishing during the Hoover administration, especially, for another Roosevet in the White House."

"The real patriot will expose and punish crime and debauchery wherever he finds it, regardless of party," Norris said.

"Patriotism demands that we put our country's interests above our party interests and perform our governmental duty, whether as private citizens or public officials, according to our conscientious convictions.

"The citizen who permits his party spirit to control his vote when his conscience tells him that such action is wrong disregards his patriotic duty which he owes to his family, his home and his country."

Norris said he did not agree with Roosevelt's ideas on the power question 100 per cent, but that "under his administration I have no fear but that the natural resources of the country will be preserved and developed for the benefit of the people rather than for the benefit of the power trust."

He called the nomination of the New York Governor a victory for the people over "the greedy machine politicians and the special monopolistic interest." The Nebraskan urged "progressive income and inheritance taxes to prevent accumulaton of wealth by the few, and abolition of the Electoral College to provide a direct vote for the Presidency.

G.O.P. to Repeat 1928 Victory, Curtis Thinks

Chicago, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—A prediction that Republicans would carry the same States in the November elections they did in 1928 was made today by Vice President Charles Curtis in a statement issued by Republican committee headquarters.

En route to the West for an extensive speaking campaign, Vice President Curtis scoffed at claims he said Democrats had made concerning votes in Western States, and asserted they had "claimed everything including the Argentine and Scandinavian countries."

North Carolinans Ask Relief Loan of R. F. C.

(Associated Press.)

The destitution relief situation in North Carolina was laid yesterday before Fred C. Croxton, relief director for the Reconstruction Corporation, by Mrs. W. T. Bost, commissioner of public welfare, and Dr. F. W. Morrison, executive secretary of the State tax board and relief director for the State.

Mrs. Bost and Dr. Morrison conferred with Croxton on what the State and its subdivisions had done to relieve distress and the probable need for the remainder of the year. After the conference they said that no definite amount for a loan had been asked.

ROOSEVELT TO WIN WEST, FARLEY SAYS

Democratic Chairman Sees Republicans and Others Backing Governor.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Out of the West today came James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, declaring that "a great liberal party made up of persons of all shades of political belief" is arising from the presidential campaign.

"Factional differences," he said, have been forgotten.

"Not a political rift threatens the success of the national ticket" in the States Gov. Roosevelt has visited, the tall campaign director asserted.

Thousands of liberal Republicans, "leaders and members of the rank and file," he said, "have joined the crusade to which he (Roosevelt) invited them."

Democratic Victory Seen.

With a grin, he called Democratic victory "now assured," and said it would "mark the beginning of a new era of greater happiness and prosperity for all classes of people."

"The country is safe for democracy," he shouted to a crowd of party leaders on hand to greet him as he arrived from Chicago.

Then he kissed his wife and two children, shook a few hands and hurried off to the world series ball game "to forget politics for a while."

As he went he summarized some of the impressions he said he had gained while touring the West with the governor, and later a formal statement he wrote on the train was given out at natoinal headquarters.

Tour Called Remarkable.

When at the railroad station some one cheered his claims of victory already won, the smile vanished from Mr. Farley's face and he said:

"But I mean it. The Democratic outlook is so good it would scare you."

He was asked if he thought Senator Hiraom Johnson, California Republican, would throw his support to Roosevelt.

"There is no doubt," he replied, "that the governor will get practically all the liberal and progressive votes."

"Do you think the conservative tone of some of the governor's speeches has weakened him in the progressive States?" some one asked.

"Decidedly not," the chairman answered. "Mr. Roosevelt has bettered Democratic chances wherever he has gone and with each address he has delivered."

Shooting Officer May Be Reinstated

Department Surgeon Says Mental Lapse May Be Temporary.

A possibility that Policeman William E. Atkinson, of the Ninth Precinct, who terrorized the neighborhood at Nineteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue Tuesday night by firing a volley of shots at bystanders, may be retained in the Police Department if his mental lapse was temporary and will not recur, was suggested yesterday by Police Surgeon John A. Reed, who cited several cases of reinstatement under similar conditions.

Dr. Reed was called to diagnose Atkinson's condition after he had been overpowered by three policemen who were called to the scene. Evidencing no traces of alcoholism, the policeman was taken to Gallinger Hospital for treatment.

Atkinson entered a Washington Railway and Electric bus and he was said to have threatened the driver with a gun. Russell Inley, 27, of Bladensburg, Md., driver of the bus, refused to comply with the policeman's demands to drive toward Georgetown. Brandishing his revolver, Atkinson, who was wearing his uniform although off duty, fired six shots at bystanders. He then forced a number of passengers in the vehicle to enter a nearby taxicab. Three policemen overpowered Atkinson and he was taken to Gallinger Hospital for observation.

Democrats Write Repeal Plank in New Hampshire

Concord, N. H., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—New Hampshire Democrats, in convention today, wrote a straight repeal plank into their platform, listed the economic situation as their major issue, and launched a campaign that leaders promised would be the party's greatest offensive in a decade.

The State convention received with enthusiasm an expression of "hope and belief" by former Representative George H. Combs, of Missouri, that Alfred E. Smith soon would take an active part in the Roosevelt campaign and a prediction by Gov.-elect Louis J. Brann, of Maine, that the Democratic victory in his State was "a signal of what is to happen in the rest of the Nation."

High School Cadet Head to Be Named

Colonel's Recommendation Will Be Made by Col. Craigie Today.

The name of the student recommended for appointment as colonel of the Washington High School Cadet Corps will be submitted to school officials today by Lieut. Col. Wallace M. Craigie, U. S. A., retired, military instructor in the white high schools.

The selected student must be approved by Supt. Frank W. Ballou, Assistant Supt. Stephen E. Kramer and the faculty chairman of the military committees of the high schools before his name is revealed, Col. Craigie said.

The candidates for the position are: William S. Gochenour, Central; Marshall Guthrie, Western; Morris Krucoff, Eastern, and J. B. Edmunds, McKinley. No nomination was made by Roosevelt High School. The brigade staff will be picked from the cadets of the school whose candidate is named colonel. Chester Morrill, jr., of Western High School, was colonel last year.

Secretary of T. R. Backs F. D.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The Republicans for Roosevelt League announced tonight that Miss Josephine M. Stricker, of Niagara Falls, who was the late Theodore Roosevelt's secretary from 1916 to 1919, "has come out for Franklin D. Roosevelt,"

Invisible Speed Trap "Tells on" Motorists

New York, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—Modern science today added a new thrill to motoring, the invention of an invisible speed trap, operated by an "electric eye" which grimly and efficiently records the speed of passing cars when there isn't a motorcycle policeman for miles around.

The intriguing little gimmick is already operating, secretly, on an unidentified stretch of the Boston Post road, leading northeastward from New York City, and is producing splendid results in the way of trapped motorists, according to Orestes H. Caldwell, president of the New York Electrical Society, who revealed its existence at a meeting of the Electrical Association here today.

ROOSEVELT'S TOUR HELD AID TO G.O.P.

Sanders Holds Democratic Optimism Not Justified by Events.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt's tour of the West, said Everett Sanders, Republican national chairman, tonight, "has been of advantage to the Republican cause." Of Democratic claims to the electoral votes of Western States, he said:

"When Roosevelt ran against Coolidge for Vice President in 1920 he predicted that he and his running mate would sweep the West.

"Now he's at it again.

"Of course, they didn't sweep the West in 1920.

"Naturally they get excited when they see a few votes coming their way, and they don't realize that that great section is Republican, or how Republican the country is generally."

Sanders sat in a private suite, five floors above his party's Eastern headquarters, where he will hold conferences designed to "step up" the Eastern campaign.

Sanders Claims Maine.

To questions about what States he expects the Republicans to carry, where he looks for the greatest party strength and how many electoral votes he is counting on, the tall campaign chief said, with a smile:

"I don't go in for predictions like that."

Then he strode across the room and added:

"But I will tell you that Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis are going to be reelected."

Asked specifically about Maine, he said:

"We'll carry that State all right."

When the Maine State election result was mentioned, he remarked:

"Our election hasn't been held there yet."

"I don't think Roosevelt's trip has been effective from a Democratic point of view," he said a few moments later.

"It has been of advantage to the Republican cause in that Roosevelt, insofar as he outlined a farm plan, failed entirely.

"That's the nearest to a definite statement he's made.

"Foolish Tariff Program."

"In the second place, he proposed a perfectly foolish tariff program which has given an opportunity—which Republican speakers have taken—to attack the Roosevelt program.

"And so the net result of his tour has been favorable to us."

Sanders said he found the campaign "going in fine shape" in the East.

"The progress being made here is remarkable," he added.

Throughout the country, he declared, the ballot-drive is further under way "than in any other presidential year I can recall."

"The Republicans are more active in this campaign than the Democrats," he asserted. "The only difference is that the Democratic candidate is making a tour.

"Every candidate in my memory who has made a tour has drawn good crowds and gotten good newspaper space, and that goes back to Bryan's campaign.

"But despite the fact that the Democrats appear to be waging the more active campaign, the reverse is true. We have had more speakers of note making speeches and have more active and energetic organization work in and through the States."

Democratic Slate Named in Delaware

Adams Is Picked for Congress; Layton Gets Governor Nomination.

Dover, Del., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—With a full slate of candidates nominated at a State convention Delaware Democrats marshaled their forces today for the November election. The nomination for Delaware's one seat in the National House of Representatives went to Wilbur L. Adams, of Wilmington. Landreth L. Layton, of Georgetown, was nominated for governor by acclamation.

The convention adopted a platform approving the nominations of Roosevelt and Garner and the Democratic national party platform. It attacked "increased cost of Government under the Republican administration and advocated reduction in State expenses.

The remainder of the State ticket included William Dickson for lieutenant governor; John Biggs, jr., for attorney general; William Morris, for State treasurer, and Thomas M. Goodeen for State auditor. Presidential electors chosen are Hugh Morris, John B. Hutton and Willard F. Deputy.

Connecticut Democrats Nominate Kopplemann

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Herman P. Kopplemann, of Hartford, former State Senator, was nominated at a Democratic convention today for Representative in Congress from the First District. He defeated Oicott F. King, South Windsor farmer, 192 to 17.

Kopplemann, the nominee four years ago, will oppose Clarence Seymour, the Republican candidate, for the seat now held by Representative Augustine Lonergan, who is seeking the senatorship.

MILLS STARTS WEST ON CAMPAIGN TOUR

First Speech Will Be Made Today Before Michigan G. O. P. Session.

(Associated Press.)

Ogden L. Mills started West last night on a long tour of campaigning for the reelection of his chief, President Hoover.

The Secretary of the Treasury, who has become one of the chief advisers of the President on both statecraft and politics, will swing as far as the Northwest States and the Pacific Coast before he returns to Washington some time after the middle of October.

Next to the heavy itinerary undertaken by Vice President Curtis, and possibly the schedule of Secretary Hurley, Mills has one of the busiest campaign assignments allotted so far to a member of the Hoover official family.

He will make six and possibly seven speeches while away. One of these, however, the address to be delivered before the American Bankers Association in Los Angeles on October 4, will be, Mills said, nonpolitical in character.

Following his usual practice of attracting as little attention as possible, the Secretary occupied a single Pullman compartment on his first stage of his trip. This will take him to Detroit, where today he will address the Michigan Republican convention. From there he will go to St. Louis to speak Friday night.

Mrs. Mills will join him in St. Louis, and they will go together to Los Angeles where he will speak at a political meeting on October 3 and address the bankers' convention the next morning.

Continuing to San Francisco, he will speak there on October 6 and head back for Chicago, where he is to give an address on October 13. A tentative plan calls for him to speak at Minneapolis on October 12.

Girl, 20, Wounded; Farmhand Seized

Prisoner Tells Police He Mistook Victim for Chicken Thief.

A 20-year-old girl was in serious condition at the Montgomery County Hospital, Sandy Spring, last night, as the result of gunshot wounds received when she was shot at by a Negro worker on the farm of L. R. Sabine, Laytonsville, Md., as she returned from a trip to an orchard near the Sabine farmhouse.

Curby Brent was arrested by County Policemen John Butt and Paul Watkins and held at the Rockville Jail, pending investigation. Police said Brent was about fourteen paces from the girl when he shot at her, and that he claimed he did so because he thought she was a chicken thief who had been active in the vicinity.

The policemen said that there was no chicken house in the immediate proximity of the spot where the girl, Bertha Count, was shot. Sabine said he credited Brent's story, thinking the latter mistook the Count girl in the dim light for an intruder.

Assassins Wound Calcutta Editor

Two Commit Suicide After Killing Attempt Fails; Third Escapes.

Calcutta, India, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Two men committed suicide by poison tonight after failing in an attempt to assassinate Sir Alfred Watson, editor of the Statesman, a daily newspaper. Sir Alfred was shot in both shoulders as he was motoring in the Maidan, a large parklike area in the heart of Calcutta. A third member of the group that tried to kill him escaped. Police found the automobile they used abandoned outside the city.

One of the bullets fired at the editor struck his chauffeur, who was seriously wounded, and another grazed the hand of Mrs. Rose Grose, his secretary.

Frequent threats against the life of Sir Alfred have been made by extremists, who objected to the policies of his newspaper. Last August an attempt was made to kill him, but he escaped uninjured. The assailants who fired on him today were in an automobile which drew alongside Sir Alfred's car. After the shots had been fired they sped away. Hospital physicians said the editor was in no danger.

NEW ASSAILS FARM TALK OF ROOSEVELT

Candidate Labels "Nebulous Theory" Plan, Says Former Cabinet Member.

(Associated Press.)

Harry S. New, former Postmaster General, said last night in a radio address that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, "was not able to present a single concrete proposition" in his speech at Topeka on the farm question.

In his speech, as issued through the Republican national committee, New asked: "What are the details of this nebulous theory which Gov. Roosevelt labels a 'plan?' Does it embrace the machinery of the export debenture plan? Or the equalization fee? Or the domestic allotment plan? According to Gov. Roosevelt himself, it is anybody's guess.

"What has been the history of attempted farm relief ever since the World War?

"The records show that there has been no body of men representing the interest of this country who have been called together more often in Washington, either of their own volition, or at the invitation of Presidents or by congressional hearings, than the group of men who are known as farm leaders, for the purpose of reaching some common ground and formulating some concrete plan for the relief of agriculture.

"I think I may safely say that there has never been a moment when either the President then in office and the Congress then in session, would not have welcomed and enacted into law an agreement thus reached."

Man and Woman Fined $50 Each on Rum Charge

A man and a woman were fined $50 each yesterday in Hyattesville police court on charges of possession of liquor, and another man asked a jury trial on similar charges. Those convicted were Elsie Herbert of Takoma Park, and John Chaney of Queen Anne. Charges against the woman of operating a disorderly house were dismissed. Brooke Watkins, who was arrested with Chaney, was freed of a possession charge.

James B. Hammond, of Brentwood, requested a jury trial on charges of possession and "brutal assault" on his wife. The wife-beating charge carries a whipping-post penalty, with the alternative of a jail sentence. H. J. Forney was freed on charges of hunting on a game preserve. He is a deputy forest warden, and lives near Hyattsville.

Railroads, Steel and Utilities Report Increases as Trade Review Says Survey of All Lines Shows Most Encouragement of Year.

Business developments yesterday, reported by the Associated Press, included:

Derby, Conn.—International Silver Plant here has increased its force 100 per cent and added a night shift to take care of an increase in business.

Chicago—The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad announced that carloadings for the week ended September 24 totaled 23,687 cars, compared with 22,799 the week previous and 25,656 for the like 1931 week.

New York—Steel ingot production this week has risen to an average of 17½ per cent of capacity, against 16 per cent a week ago, Iron Age reported.

New York—The National Electric Light Association reported that power production the week ended September 24 had increased 14,419,000 kilowatt hours over the previous week. The total was 1,490,363,000 kilowatt hours.

Chicago—Steel mill officials in the Chicago area estimate that pay rolls have increased approximately $30,000 a week as a result of the advance to 17 per cent from 13 per cent of capacity in steel ingot production.

Chicago—Bradstreet's said "reports covering all lines of trade and manufacturing are the best of the year." The R. G. Dun & Co. report was less enthusiastic, but emphasized the improvement in the wholesale field.

Chicago—Freight traffic on sixteen leading railroads last week was nearly 3 per cent heavier than in the previous week, with forecasts of continued improvement for the next three months, the Daily News said.

New York—The New York Central Railroad, because of improved traffic, announced a tentative program of expanded operations in its car and locomotive shops, beginning October 1. The plan calls for the employment of about 4,000 men.

Chicago—Rand-McNally & Co. reports that with two days remaining, bank closings for September show a decrease of 83 per cent, compared to September, 1931. Six new and reopened banks bring the total for the year to 293, nine more than for the same period in 1931.

Chicago—Charles G. Munn, president of the Reynolds Spring Co., announced that the company now has more than $1,000,000 worth of orders on hand. He added that large-scale orders aggregating between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 were pending, with prospects that a good portion would be closed within 30 days.

EARLY REPEAL VOTE BELIEVED ASSURED

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Sumners, of the House judiciary committee, yesterday in a statement said "resubmission of the eighteenth amendment" was a "foregone conclusion" and that it may be considered at the coming session of Congress.

The Texas Democrat always has supported the eighteenth amendment and he reiterated that he still held his convictions. However, he said:

"Regardless of the attitude toward the liquor question, the position of the major political parties and the other indications of public attitude and purpose established that it is a fact that the resubmission of the eighteenth amendment, as it is usually stated, is a foregone conclusion.

"Quite probably that issue will be submitted during the next session of Congress.

"It is my purpose to favor such submission. The question is right.

"The national campaign will be over and it would seem as good time as any to get this question back to the people for the expression of their attitude and judgment with reference to it."

Legislation calling for resubmission would be formulated by Sumners' committee. During the last session the judiciary committee reported unfavorably the Beck-Linthicum amendment calling for resubmission of the prohibition question. It was brought out on the floor for a vote by means of a petition signed by 145 members of the House and failed of adoption.

MOOSE OFFICIALS TESTIFY FOR DAVIS

Senator Gave Up Contract Prior to 1930 Drawings, They Tell Court.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—In an effort to show that Senator James J. Davis had nothing to do with Loyal Order of Moose departments said to have conducted $3,000,000 lotteries, the defense called a series of Moose witnesses today in the Federal court trial of Davis for violation of lottery laws.

Several officials of the lodge, of which the Pennsylvania senator is director general and "pilgrim governor," related conversations purporting to show that Davis had turned over his contract, as head of the organization department, to Fred W. Jones and Joseph Jenkins, before the first of the two alleged lotteries was promoted in 1930.

William F. Broening, former Mayor of Baltimore, who testified yesterday Senator Davis had told him he was so busy with other things he was going to turn over the organization work to Jones and Jenkins, underwent a grilling cross-examination lasting about half of the eighth day's session.

No Record in Books.

John H. Forrest, secretary and superintendent of the Pittsburgh Lodge of Moose of which Senator Davis is a member, testified there was no record in lodge books of Davis having bought a book of charity ball tickets.

The prosecution earlier had introduced an express company receipt to show a package of the tickets had been addressed to Davis and signed for by Jones.

William L. Brovel, a supervisor of the Moose organization department, said Jenkins had informed him in Cleveland that he and Jones had taken over the Moose organization department contract from Davis, and he was henceforth to make reports to them.

"In other words," he said, "he was telling me he was my new boss."

To attack the defense contention that Davis no longer was connected with the department after the purported agreement with Jones and Jenkins in Sharon, Pa., August 30, 1930, Louis Mead Treadwell, assistant United States attorney, brought out in testimony that at the Atlantic City convention in 1931, the Moose Lodge voted $125,000 be paid into the organization department, because Davis had advanced personal funds in its behalf in the early years of his work for the lodge.

Did Not Know of Drawing.

Neither Brovel nor Michael M. Mahoney, district organization supervisor for the Moose in Indiana, knew a drawing for cash prizes was to be held in Mooseheart January 3, 1931, when they attended a meeting there, they testified.

Treadwell brought out that Mahoney's expenses to the meeting were paid by the Moose propagation department, which promoted the charity balls, and the prize drawings connected with them. The witness did not explain this.

Charles H. Tuttle, of defense counsel, questioned Broening about a contract introduced in evidence by the prosecution between Theodore G. Miller and Bernard C. McGuire, concerning promotion of the balls. It was stated in the contract the plan had the backing of the supreme council, and the director-general (Davis).

Broening, a member of the supreme council, said he never heard of the contract or its terms.

District Sued For $50,000.

A depression in the sidewalk at Twentieth and Lawrence streets northeast yesterday formed the basis of a suit against the District Government for $50,000 damages. Nellie S. DeBaus, 3419 Twentieth street northeast, filed the suit through Attorneys C. C. Collins and A. E. Brault. She charged she was seriously injured when she stepped into the depression last January.

SHOUSE GIVES PLAN OF LIQUOR CONTROL

Says Only Ten States Would Have to Enact Laws if Amendment Goes.

St. Paul, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, told an audience here tonight that only ten States would have to enact legislation for liquor control in the event the eighteenth amendment is repealed.

Speaking before a group gathered under the joint auspices of his association and the Minnesota branch of the Womens' Organization for National Prohibition Reform, Shouse maintained that of the 38 States with some form of State liquor control 10 would be governed by constitutional prohibition. These statements were contained in the text of his speech, as given out by association headquarters.

Shouse said the courts had clearly established that in case of repeal the States desiring prohibition would be adequately protected against liquor shipments by the Webb-Kenyon act, which the Supreme Court in May, 1932, held to be still in force.

"From this decision of the Supreme Court," he said, "it is apparent that the legislation designed to give States the right to exclude liquor imports, and notably the Webb-Kenyon act by name, has not been repealed by the eighteenth amendment. It, therefore, follows that if and when the eighteenth amendment is repealed this Federal legislation remains on the statute books and becomes the controlling law of the land relative to the protection of dry territory."

Shouse expressed the opinion that under existing laws the States wishing "prohibition of the most rigid character, as well as those which may wish to set up publicly controlled State monopolies of liquor sales are assured of the protection of the Federal Government in their rights."

Greyhound Station Will Be Approved

P. U. C. to Permit Building of Terminus in New York Avenue.

An order granting the application of the Greyhound Bus Lines to establish a terminal at 1403-11 New York avenue will be issued by the Public Utilities Commission. The order will impose certain limitations, however, as to the number of arrivals and departures permitted during peak traffic hours.

The action follows a hearing held last week at which many indorsements of the proposed project were offered as against the sole opposition of the Riggs National Bank.

The terminal will be a modern structure with a circular driveway that will enable the buses to enter and depart without making a left turn. It will be on the border of the first or congested zone, from which all bus terminals are barred by the commission.

3 Capital Students Win School Honor

Three District undergraduates of Georgetown College were among the recipients of scholastic medals yesterday morning at exercises marking the formal opening of the 1932-33 academic year.

Jerome J. Downey, of this city, winner of the oratorical contest sponsored last May 24 by the District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission, was awarded two medals, each for oratory. He received the Dixon Medal for elocution and the Garvan Oratorical Medal as a result of competitions. Two other Washington students, Arthur F. Carroll and Robert J. Mawhinney, were awarded, respectively, the O'Brien Medal in Junior Philosophy and the Dahlgren Medal in Integral and Differential Calculus.

Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, addressed the student body assembled in Gaston Hall. Earlier in the day Dr. Nevils celebrated the Mass of the Holy Ghost in the seniors' Chapel of St. William's in honor of the new academic year, and the Rev. Vincent J. Hart, S. J., dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, celebrated a similar mass in Dahlgren Chapel for the undergraduates.

3 MEMBERS LEAVE MACDONALD CABINET

Free Trade Advocates Quit; Will Continue Battle in Parliament.

London, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Split over the tariff issues involved in the Ottawa conference agreements, Great Britain's national government today suffered a heavy loss by the resignation of three of its important members—Philip Snowden, the Viscount of Ickornshaw; Home Secretary Sir Herbert Samuel and Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary for Scotland.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald immediately set about reforming his cabinet along national nonparty lines. He moved Sir John Gilmour, Conservative, from the post of minister of agriculture to the post of home secretary; Maj. Walter Elliott, Conservative, succeeded to the agriculture portfolio, and Sir Godfrey Collins, Liberal, was made secretary for Scotland. These choices were approved by King George.

Lord Snowden's successor as lord privy seal was not immediately named.

Eight Others Also Quit.

Eight junior ministerial officials also resigned. The resignations were a mass movement of free traders out of the cabinet. All the ministers who retired were free trade Liberals with the exception of Lord Snowden, who fought shoulder to shoulder with Mr. MacDonald in the labor movement for 40 years.

Lord Snowden made his departure dramatic with a scorching attack on the national regime.

Fight in Parliament.

The free trade dissidents will fight the government tooth and nail in Parliament and throughout the country on fiscal issues, but otherwise they will cooperate.

Mr. MacDonald, resolutely determined to carry on the national regime established a year ago when Britain faced a financial crisis, declared that the problems of World War debts and reparations and of the impending world economic conference must be settled before his government's task will have been completed.

Griffith's Building Damaged by Fire

Georgia Avenue Blaze Is Fought Two Hours; Origin Unknown.

A fire of unknown origin last night damaged the second floor of a building owned by Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, at 2009 Georgia avenue northwest. Firemen battled for more than two hours in extinguishing the blaze, which attracted more than 1,000 spectators and stopped traffic on Georgia avenue.

Starting in a storeroom in the rear of the second floor, the fire spread to the front and roof of the building before it was discovered by a patron in the billiard room which occupies the first floor.

Firemen were forced to climb adjoining roofs in fighting the blaze because of the weakened condition of the sides and roof of the building.

Jennings Randolph Is Speaker at Rally

Addresses West Virginia Democrats at Gathering Held Here.

Mr. Randolph stressed the rising cost of government and the necessity for reforms. He declared that there are entirely too many bureaus, divisions and departments in the Government, and that the War and Navy Departments should be under one head.

John F. Costello, national district committeeman, opened the meeting. Nathan B. Williams, chairman of the speakers' bureau, presided. Heartsill Ragon, representative from Arkansas, will be guest speaker at a general rally to be held tonight.

18 PERSONS SEIZED IN CUBAN MURDERS

Martial Law Is Enforced After Five Political Assassinations.

Havana, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Eighteen persons were jailed today as suspects in the assassination of five prominent political leaders of Cuba. Martial law prevailed and the newspaper, Heraldo, was forced to make over its noon edition completely, eliminating much assassination news.

Police officials believed a number of participants in the gangsterlike slayings yesterday were hidden in houses in the Miramar suburb. Police squads were making a systematic search of the district.

The body of Dr. Clemente Vazquez Bello, friend of President Machado and prospective presidential candidate for next year, was sent this afternoon aboard a special train to Santa Clara, where it will be interred tomorrow.

Dr. Vazquez Bello's chauffeur, wounded in the back of the head in the fusillade of shots that mortally wounded his employer, was reported improving and expected to recover. The shots were fired from a passing automobile.

The funeral of the three brothers, Gonzalo, Guillermo and Leopoldo Freyre de Andrade, political opponents of Dr. Vazquez Bello, who were slain in their home, was held this afternoon. Last rites for Miguel Angel Aguiar, a leader in the unsuccessful revolt last August, who was fatally wounded in a third shooting episode yesterday, will be held tomorrow morning. He died today.

Thousands of persons filed past the body of Dr. Vazquez Bello, which lay in state under guard throughout the night and today in the national capitol. Cabana Fortress guns boomed every half-hour while all public assemblies, including a play-by-play presentation of the baseball world series in the United States, were suspended. The Liberal party, of which Dr. Vazquez Bello was president, suspended political meetings throughout Cuba.

Seven unidentified men, described as clad in white garments, broke into the home of the Freyre brothers shortly after the slaying of Dr. Vazquez Bello yesterday. Four held servants at bay while the others ran upstairs and killed the three brothers.

Four men were in the group which called Aguiar to the door of his home and shot him down at about the same time. The number who were in the automobile which fired dozens of shots at Dr. Vazquez Bello just after he entered his own car in front of his home, was undetermined.

Thieves Enter by Transom.

A quantity of clothing valued at $250 yesterday was reported stolen from the home of Joseph D. Dreyfus, at 1632 H street northwest. Entrance was gained through the transom over the front door.

CHARTER IS GIVEN TO U. S. WORKERS

A. F. of L. Squarely Behind Efforts for Protection, Manning Says.

Positive assurance that the American Federation of Labor stands squarely behind Government workers in their efforts to protect themselves against detrimental legislation was given by John J. Manning, secretary of the union label trades department of the American Federation of Labor, last night at a meeting of Tariff Commission Lodge No. 34, of the American Federation of Government Employes.

President David R. Glass of the national organization of Government workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, presented the charter to the new lodge.

"The labor movement never has taken a backward step yet. When President Green gave his word that he would build up a real organization he meant it," Mr. Manning said.

Notice was served by Mr. Glass that the American Federaiton of Government Employes will make an uncompromising fight to win back for Federal workers the advantages they have lost. He declared that when an organization pointed out the harmful features of any measure it should be prepared to devise a remedy. That would be done, he asserted, at the federation's convention on October 17.

"When the economy bill was before Congress I said it should be killed entirely," said Mr. Glass. "That is my personal opinion and I won't change it."

Proposed activities of the District department of the federation were outlined by Michael D. Schaefer, its president.

Preventing Starvation Held Only Part of Need

Calling attention to the necessity for supporting the character building institutions of Washington, John Melpolder, of the American Red Cross, yesterday addressed the Lion's Club meeting at the Mayflower Hotel on the work of building morale and counteracting the effects of the depression.

Mr. Melpolder pointed out that simply saving people from starving to death did not discharge the social, civic and humanitarian responsibilities of the public. He stressed the need for activities to occupy the great leisure time of the unemployed as a means of keeping them self-respecting, responsible citizens.

Beverley Describes Storm Damage as Seen From Air

Governor Tells of Destruction of Homes and Crops and of Flooded Highways After Trip Over Island Devastated by Hurricane.

Editor's note: Gov. Beverley spent two hours and fifteen minutes in the air yesterday surveying the damage done by the Puerto Rican hurricane. When he returned to San Juan he wrote the following description of the devastation he saw.

By GOV. JAMES R. BEVERLEY

(Written for the Associated Press.)

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—From the air the Puerto Rico storm area looks as follows:

Bayamon is in very bad shape. Half the poor type houses are down and many are unroofed. The sugar in central Juanita appears to have been destroyed and the cane is down everywhere. Trees fell toward the southeast.

The town of Comerio is little damaged. The trees are lying east and northeast. Bananas are down everywhere.

Between Comerio and Barros damage to houses and trees, except bananas, is slight. The trees lie southeast and east.

Damage Increases.

The town of Barros is slightly damaged. Forest trees appear intact from the air, but all bananas were destroyed. Bearing north from Barros toward Ciales there is slightly more damage to houses and trees. Utuado shows little damage from the air, the power lines are standing and some bananas.

Passing north of Lares, the royal palms show considerable damage, while banana trees are down all the way to Las Marias. Some poor type houses were unroofed although there was no apparent damage to the towns of Las Marias and San Sebastian.

Between San Sebastian and Mayaguez the power lines are intact. The cane is down and the royal palms are stripped. Mayaguez shows no damage, nor does Anasco, but the cane is partially down in this district and there is a great deal of flood water.

Homes Unroofed.

Flying from Anasco toward Quebradillas, crossing the hills opposite Rincon and Aguadilla, about 20 per cent of the houses in the hills are unroofed. The town of Moca shows no damage, nor does Central Eureka except for flood water.

Toward Isabella the wind evidently was stronger, with a number of country houses down. Cane and bananas appear flat on the ground. Trees lie south or southeast. At and near by Isabela it appears that 50 per cent of the houses suffered damages to their roofs.

The Quebradillas slum district appears damaged, but the rest of the town shows no ill-effects of the storm, but nearby many small country houses are down.

Turning inland from Quebradillas, conditions are better than along the coast until near Arecibo, where it appears the town is badly hit. I estimated one-third to one-half of the poorer houses are damaged or destroyed. Trees close to Arecibo lie southeast.

Roads Are Flooded.

Inland from Arecibo toward Florida the can is down, but houses appear intact.

At Manati sugar seems in good condtion and damage to the town is slight.

Approaching Vega Baja the damage increases. Central San Vicente is unroofed and the roads flooded. Central Carmen is unroofed and the cane is down everywhere. Many houses were destroyed along this coast.

The damage increases toward Toa Baja and Dorado, where conditions in both towns appear bad. Many houses were destroyed, especially at Dorado, where half the town is down.

Heading toward Toa Alta, the damage lessens, although I estimate one-third of the houses in Toa Alta were damaged or destroyed. Approaching Bayamon from Toa Alta, the damage becomes worse. In Bayamon the damage is terrible.

TOKYO PLANE RAIDO 'CLEW' IS DOUBTED

Navy Hears Overdue Fliers Landed in Alaska, but Mistake Is Feared.

(Associated Press.)

Hope that a trace had been found of the missing Japanese good will fliers, aroused by an intercepted radio message late yesterday, gave way last night to uncertainty and silence.

The message received by the Naval Radio Station at St. Paul, Alaska, from the Japanese station at Otchishi, was relayed to the Navy Department. It read:

"Our plane at top of River Mantanu in Alaska, where signaling with gunfire and lights."

It was believed at first to refer to the three Japanese fliers who disappeared last week en route from Tokyo for Nome and San Francisco and was sent to the Japanese Embassy.

Subsequent developments, however, indicated the message may have been garbled and referred to an airplane carrying two Americans missing from Anchorage, Alaska, since Sunday.

This theory was strengthened by the failure of officials to locate any Mantanu River in Alaska, coupled with reports from residents of the Matanuska Valley near Anchorage that they had seen flares along the route the two Americans would have followed.

It was considered probable that the "Mantanu" in the message should have been "Matanuska."

Services at Adas Israel.

Rosh Hoshanah services will be conducted by the Adas Israel Synagogue at 6 o'clock tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday evenings. Rabbi Solomin Metz will officiate.

Bay State G.O.P. Parley Will Get Coolidge Note

Boston, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The Massachusetts Republican State committee today announced a message from Calvin Coolidge urging the reelection of President Hoover and support of the State ticket would be read tomorrow night at a dinner on the eve of the State convention. Senator Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware, is scheduled as the principal speaker at the dinner.

The convention, to be held here Friday, will have Senator Felix Hebert, of Rhode Island, Eastern campaign manager for the national committee, as keynote speaker.

CHILEANS THREATEN DEPUTY OF REGIME

Antofagasta, Chile, Sept. 28—(A.P.). The authorities today arrested Gen. Armando Marin, who arrived by airplane from Santiago to succeed Gen. Pedro Vignola, deposed commander of the northern garrison here.

(Gen. Vignola protested against an order for military rule issued by Gen. Bartolome Blanche, acting president. The order was to hold until elections next month, but Gen. Vignola demanded immediate return to civil rule.)

Gen. Marin was compelled to sign his resignation before he could enter upon his new duties and was sent to a private home pending his return to Santiago on the first steamer.

A throng met Gen. Marin at the airport, jeered the government, and attempted to handle the general roughly, but the authorities intervened.

WALKER IS SOUGHT AS HOLMAN COUNSEL

Former Mayor May Assist the Defense of Singer in Death of Reynolds.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The Ledger, in a copyrighted interview tonight with A. C. Blumenthal, wealthy New York real estate man and personal friend of James J. Walker, says that the former Mayor of New York has been asked by the attorneys of Libby Holman Reynolds to defend the Broadway torch singer in her trial for the murder of Smith Reynolds, her husband.

Former Mayor Walker has not yet accepted the invitation, the Ledger quotes Mr. Blumenthal, who said that he expected Walker to announce he would join the defense when he returned from Europe Monday. The invitation reached the former mayor the day he sailed for Europe, Blumenthal said.

The Ledger says Blumenthal emphasized that his own offer of a $100,000 annual retainer to the former mayor to be his personal counsel made when Walker resigned, was in no way connected with the Holman defense invitation.

That offer still stands, Blumenthal said in the interview, and added: "There is no connection between my offer and the Holman case. The invitation to defend Miss Holman came directly from Miss Holman's attorneys."

Valuable Gold Deposit Found.

Brawley, Calif., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Discovery of a valuable gold deposit in the desert, 60 miles west of Blythe, near the Colorado River, was reported here by a group of prospectors. Ore specimens were said to assay $110 a ton.

PUERTO RICO HURRICANE RELIEF WORK IS SPEEDED

Rico Red Cross this afternoon undertook a survey of the storm area to determine how many thousands were homeless and what they needed in the way of foodstuffs, clothing and medical supplies.

The storm was limited to the north coast of the island from Fajardo on the east to slightly beyond Arecibo near the western end. It covered approximately one-third of the island's area.

"Fate has dealt us a tremendous blow," Gov. Beverley said in a message to the people. "We must and will take it like men and set to work to build our island again better than ever before.

All Called on to Aid.

"No moping, no lamenting, grim determinatoin is the word; hard times and bad circumstances bring out the best that is in a people. Everybody to work."

Although not one building of the University of Puero Rico escaped damage, and the assembly hall was destroyed, the university chancellor announced that classes would resume on Monday.

The sanitarium near Rio Piedras was wrecked and many patients, too ill to be moved elsewhere, were being cared for in the basements of structures left standing.

At Las Monjas track fifteen race horses were killed in the hurricane and others were injured.

Town Razed Except Church.

Elmer Rodenbough, Pan-American Airways pilot, reported after a flight over the northeastern section of the island that in the town of Luquillo only the church was left standing.

(Associated Press.)

A belief the tropical hurricane that ravaged Puerto Rico has diminished in intensity was set forth last night by the Weather Bureau here in an advisory warning locating the storm between Navassa Island and Jamaica.

The warning follows: "Advisory, 9 p. m. — Tropical disturbance, diminishing in intensity, can not be located definitely, but probably centered between Navassa Island and Jamaica, moving westward at about 15 miles per hour. Caution advised vessels in path."

Informing Secretary Wilbur that the full force of the blow had struck the Virgin Islands, Gov. Pearson said $20,000 was needed for relief. The Secretary immediately asked the Red Cross for that amount. The relief organization forwarded $5,000 to the islands and authorized chapters in larger cities in the United States to accept contributions for storm relief.

Hoover Asks Information.

Previously, President Hoover had messaged Gov. Beverley of Puerto Rico, expressing regret at the disaster and asking information to facilitate relief measures.

In a message to the War Department later, Gov. Beverley said a survey showed there had been great destruction along the island's northern coast. He said a preliminary estimate indicated 200 dead, more than 1,000 injured and thousands homeless. The citrus crop had been destroyed, he reported, and there were fears that the coffee crop in the western part of the island had been wiped out, too. Communications to the Navy and Red Cross also reported acute conditions.

Gov. Pearson did not report loss of life, but said details were lacking from St. Croix and St. John. "Our local funds inadequate to meet immediate urgent conditions," he messaged. "Many people are homeless and hungry."

William E. Pullian, receiver of Dominican customs, told the War Department yesterday all was well in Santo Domingo, but that agriculture had suffered.

Hoover Expresses Grief Over Storm Catastrophe

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday cabled Gov. Beverley of Puerto Rico expressing grief over the disaster and asking an immediate report in order that relief measures might be instituted.

The Presidents text follows:

"I am deeply grieved to learn of the death and destruction visited upon the people of Puerto Rico and their possessions, and wish you please to report to me at once the salient facts of the situation, especially those looking to immediate provision of any relief that can be supplied by our public agencies."

HOUSE BODY VOTES 2-CENT MAIL RATE

Chairman Mead (Democrat), New York, asked Treasury Department officials in charge of the public building programs to "dispense with red tape" and expedite work on the projects to provide employment.

L. C. Martin, aid to Assistant Secretary Heath, of the Treasury, told the committee that $74,000,000 of business under the relief act would be pushed, but that the Treasury had 200 projects under its regular construction program to place under way during the next few months.

"According to what you say," Chairman Mead exclaimed, "very little relief will be given this winter under the relief program. In other words, it will not get underway until next year."

Martin said that Congress had failed to provide for any additional personnel to handle the $200,000,000 program and that the architect's office was working overtime to acquire sites and let contracts for construction.

James A. Wetmore, supervising architect, told the committee that approximately 50 per cent of the architectural work on the 425 projects in the Garner-Wagner relief bill was being turned over to private architects in order to expedite work. Chairman Mead also asserted the Postoffice Department was unjust in administering the economy law.

"President Hoover said the furlough plan, if adopted, would put 20,000 substitute postal workers to work," Mead said. "Instead of giving 20,000 men work, they are driving the 20,000 substitutes in the service to starvation."

Thomas F. Flaherty, secretary of the National Federation of Post'office Clerks, said that the department was "guilty of flagrant violations" of the economy law in that it did not give substitutes work on Sundays and holidays.

Decline in the volume of revenue due to the 3-cent rate on first-class postage was responsible for the laying off of substitute workers, Flaherty said.

Washington Kiwanians Visit Towson, Md., Club

Four members of the Washington Kiwanis Club, headed by Edwin F. Hill, president, visited the Towson, Md., club last night. An educational meeting was conducted.

Mr. Hill emphasized to the members the value of having a thorough knowledge of the aims and ideals of the organization, so that they could give the best service to the community of which their club is a part.

Charity Groups Get Whisky Jars.

Following a precedent set last year, Prince Georges County police yesterday turned over to charitable organizations, 43 cases of empty half-gallon jars which had contained whisky, seized in recent arrests. The jars are distributed to women for canning fruits and vegetables for the poor.

They are not present in Luckies . . . the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Today's Newest Home-Heating TRIUMPH!

A joint production of American Radiator and Petro-Nokol... the ARCO-PETRO... a boiler-burner heating unit... provides hot water, too... and eclipses every advance ever announced in automatic home heating!

HERE'S TODAY'S biggest news in home heating... a triumph that revolutionizes even this year's advances in automatic heat... that overnight eclipses achievements that have been announced with wide publicity.

A combined burner-boiler and hot water heater ... with low-cost operation PROVED by actual use in hundreds of homes.

Sold on our Public Service Plan that actually enables you to pay for it, month by month, out of its demonstrated savings.

Engineered to the minute by the originators of automatic oil heat and the world's leading manufacturers of home heating systems.

Backed by the biggest name in heating equipment. An institution famous the world over. Foremost in its industry for half a century. American Radiator!

And in an allied field another noted name. The name of oil-burner pioneers. Makers of the largest line of automatic equipment—Petro-Nokol. Recognized as the most successful firm of its kind. Petroleum Heat & Power!

Only natural that they should work together ... to produce a burner and a boiler made for each other as one homogeneous, self-contained unit.

The Arco-Petro Leads World in Automatic Heat

The Arco-Petro is no mere laboratory experiment. After long and careful testing it was actually installed... in hundreds of homes... in all parts of the country.

It was tried under all sorts of climatic conditions, in dwellings of many different sizes and designs, and with the widely varying qualities of fuel oil sold locally.

It was designed by a nation-wide organization of experienced, practical heating men, engineers whose sole duties and daily activities have been concerned with the heating system as a whole, not with the boiler alone.

Proven by Years of Use

Only after several years' use under actual operating conditions in the home is the Arco-Petro offered to the public at large.

For now there can be no doubt of its amazing efficiency.

One enthusiastic user after another testifies to the saving in fuel costs, varying from 33⅓ per cent to over 50 per cent under previous heating costs.

With the Arco-Petro you can forget about your boiler. Just set the thermostat for whatever temperature you wish. You don't even have to start or stop it from one year's end to the other.

The Arco-Petro provides you with hot water winter or summer—all you can use!

With fifty years of heating experience and twenty-nine years of oil burner experience back of it, you'd expect the Arco-Petro to be efficient. You'd expect it to be thoroughly quiet... and it is.

You'd expect it to require little servicing and you are not surprised to find it requires scarcely any. Its efficiency is guaranteed by the unified service and undivided responsibility of the two companies which make it.

On the other hand, you are surprised at its beautiful pastel colors, its immaculate cleanliness in operation, freedom from dirt, soot and odor, and the utter simplicity of its construction.

Mechanism Sealed and Concealed

The mechanism is out of sight, sealed and concealed from curious or mischievous fingers. Yet in a mere hour or two this mechanism can be changed over . . . to burn gas if it burns oil, to burn oil if it burns gas.

It comes in a complete range of models and sizes to fit steam, hot water or vapor systems. There's one that exactly meets the needs of your own heating system.

Come and inspect the Arco-Petro. Learn the easy terms on which it may be yours. Then make up your mind to enjoy the many comforts of completely automatic heat, including all the hot water you can use the year 'round.

And remember that the Arco-Petro establishes a new standard for low-cost heating.

See your local PETRO-a-NOKOL DEALER or your own HEATING CONTRACTOR.

● In your heating system the boiler, the piping—the valves—the radiators—the chimney—each is only one part, just like the individual parts of an automobile. For best results ALL PARTS must function together with perfect teamwork.

The Arco-Petro is especially designed to fit American Radiator equipment. When you consider heating improvements ALWAYS consult your heating contractor.

We supply the oil, too. As the world's oldest and largest oil heating organization, we complete our service by supplying you with our own oil in our own trucks from our own oil terminals. This insures the right oil for your burner and provides undivided responsibility for the proper functioning of your oil burner and oil supply.

The first automatic oil burner ever sold for residential use was a Petro-Nokol and was installed in an American Radiator boiler in the home pictured above, located in Detroit.

RAIL STABILIZATION.

The formation of a committee, headed by former President Coolidge and including four other distinguished Americans, for the purpose of studying the railroad problem, may prove to be a turning point in the history of transportation in the United States. Every one agrees that widespread changes are necessary to put the railroads on a sound footing once more. Dozens of plans have been offered to correct various defects in the existing setup, but no comprehensive study of the whole problem has been made. The work of this distinguished committee will probably crystallize public opinion on the subject as nothing else could.

Railroad men are conscious of the fact that the era in which the railroads had a monopoly on transportation has passed. President Hoover and the Interstate Commerce Commission also have taken cognizance of the new situation by urging a revision of the basis for making rates, regulation of interstate carriers that compete with the railroads, and consolidation of the roads into stronger systems. Congress seems to recognize that something must be done, but not much attention has been given to the problem thus far. A comprehensive study by a committee of recognized leaders will not only focus public attention on the changes that have come about in the transportation industry, but may also serve as the basis of corrective legislation.

The committee is asked to study the railroad problem from all angles with due regard for the fact that the railroads are an integral part of a complicated transportation system. The welfare of employes, taxpayers, railway security holders as well as the public will be considered. It will be the task of the committee to devise means of putting the carriers on a sound business basis without denying to the people the most effective and economical form of transportation that is available.

Tinkering with the transportation act will not bring about satisfactory results. Old theories of rate-making and competition must be brushed aside in view of changed conditions. This does not mean, of course, that the rail carriers should be plunged into an entirely new situation. Actual changes will doubtless come about gradually. Congress will hardly revolutionize railway legislation in a single act. But an objective should be set up toward which all changes will contribute. In pointing the way to that objective the railroad stabilization committee has a wonderful opportunity for service.

SLAVERY IN LIBERIA.

Liberia, the Negro republic established a century ago as a haven of freedom for that race, has become a sore spot in international relations. The entire trouble seems to be that the United States, which is a sort of god-father to the African republic, strenuously objects to the practice of slavery among the natives who established a republic to escape that abomination. The League of Nations also objects to slavery, but it seems to be unwilling to take steps that would put an end to the practice.

Secretary Stimson insists that the advisers to be sent to Monrovia by the League shall have authority enough to make themselves useful. The prevailing opinion in Geneva seems to be that advisers should have authority only to make suggestions to the Liberian government. That is the customary attitude of the League. It is quite agreeable to Liberia, but no one pretends that it will result in the abolition of slavery.

An international commission went to Liberia to investigate slavery in 1930. It found that the natives were using slavery "to a shocking extent" with the knowledge if not the complicity of government officials. After publication of this report the Liberian government sent an official declaration to the League, asserting that all slaves had been freed and that recruiting of involuntary labor had ceased. Yet slavery still exists in Liberia, and the practice will doubtless continue until it is stamped out by international pressure.

It is futile to argue that Liberia needs "advice" on this problem. That country has had many times as much advice as it has been able to use during recent years. The designation of advisers from Geneva is merely the League's way of sidestepping this situation.

If an international commission is to accomplish anything toward the abolition of slavery in Liberia, it must have authority to act. The government of Liberia has been unable to stamp out this practice. If that government is sincere in expressed wishes to abolish slavery, why should it not join with the League in granting an international commission authority to put the desired reforms into effect instead of issuing advice about them? The State Department has done well to take a determined stand. World opinion will not support the irresolute policy of the League in dealing with such an affront to humanitarian sentiments.

THIS SIDE THE CORNER.

Returns from a questionnaire widely circulated among banks and investment houses throughout the nation have been tabulated by an important New York investment trust. They report that definite improvement of business is under way. More than four-fifths of the answers received express optimistic sentiments regarding the general situation, while 86 per cent believe that the low level of security values has been passed.

The replies received from 351 independent financial institutions, largely those dealing in investment securities, came from twenty-seven States, representing all sections of the country. Affirmative replies to the question as to whether general business conditions were improving numbered 295 against negative opinions, 41; uncertain, 15. Upon the question as to whether a positive upturn in security prices had come the answers were: Yes, 302; no, 29; and uncertain, 20.

Speaking of this poll made by the Distributors Group, sponsors of North American Trust Shares, the largest fixed investment trust in the United States, President Hugh W. Long said the purpose of the inquiries was to determine the sentiment of an important cross-section of the country on important questions and to seek guidance from men who, by the very nature of their business, are especially familiar with and influenced by conditions in large and small communities throughout the United States.

This showing from representatives of financial interests coincides with the reports of commercial agencies, trade bodies, industrial groups, and a multitude of individual concerns throughout the length and breadth of the country. A distinct change is noticeable in the character of the reports now being received. For a while indications of improvement were limited to expressions regarding improved sentiment, a better feeling; now that phase has passed. The restoration of confidence is an accepted fact, and reports refer to better prices and more business activity. Only those who do not want to see improvement can fail to find many signs of encouragement in the present situation.

SEED LOAN RELIEF.

By direction of the President, the Secretary of Agriculture is notifying farmers owing money on seed loans that they will be required to pay only 25 per cent of the loan out of this year's crop, provided they will agree to secure the remaining 75 per cent of the debt on such terms as may be authorized by Congress. This ruling releases the wheat crop of this year in most cases and enables farmers to provide for their families. The amount outstanding on seed loans is approximately $87,000,000.

A demand will be made that farmers be released from the seed loans. The request should be granted. Congress has often relieved hard-pressed agriculture from obligations which could not be met without extreme hardship or ruin. A notable example of this was the virtual cancellation of claims against farmers in reclamation districts. The farmers entered upon reclamation projects with fine prospects, but one setback after another made it impossible for them to pay instalments upon the purchase of their farms. Congress found means to relieve them and get them a new chance to establish homes. This generous policy should be adopted now, in view of adverse conditions for which no one is responsible. In the meantime, pending action by Congress, the administration arranges to release most of the wheat crop from the seed debt, so that wheat can be marketed.

CANADIAN DIFFERENCES.

Millions of American tourists visit Canada every year. During the summer months there are more American than Dominion cars seen upon the highways. Yet despite the frequency of contacts there is, throughout the United States, an astonishing amount of ignorance about these northern neighbors. In an interesting study of international relations in Harper's Magazine Merrill Denison tells how frequently his American friends are surprised to hear that Canada does not pay taxes to King George, or contribute any support to the British navy. There is greater knowledge of the hunting and fishing regions and magnificent scenery than of the government or sentiment of the people.

Travelers are frequently surprised to find so little in the appearance of Canadian towns to distinguish them from those across the border. Magazine and newspaper features are syndicated from the United States, the talkies are from Hollywood, the radios tune in on American broadcasts, and hundreds of millions' worth of American goods enter Canada annually. Thus Canadians are thoroughly familiar with every phase of American life, and certainly the tide of economic and cultural influence should engender a greater desire for a better understanding of America's closest friend, best customer and keenest critic.

It is interesting to note what a Canadian feels has been the result of these influences upon the Canadian attitude. Few actions by the United States are found to have been to Canada's advantage, except that this very policy has served to strengthen the Dominion's independent spirit. Mr. Denison finds that the indifference of America has been the most potent force in creating Canadian national consciousness.

Canada glories in her independence and in the feeling that in many respects she is better off than her southern neighbor. Not without reason is it maintained that the Canadian banking system has shown its superiority in the present depression. Gang power has never threatened a Canadian city, and respect for law is more general there than here. Criminals are brought more quickly to justice, due to a judicial system that is less complicated by politics.

A justifiable pride in their national achievements is manifested by Canadians, and the conquest of a vast territory by a comparatively small population deserves study by other nations. The friendly trade negotiations in which Canada as a member of the British Empire has been negotiating can bring no reproaches from the United States. American factories in Canada will share in advantages for their products that are barred to the parent concerns, and any benefits accruing to the general prosperity of British nations can not fail to aid American exporters.

WASHINGTON CATHEDRAL.

The citizens of Washington, irrespective of creed, share in the spirit of rejoicing with which the 25th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of Washington Cathedral is celebrated today on Mount St. Alban. Although the mighty edifice seems to take shape slowly when watched from day to day, it is in reality making marvelous progress as compared with the tedious construction of similar edifices in former centuries.

Bishop Freeman and his associates are entitled to the congratulations of the public for the energetic and persistent method employed in carrying on the building of this structure. Notwithstanding the depression and the delays in obtaining financial aid, the cathedral authorities are keeping many men in employment, thereby protecting hundreds of dependents.

As the vast cathedral expands in beauty and strength, the pride of all Americans is aroused in the manifestation of the fact that the devotion of ancient times, expressed in structures as spacious, beautiful, and enduring as the hands of man could fashion, is not lacking in these modern days. Stone upon stone the testimonial of faith rises to defy the storms of modern unbelief; and each stone, once in its place, stands forever. Of the builders it will be said in future ages, as was said of the hands that rounded Peter's dome, "They builded better than they knew."

The League of Nations is on trial for its life, and may ask an advisory opinion of the world court as to whether to plead guilty.

Whenever Gov. Roosevelt annexes a radical Republican he sends chills down the donkey's prophetic spine.

Gov. Bill Murray is 15 programs ahead of Gov. Roosevelt for curing the national depression.

Senator Norris will be a tower of strength in inducing Republicans to vote the straight ticket.

SIGNIFICANT GAINS

From the Atlanta Constitution.

Significant indication of the definite turn for the better in economic conditions is to be found in the export and import figures for August, announced by the Federal Department of Commerce.

During that month, which was marked all over the country by unmistakable signs of reviving business and confidence, our foreign trade shows an increase over the preceding month in both exports and imports for the first time since December. The growth in our commerce with other countries was the largest since March of last year.

In August we exported $2,150,000 more goods and commodities than in July and our imports jumped $11,000,000.

In addition to these encouraging figures on foreign trade, gold imports were larger than exports for the first month of this year.

Cotton textiles and staples figured largely in the increase in exports and add to the significance of the figures, because such increase in the demand for the South's chief product has always been the first definite movement in the final disappearance of former depressions.

Reports of the Sixth Federal Reserve District, comprised of the South Atlantic States, show that this section has at no time suffered as extremely from the depression as other sections of the country. The rise in the price of cotton has put it far in the lead in the turn toward normal conditions.

All in all, Atlanta and the South generally have every right to enter the fall season of business with full expectation and confidence that the worst is over and that, benefiting from the lessons learned during the past three years, this section is destined for its era of soundest and most prolonged prosperity.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE PIONEER.

He came too soon, and, being here,
He tried to tell as best he could
What none of us quite understood,
Although to him the fact was clear.

Fanatical at times he seemed,
Insisting that with him we see
Forward a quarter century
And dream the splendors which he dreamed.

We thought him wrong because our sight
Lacked the far vision his possessed.
Oft of his dreams we made a jest.
Now time has proved that he was right.

Friends' pity and the common fears
Of darkness and the vast unknown
And always to press on alone.
Such is the fate of pioneers.

Weeds Soon Claim the Field If You Quit Planting Other Crops

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE so-called emancipation of women threatens to become a major race tragedy.

It is now generally conceded that women were treated unfairly in the time of our fathers. They were denied liberty, treated as inferiors, and taught to be "dutiful."

Their natural and inevitable reaction was to envy men and to resent the obligations imposed by their sex. At some time in her life every girl worth her salt cried rebelliously: "I wish I were a boy!"

Small wonder! And small wonder that women saw in the assurance of "sex equality" an opportunity to escape their sex.

Those who resented man's assumption of superiority did not employ their new opportunity and privileges in an effort to become finer women. They tried to be men.

Having so long envied masculine liberties, they now paid men the compliment of imitation. They were determined to do as men did, and to prove their equality they adopted men's habits, vices and jobs.

But this was not enough. Men do not bear children. Therefore the woman who would prove herself a good man must refuse to be a mother.

That is the tragedy that threatens America's future.

With few exceptions, the women who win renown by reason of their daring or skill or cultural attainments are childless women. They prove their ability to win a man's game, but they are failures as women.

Does that seem an unfair criticism? Well, women alone can bear children. The future of the race depends on them. What will become of the white man's civilization if all of our women prove their equality by refusing to bear children? How long will America last if our ablest women leave the duty of motherhood to their inferiors?

America's birth rate is falling. But the illiterate, the least desirable foreign element, the poor whites and poor blacks of the South and the isolated rural groups but one degree removed from imbecility continue to reproduce their kind.

Those who realize the danger can do little to lessen it. The trend has begun and there is but one way to stop it.

Appeals to patriotism avail no more than reproaches. The only effective appeal, in this as in all other matters, is an appeal to self interest.

Childbirth is a dreadful ordeal and motherhood is a career that leaves the ordinary woman neither time nor energy for any other.

The only way to combat birth control is to offer compensations that will make motherhood a profitable and coveted privilege instead of a duty.

Insurgent Committee Jobs.

Kansas City Times.

It is indicated that both Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, and Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, who have failed to get renominations, may run independently. Such a course might result in the election of a Democratic senator in Iowa, though hardly in Wisconsin, because of the great preponderance there of Republican over Democratic votes. In both instances there is no consideration for the party to which these gentlemen belong only in name and by virture of their committee positions. There is no consideration for sportsmanship which requires a man who has entered a contest to submit to the outcome, unless he has been cheated out of the victory by fraud, which is not charged in either State. Should their independent candidacies result in the election of two Democratic senators, or even one, they would contribute to the upsetting of the Republican Senate majority, and, with Democratic control, the present insurgent colleagues of the two senators would lose their cherished committee chairmanships.

Norris Tags Roosevelt.

New York Herald Tribune.

Entrance of Senator Norris into the national campaign as a champion of Gov. Roosevelt is not surprising. But somehow we suspect the Democratic presidential candidate would be just as well pleased if the Nebraska senator should call off his coast-to-coast stumping trip. For some time Mr. Roosevelt has zealously sought to impress upon the business interests that he was not so radical as they might have been led to believe. * * * But Senator Norris is not amenable to the strategy of the Democratic high command. He believes Gov. Roosevelt stands 100 per cent for all his liberal ideas and is now faring forth to tell the world. Just at the time the governor will be seeking conservative votes in the Eastern and the border States Senator Norris will be trumpeting his liberalism throughout the land.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Original Boundary of District of Columbia Should Be Restored. Growth of Capital Demands Greater Area.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In 1788 Maryland ceded some territory to the United States, followed by a similar cession of territory on the part of Virginia in 1789. This ceded territory, which was 10 miles square, comprised the District of Columbia. The Virginia portion, that is, the part west of the Potomac and now comprising Arlington County, was retroceded to Virginia in 1846. This act of retrocession resulted in destroying the symmetry of the District of Columbia. The original plan was that it should be a perfect square, 10 miles on each side. The White House was in the exact center of the square.

I think that the portion which Virginia took back should be restored to the District. I am quite sure that the residents of Arlington County would favor such a move. Then the District of Columbia would contain 100 square miles of area instead of 70 square miles, as at present. The National Capital is rapidly growing and its original area is needed for this expansion. The territory should be under its jurisdiction exclusively.

F. J. MILLER.

Defends Government Restaurants and Suggests That Private Establishments Emulate Them.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It has been with some amazement that I have noted the opposition of certain politicians to eating places in the government departments. While restaurants under government management are efficiently serving officials, clerks, and the general public in the Capitol and other government buildings, and while these restaurants are not only a convenience but an economic asset, it is difficult to find any consistent reason for the wordy objection voiced by Mr. Shannon and others.

There are many reasons why government employees are grateful for government-operated restaurants in the departments, but a few will suffice. First, these restaurants are conveniently close at hand, and with but half an hour for lunch, the employe appreciates that. Second, better food and service are obtained in government restaurants than in most of the private ones. Third, these restaurants bring some financial profit to the government.

It occurs to me that Mr. Shannon would offer a genuine service to the people of the United States in general, and to the National Restaurant Association in particular, if he would point with pride to the cafeteria in the new Commerce Building and urge that restaurant owners emulate its sanitary methods. When restaurant owners become willing to cease giving the public adulterated foods in untidy establishments, when they will offer only clean, wholesome and pure food at reasonable prices—then they will not need to worry about competion, Government or otherwise. From all directions the world will beat a trail to their doors. In the meantime, let us be thankful for Government standards as they are upheld in Government food shops.

G. UNDERWOOD.

Democrat Urges Gov. Roosevelt to Cut Out Brotherly Love Talk With Insurgents.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If Gov. Roosevelt had announced that he was only 25 per cent in agreement with the insurgent Senator Hiram Johnson, such a statement would have astounded thousands of Democrats who believe in party regularity. But when he comes out with the statement that he is 100 per cent in agreement with the senator he is inviting disaster to his own party's hopes in November. Conservative Democrats who believe in party loyalty and who are convinced that stubborn opposition to every policy advanced by the party leaders is a sign of anything other than progressiveness, will be alienated from the leadership of any man who thus gives his approval to mislabeled politicians in Congress.

As a consistent Democrat, I can stand a lot that is said in the heat of campaign oratory for the purpose of winning votes, but there is a limit beyond which a presidential candidate should not go. That limit is not only reached but passed when either of the parties' candidates publicly extols politicians in Congress who have consistently fought every policy and measure advanced by the leaders of the party to which they claim to belong.

Having due regard and hopes for my party's success, my advice to the leaders, and especially to the governor, is to go a little slower on that brotherly love stuff in praise for those insurgents in Congress in both parties who are always fighting their majority leaders. Unless this is done more votes will be lost than gained by such tactics.

A DEMOCRAT.

Fairly Emphatic Opinion of a Dry on Restoration of Liquor Traffic.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The liquor people are trying to palm their regime off upon this nation by use of arguments that can not be sound. One is that liquor will bring back better moral and economic conditions. Liquor will certainly bring more smashed cars, more killed and maimed people, more drunkards, more wrecked homes, more brawls, more children robbed of rights, more terror-stricken women, more heart-broken fathers and mothers, more lost positions, more poverty in homes. If liquor will accomplish what the wets claim, then "the pillared firmament is rottenness and earth's base built on stubble."

Miss Mildred B. Clarke Wed To Louis Fleming Peak.

The marriage of Miss Mildred Blaine Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Lynn Clarke, to Mr. Fleming Peak, son of Mrs. Louis R. Peak, took place yesterday morning in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Chevy Chase, with the rector, the Rev. Thomas Smyth officiating. In the sanctuary with Father Smyth were his brother, the Rev. James Smyth, of Baltimore; the Rev. Phillip McGuire, of Baltimore; the Rev. John Cooper, of Catholic University; the Rev. J. J. Brady, of Myersdale, Pa.; Mgr. Edward P. Buckey, rector of St. Matthew's Church; the Rev. W. Coleman Nevils and Father Gifford, of Georgetown University.

The church was decorated with white roses and palms, with clusters of roses and smilax marking the pews where members of the two families were seated. The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a costume of ivory antique satin made along princess lines. The upper part of the sleeves were large, full puffs, heavily beaded. The long, flaring skirt formed a pointed train at the back. Her tulle veil was arranged in a cap effect and she carried orchids and roses.

Miss Helen Ann Selecman, of Miami, Fla., was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Jessie Deane Simmons, of Norfolk; Miss Betty Lybrook, of Winston-Salem, N. C.; Miss Peggy Walsh, Miss Betty McNally, Miss Jean Kirkwood and Miss Marjorie Prevost, all of Washington. They were dressed alike in costumes of crepe made with net inserts in the yokes of the bodices and full puffs of net forming the upper part of the sleeves. Narrow belts marked the normal waist lines and the skirts flared. Miss Selecman was in pale coral color and two of the bridesmaids were in lavender, two in yellow, and two in green. Their turbans were of velvet to match their frocks and they carried small chrysanthemums and asters in autumn shades.

Mr. Richard Charlesworth, of New York, was best man, and his brother, Mr. Charles Charlesworth, of New York, was an usher. The other ushers were Mr. Lynn Anderson, Mr. Donald Buckingham, Mr. Frank M. Doyle, Mr. Harry F. Farrar, Mr. James E. Jones, jr., Mr. Robert E. Lammond and Mr. Hugh Reilly.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents with only members of the two families and a few close friends in attendance. Mrs. Clarke wore a gown of brown lace, the upper part of which was bois de rose lace beaded in brown beads. She wore a brown velvet turban and a shoulder bouquet of talisman roses. Mrs. Peak wore black velvet and a small black hat. Mr. and Mrs. Peak will sail for Europe on their honeymoon and will return in time for Thanksgiving. They will reside in Washington. The bride wore as a traveling costume a brown and beige crepe gown with a small hat.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Kinsley Low, of Providence; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Foster and Mr. Edward Rowan, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. James Edelin, of Baltimore; Mrs. Louis J. Murray, of Grand Rapids, Mich., sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey HHton, of Park Hall, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Walker and their daughters, Miss Helen Walker and Miss Evelyn Walker, and their son, Mr. Francis S. Walker, have returned to their home on Ashmead place after spending the summer in Europe.

Mrs. David Tennant, of Red Gate, Oatlands, Va., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Anne Buffington Tennant, to Mr. Southgate Lemmon Morison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Holmes Morison, of Melbourne, Loudoun County, Va. The marriage will take place this fall.

Miss Claudia Sutton Married To Tremaine E. Rambo.

The marriage of Miss Claudia Sutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Sutton, of Lee Heights, Va., and Mr. Tremaine Edmons Rambo, of Oakwood, Tex., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Rambo, of Oakwood, took place yesterday at noon in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of cream satin and lace, the lace forming the long, fitted sleeves, and the deep inset in the back and front of the bodice. She wore a cap of lace edged with satin and carried a shower bouquet of pink and white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Martha Sutton, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a quaint costume of orange taffeta cut on princess lines, with tiny puffed sleeves. She wore powder blue accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and delphinium.

Mr. Frank Hale, of Jewett, Tex., was best man.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony, after which Mr. Rambo and his bride left for a wedding trip, the latter wearing a black and white costume of Russian crepe. They will be at home on their return at 3010 Wisconsin avenue.

Mrs. William LaVare has returned from New York where she went to meet her son, Mr. Andre LaVare, who recently returned from a six-month trip around the world, and his bride, the former Fraulein Ilse Laechle, of Vienna. Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Lucas have had as their house guests at the Broadmoor Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holmes Beecher, of Louisville, Ky., and Miss May Wood Wiggington, of Denver, Colo.

Prof. and Mrs. A. F. Wilson, with their two sons and Miss Mary Sherwood Wilson, have come here from Rogers Rock Club, Ticonderoga, N. Y., where they have been spending several weeks, and have engaged an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Adna R. Johnson have returned to their apartment in the Broadmoor after several weeks in London and Paris.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is in New York for a meeting of the board of directors of the National Council of Women. Mrs. Poole will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Akron and Summit County Federation of Women's Clubs in Akron, Ohio, October 5. On the following day she will address the Lake Erie College for Girls at Painesville, Ohio. Last week Mrs. Poole addressed the Maine Federation meeting in Showhegan; a field meeting of the New Hampshire Federation at Lebanon and the Business and Professional Women's Club in Manchester, N. H.

Mr. Donald MacDonald 3d will number among his guests for the dinner and dance at the Rossdhu Castle Club Saturday evening, Mr. Georges de la Barra, Senor Jose Tedrro, of the Pan American Union, Senor Don Ulises F. Espaillat, Ssecond Secretary of the Legation of the Dominican Republic, and Senora de Espaillet. Dr. Juan Mendoza Almenara, First Secretary of the Embassy of Peru, and Senora de Mendoza will come in later for the dancing.

Miss Macomber to Wed On November 8.

Miss Virginia Macomber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Macomber, has selected November 8 as the date for her wedding to Mr. Alexander C. McFarlain, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McFarlain, of New Orleans, La. The wedding is to take place at the Petworth Baptist Chuch at 8 o'clock in the evening. The Rev. H. J. Smith will officiate.

Miss Macomber has chosen her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jean I. Macomber, to be her matron of honor and the other attendants will be the Miss Eleanor Ellis, Miss Helen Grindle, Miss Pattie ReVelle, and Mrs. Doris McAllister. Mr. Richard Bedell will act as best man for Mr. McFarlain and Mr. Hayes Jackson, Mr. Raymond W. Macomber, brother of the bride; Mr. Edward Quinn and Mr. Robert Sharp will be ushers.

Mr. Denis E. Connell, chairman of the production group and of the administrative council of the Drama Guild of Washington, will give an address on "Play Analysis With Relation to Production" before the Pierce Hall Players, All Souls' Unitarian Church, tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock.

In addition several of the Lisa Gardiner Dancers will present a short program of dances. Eda Vomachka and Christine Stewart will give a Spanish peasant dance to the music of "Jota," by d'Salla, and Fillis Speich will interpret "Alt Wien" by Godowsky. Mrs. Edith H. Hunter will accompany them.

Afterward refreshments will be served, with Mrs. K. Hilding Beij, Mrs. J. M. Aldrich, Mrs. Howard L. Knight, Mrs. W. A. Page and Miss Mabel van Dyke as hostesses.

Estate Bequeathed To Charity School

John T. Mattingly's Will Leaves Farm in Trust for Poor Children.

Special to The Washington Post.

La Plata, Md., Sept. 28.—The will of John T. Mattingly filed in Orphan's court, leaves his entire estate to charity. It stipulates that all his property be devised to the trustees of McDonough Charity School of Charles County.

Mr. Mattingly's estate consists of a tobacco farm of about 207 acres of land, together with farm implements and equipment and household furniture.

Mr. Mattingly was a member of the board of trustees of McDonough Charity School for nearly 33 years. He was 82 years old when he died.

The board was formed in 1804 when Maurice J. McDonough, a peddler residing at Pomfret, this county, died and left his life's savings to a board of trustees to be used to educate poor children. The income from the present fund is used to send worthy applicants from McDonough district to college. The income is sufficient to carry five students annually.

The members of the present board are Walter M. Page, president; J. Neale Hamilton, Judge W. Mitchell Digges and McLane Cruikshank.

West Virginians Plan Woods Fete

Elkins to Hold Third Annual 3-Day Festival, Beginning October 6.

Elkins, W. Va., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—A queen of a realm of red and gold will rule the forests next month when West Virginia calls for homage to autumn in what is said to be the only forest festival in the East.

As the Winchester blossom festival ushers in the season of productivity, so residents of West Virginia bid farewell to summer in their mountain State forest festival, now in its third year.

A three-day program, beginning October 6 with the coronation of Queen Silvia III, will call hundreds to this little mountain city to revel in the beauty of the woods in fall colors. Queen Silvia, who is Miss Emily Maxwell, of Charleston, daughter of a supreme court judge, will have a court of 26 princesses from various districts of the State.

LINDBERGH SUSPECT IS SEIZED IN ILLINOIS

Photographer Is Held After Flier Receives Anonymous Letter.

Harrisburg, Ill., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—On the strength of an anonymous letter received by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the Illinois State highway police tonight were holding Dennis Lawrence, 30-year-old photographer, in jail here as a suspect in the Lindbergh kidnaping.

New Jersey authorities said they had no interest in Lawrence, however, and Col. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey State police, refused to send an investigator to Harrisburg to question Lawrence.

Sergt. E. J. Gibbons, who arrested Lawrence last night at Marion, Ill., on orders from his superiors at Springfield, Ill., said tonight Lawrence denied having anything to do with the kidnaping.

"I did not question Lawrence at length," Sergt. Gibbons said, "but when he asked me what he was being held for I told him it was in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping."

Gibbons quoted Lawrence as saying: "I've got plenty of witnesses to prove I didn't do it." Gibbons said he would hold Lawrence in the county jail here until orders came from Springfield to release him.

Gibbons said the letter, which was sent to Col. Lindbergh at Trenton, N. J., was unsigned.

"The writer advised the police to arrest Lawrence and gave directions as to where he could be found," Sergt. Gibbons said. "It said Lawrence knew all about the kidnaping. All that I have is the letter and orders to hold him for questioning. I don't know where the envelope is. The handwriting appears to be that of a woman. I don't know who sent the letter to my superiors at Springfield."

Asked if Col. Lindbergh might have sent the letter to the State police, Gibbons replied, "I don't know."

Lawrence was arrested in an automobile with his wife and two children. He told Gibbons he was about to leave for Chicago. Dennis operated a photographic studio at Passaic, N. J., but left there early this year. About two weeks ago he opened a studio at Metropolis, Ill., but operated it only a short time.

DAVIS TRANSFERRED FROM CRIME BUREAU

say, however, that the functioning of the Crime Prevention Bureau of late has not been satisfactory."

Transfer of Davis to the Second Inspection District post is believed to have been the culmination of several disagreements between the superintendent and inspector since the crime-prevention unit was established.

Davis and Gen. Glassford first came into public controversy when the police head directed a report from the inspector with regard to raids made under his supervision and in conjunction with Federal authorities on a meeting of radicals the day after the bonus army was evicted.

Gen. Glassford at the time declared his belief that Davis had not asked for instructions on the action. Davis submitted an order issued in the administration of Supt. Pratt which he said authorized his action, and, for the time being, the matter was ironed out.

Controversy between the two again occurred after the report of Attorney General Mitchell concerning the bonus army, in which Inspector Davis was said to have declared he was ordered by Gen. Glassford to keep his detectives out of the bonus camps on July 28, the day of the bonus riots.

Davis' explanation at that time apparently was satisfactory and any disagreement between the two appeared to have been ameliorated.

The men transferred "without prejudice" from the crime-prevention unit were Precinct Detective P. E. Ambrose, to the Detective Bureau, and Privates F. N. White and W. F. Sager to the First and Second Precincts, respectively.

"These three men," Gen. Glassford declared, "made two raids Saturday night, directly contrary to my orders. According to the plan under which the Crime Prevention Bureau was established, it was to function purely as an information-gathering body, while the suppression of vice was to be left to the precinct commanders.

"Knowing this, these men last Saturday raided a gambling house in the 400 block of N street and a house of prostitution in the 1400 block of Twelfth street.

"There have been several instances lately of members of the Crime Prevention Bureau taking the suppression of vice into their own hands, and I had decided that the next offenders would be reprimanded."

"The assignment of Inspector Beckett to headquarters is temporary until we see how it works out," Gen. Glassford said. Capt. Jeremiah Sullivan, who has been Inspector Davis' assistant in command of the crime prevention unit, will assume direction of the bureau for the time being.

Detective Sergt. C. C. Stepp, of the Crime Prevention Bureau, was transferred from this unit, but it was made plain that this was because of the need of an extra man in the Detective Bureau, where Stepp will go.

The crime prevention division, an innovation here in police work, was established last May 15 by Gen. Glassford. At that time it was reported that Inspector Davis was the only one among older officials who agreed with the police head that the step was a feasible one.

At the time it was pointed out that in other cities no more than five men were assigned to such work whereas Gen. Glassford assigned a captain, five detective sergeants, three uniformed sergeants, eleven precinct detectives and sixteen privates to the new bureau.

Business Men Protest Federal Competition

Opposition of Representative Joseph B. Shannon, of Missouri, to Government retailing of goods at factory prices to Federal employes, was upheld last night by members of the Wisconsin avenue-Macomb street Business Men's Association, held at 8715 Macomb street northwest.

Delegates to the Federation of Business Men's Associations were elected. They are R. E. Morrison, S. B. Eisenberg and J. W. McGarry.

ment cafeteria, where 2,000 are fed, to a small room in the basement of the Weather Bureau, accommodating 28 persons.

Restaurant service in Government buildings is not confined to the noon meal. Three meals, breakfast, lunch and dinner, are served at four of them—the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Government Printing Office, the so-called War Department cafeteria at Eighteenth and D streets northwest, and the City Postoffice.

Five restaurants, Commerce, Internal Revenue, Interior, Postoffice Department and the Mall cafeteria serve breakfast as well as luncheon.

The person outside the Government service is not absolutely barred from any of these restaurants. At the Bureau of Engraving and Printing the only manner in which an outsider may eat is as a guest of an official; this is also true at the Weather Bureau.

At all the other restaurants there is no attempt to bar the public. However, officials at all of the departments and bureaus declared nothing was done in any manner to encourage outside patronage.

With one exception, no signs are used either on the outside of buildings or within to indicate the presence of an eating place. The exception is the War Department cafeteria at Eighteenth and D streets northwest, where an outside sign is displayed.

Department officials and persons in charge of the various restaurants were agreed that any patronage by persons not in the Government employe was negligible. Occasionally, at the Bureau of Standards and at the Government Printing Office, groups holding conferences as guests of the Government establishments are invited to use the restaurants.

None of the restaurants in Federal buildings pays a license fee to the District government as is required of private restaurant enterprise. Nor are they subject to inspection by the municipal board of health. These conditions are due to lack of jurisdiction, the municipal government having no authority to collect a fee for an establishment in a Federal building.

Monopoly on Location.

Each restaurant in each building has a monopoly on the location. There is no competition within.

Three large departments are without cafeterias or other eating places. They are the Departments of Agriculture, Labor and Justice. It was learned that a cafeteria in the Department of Agriculture is projected.

The origin of these eating places is attributed to several causes. Many were begun during the World War period when there was a great influx of Federal workers and their concentration in temporary buildings in the Mall area. In fact, the two chief justifications for the restaurants as put forward by departmental officials are either concentration or isolation, both of which make some lunching facilities necessary during a half-hour period. The two cafeterias established during the war period are still operating. They are the Mall Cafeteria and the "Food Administration" or War Department Cafeteria, at Eighteenth and D streets northwest.

Before and After War.

The history of others both predates and antedates the war era. Eighteen years ago the Bureau of Engraving and Printing cafeteria was established, principally because employes were not and still are not allowed to leave the building during their working period. In 1903, when the Bureau of Standards was moved to its present location, then extremely isolated, facilities were provided for the serving of luncheon. A recently established restaurant is that in the Government Printing Office. It was begun after demand of workers in 1922.

But is Uncle Sam's finger in the pie? What is the interest of the Government in these enterprises, aside from the welfare of the employes? Does the Government receive a profit or incur a loss in money or its equivalent?

Interests Are Divergent.

The Government's interests are as divergent as the four ways in which the restaurants are operated. From some a profit is derived, others are directly subsidized and in still others Uncle Sam appears as a benevolent landlord who exacts no rent or charge for privileges such as light, heat and gas.

The restaurants are administered in four essentially different manners, by committees of Congress, by a corporation, by concessionaires and by groups of employes.

In an article in tomorrow's Post four methods by which restaurants in Government buildings are operated will be described in detail.

HOOVER GIVES WHEAT FARMERS MORATORIUM ON SEED LOANS

tension by the December session, however, the President has authorized the department to accept settlements on the 25 per cent basis.

Impossible to Repay.

"Present low prices make it practically impossible for wheat farmers to repay their crop production loans without incurring grave risk of need during the winter," the White House statement said.

Secretary Hyde announced two weeks ago that the Department of Agriculture would not press for repayments from those in distress, but the existence of the Government lien upon the crops prevented, in many cases, their sale through normal trade channels.

Repayment of the 25 per cent and the extension of the balance, under yesterday's decree, will remove the technical lien against the crops and thus permit their sale.

"Upon payment of such 25 per cent and execution of the agreement," the White House statement concluded, "no further payment will be required until opportunity has been given Congress to pass on the question involved."

Applies in Wheat States.

For the present, the order will apply chiefly to the middle-northwest States, in which most of the wheat loans have been placed. The partial moratorium, which has been initiated and approved by Congress for similar governmental advances in other sections in previous years, is becoming the usual procedure in seed loans.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde declared publicly last March that the terms and conditions under which these loans were made, as directed by Congress, made the United States Government "the prize financial boob" of history. He warned that by no stretch of the imagination could they be regarded as business transactions. But there was no alternative under the law, he pointed out, but to make the advances under the terms and conditions set down by Congress.

Confirming the need for further credit relief for agriculture, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Department of Agriculture, yesterday made public a survey showing that 5 per cent of all the farms in the United States which are under mortgage, are mortgaged to more than 100 per cent of their present value.

3,500,000 Mortgaged Farms.

While the national average is 5 per cent, the ratio in the Middle Northwest section is higher, standing at 7.6 per cent of present value.

There are, roughly, 6,000,000 farms in the United States. Approximately 3,500,000 of them are under mortgages.

Approximately 37 per cent of the mortgaged farms are indebted for more than half their value.

"As of January 1, 1932," the report states, "25.4 per cent of the mortgaged farms were indebted for 25 per cent or less of their value; 37.9 per cent were mortgaged for between 25 and 50 per cent of their value; 21 per cent were mortgaged between 50 and 75 per cent of their value; 10.7 per cent were mortgaged between 75 and 100 per cent of their value, and 5 per cent were mortgaged for more than 100 per cent of their value.

"The proportion of farms with high debt ratios was found in the survey to be largest in the West-North Central States, where 7.6 per cent of mortgaged farms reported debt in excess of their value on January 1, 1932."

mingled in the clubbiness of a ravine. And there was none to say the bandits nay—because, with a short-wave radio tuned to the frequency of the police broadcasting station, they kept an excellent check on the activities of roving police cars.

"I talked back," said little Miss Mildred Fair, who goes to Central High School. "They grabbed me and one said, 'If you don't shut up, I'll shoot your head off.'"

Pockets were searched and cash tumbled out. Nobody knew how much. The robbers grew carefree and the guests chilly. The last two couples to arrive were on motorcycles, rounding out an even score and five.

"Hotcha!" said one bandit. "My wife will be by here pretty soon. We'll send her after some beer and maybe have a real party."

But the beer never came. A motor whirred. Four bold guests roared off into the night in a successful dash for freedom.

JOHN S. WILLIAMS, ONCE SENATOR, DIES

Mississippian, 30 Years in Congress, Was Typical Southern Statesman.

Yazoo City, Miss., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Former Senator John Sharp Williams died last midnight at Cedar Grove plantation, in the old mansion that cradled him in childhood, and his body will be buried tomorrow under the elms of the family graveyard hard by.

His body will rest among scenes he loved. The mocking birds that sing in the elms at dawn, Negroes humming soft and low at eveningtide in their cabins near "the big house," moonlight on broad acres of cotton—all of these were dear to the heart of the statesman who served in Congress nearly 30 years.

He was 78 and his health had failed rapidly in recent months. Death was not unexpected and many of his kinsmen reached his bedside before he expired.

The house that knew the romping of his boyhood will become his funeral chapel tomorrow. Services will be held at 10 a. m., conducted by the Rev. Edward Reynolds Jones, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church in Yazoo City. Then the coffin will be borne to the nearby cemetery, where many generations of the Williams and Sharp families are buried.

Retired From Congress in 1923.

Former Senator Williams retired from public life in 1923 and came home for the quiet and peace of plantation life. But before his retirement stretched a public career that extended well past a quarter of a century. Far and wide, he was regarded as a typical statesman of the old South.

Among his friends he was as gentle as his beloved Grandmother Sharp, who reared him after his parents died, but in public, if the occasion arose, he was a fighter of great tenacity.

In 1917 he stamped the Senate floor in rage over delay in declaring war on Germany. His greatest national performance came during the administration of Woodrow Wilson, because of his stanch support for the President's League of Nations' plan. His voice frequently rang out in the Senate chamber during the fight—sometimes with biting sarcasm, for which he was famous, and again in eloquent appeal for the President's proposal.

Clashed With Vardaman.

The league issue led to a bitter break between Senator Williams and his colleague, Senator James K. Vardaman, of Mississippi. That breach was never healed, and when Pat Harrison opposed Vardaman for reelection some time later, Senator Williams took an active part in Harrison's successful campaign.

Former Senator Williams was born at Memphis, Tenn. In 1877 he started the practice of law and was married the same year to Miss Dial Webb. Seven children were born of the union.

Elected to the House in 1893, he served there sixteen consecutive years. In 1908 he was elected to the Senate and served there until his retirement.

Hoover to Greet 3 Cuban Aviators

Trio, on Tour of U. S., to Give President Message of Good Will.

A message of good will from the Cuban government will be presented to President Hoover today by three Cuban army officers, who arrived here yesterday on their good-will tour of the United States.

The officers flew here from Dayton, Ohio, and were entertained yesterday afternoon by Dr. Jose Baron, charge d'affaires of the Cuban Embassy. They are Capt. Mario Torres, flight commander; Lieut. Rudolpho Herrera and Lieut. Pablo Alonso. They are flying planes built by the United States for the Cuban government.

Trade Board Unit Pays Edson Tribute

Is Praised by Membership Group as Fall Drive Is Opened.

John Joy Edson, 87-year-old member of the Washington Board of Trade, was paid high tribute yesterday by the membership committee of the organization in opening its fall season of activity to enlarge the group.

Among present and former officials of the board praising Mr. Edson were E. J. Murphy, George Plitt, E. C. Brandenburg, E. C. Graham, W. W. Everett and George Offutt, all former presidents; Milton F. Schwab, William R. Ellis, Luther W. Linkins, John Saul, Charles J. Waters, Charles P. Crane, H. Clifford Bangs, C. J. Gockeler and Elmore T. Burdette, chairman of the committee.

Mr. Edson, in his response, particularly emphasized national representation for the District as one of the major objectives of the board, declaring, "There is every reason why we should have a voice in our Government and no reason why we should not."

New Chest Feature Put on Air Tonight

Mrs. Keefer, Soprano, to Be First Soloist of "Album of Artists."

The Community Chest "Album of Artists" program will be inaugurated tonight over Station WMAL from 7:45 to 8 o'clock. Mrs. Flora McGill Keefer, well-known soprano, will be the feature artist, accompanied at the piano by Margaret Annis.

Mrs. Keefer, who has made phonograph recordings, has given concerts at the Mayflower under the management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene and has studied both abroad and in this country. Her program will consist entirely of requested old favorites and popular numbers.

The Chest program will be given every night during the winter. Many artists have contributed their services, including many groups and instrumentalists, as well as solo numbers.

ATLANTA MILK WAR ENDS IN PRICE RISE

Mayor Forces Agreement Between Distributors and Dairymen.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—A milk war in Georgia marked by several outbreaks of violence came to an end today as representatives of Atlanta distributors and dairymen signed an agreement for basic prices.

The settlement was reached after Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta called the opposing groups into conference and discussed the situation "with gloves off." After nearly four hours of argument, the mayor interrupted the proceedings to outline a plan which was promptly adopted by both sides.

Under the agreement, the basic price for milk purchased by Atlanta plants will be 16 cents a gallon beginning October 1, 18 cents beginning November 1 and 20 cents December 1.

Columbus Roberts, president of the Georgia Milk Producers Cooperation, Inc., which called a holiday September 21 on milk shipments to Atlanta from twenty counties, expressed gratification over the terms of the settlement. He said dairymen previously had been receiving "about 12 to 14 cents per gallon for milk, with most of it going at 12 cents."

The agreement provides for the creation of a seven-man commission, three representing the producers, three the distributors and a seventh man to be chosen by the two groups, which is to settle all future disputes.

After the agreement was signed, Roberts said the holiday on milk shipments had been called off immediately.

James M. Burns Rites Tomorrow

Retired Superintendent of Cemetery to Be Buried in Mount Olivet.

Funeral services for James M. Burns, 78, of 1629 Hobart street, resident of Washington for more than 50 years, who died Tuesday from injuries suffered August 12 when he was struck by a street car at Mount Pleasant and Irving streets northwest, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, Sixteenth street and Columbia road. Interment will follow in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

A coroner's jury yesterday morning, upon hearing details of the case and testimony from the various witnesses, returned a verdict of accidental death. Mr. Burns suffered a fractured skull.

Mr. Burns was born in Kingston, N. Y., and came to Washington when he was 30 years old. For 35 years he was superintendent of the cemetery in which he is to be buried. He retired last year. He was a director of the Georgetown Building and Loan Association and a member of the B. P. O. Elks, the Holy Name Society and a charter member of the local chapter of the Knights of Columbus. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. George F. Blewett, of Cynwood, Pa., and Mrs. H. W. Price, of Washington.

LIEUT. BAKER RITES TODAY

Army Flier Killed In Honolulu To Be Buried In Arlington.

Lieut. George Cook Baker, 27-year-old Army aviator killed at Honolulu last March while participating in a farewell maneuver for a departing transport, will be buried at 2 p. m. today in Arlington National Cemetery.

Lieut. Baker was graduated from Leland Stanford University in 1927, later attending March and Kelly Fields for training. Finishing the air courses in October, 1930, he was sent to Honolulu for foreign service. It was while on duty that he met his death.

The body was brought to the United States on the Army transport St. Mihiel and arrived in Washington yesterday morning accompanied by Baker's uncle, John A. Cook, of Chicago, and his aunt, Mrs. Susanne Adams, of Honolulu. He was a native of Mariette, Wis.

Keegan Will Head Catholic Charities

Omaha, Nebr., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Mgr. Robert F. Keegan, of New York, was elected president of the National Conference of Catholic Charities at the closing business session of the group here today. He succeeds J. F. Murphy, of Detroit.

New York was selected as the site for the 1933 convention, which will open the first Sunday in October. Directors accepted an invitation to take the 1934 meeting to Richmond, Va.

Mgr. James H. Ryan, rector of Catholic University at Washington, was reelected honorary president and William P. Lynch, Omaha, was named first vice president. Other vice presidents included Anthony J. Bodie, Detroit; Jack J. Spalding, Atlanta, Ga.; Miss Mary C. Duffy, Newark, N. J., and the Rev. Edwin L. Leonard, Baltimore.

Thomas F. Farrell, New York, and the Rev. John A. O'Grady, Washington, D. C., were reelected national treasurer and secretary, respectively. Mgr. Keegan, the new president, is secretary of charities to His Eminence Cardinal Hayes, of New York.

LEE MURDER TRIAL GOES TO JURYMEN

Man Accused in Slaying of Family of Four Does Not Take Stand.

Towson, Md., Thursday, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Euel Lee, Eastern Shore Negro, was found guilty by a circuit court jury early this morning of murder in the first degree for the murder of Green K. Davis, Taylorsville, Md., farmer.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 28.—The fate of Euel Lee, on trial for the murder of a family of four last October 11, was in the hands of a Circuit Court jury at Towson, tonight, after both defense and prosecution rested their case at 10:30 p. m.

The trial was the second accorded the Eastern Shore Negro, accused of killing a Taylorsville, Md., family of four last October 11. The first trial was held early this year at Towson and resulted in conviction and the imposition of the death penalty.

The case was taken to the Court of Appeals, however, and a new trial awarded on the ground that Negroes had not been considered for service on the jury that heard the case.

The arguments were begun late in the afternoon when defense attorneys, to the surprise of those in the courtroom, completed presentation of their case without calling Lee to the stand. Lee testified at the first hearing. The general impression prevailed that he would be called at the retrial.

Instead, Lee remained slumped in an armchair, just behind his attorneys, a position he had maintained throughout the three-day trial.

The defense contented itself with calling but three witnesses and then only for the purpose of attacking the credibility of two State witnesses—"Aunt" Martha, an elderly Negro woman who keeps a boarding house at Ocean City, 6 miles from Taylorsville, and Charles F. Howe, a neighbor of the family of Green K. Davis, for whose murder Lee is being tried.

"Aunt" Martha was the State's star witness. She testified in regard to the finding of articles owned by members of the Davis family in Lee's room at her boarding house.

Post "Ad" Man to Speak.

The Advertising Club of Washington will hold a luncheon meeting today at 12:30 p. m. at the Raleigh Hotel. George H. Barrows, promotion manager of The Washington Post, will address the meeting on "Passing the Buck in Advertising."

LEAGUE NOW FACING SHORTAGE OF MONEY

64 Per Cent of Contributions for 1932 Received; Reich Among Delinquents.

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 28 (A.P.). The League of Nations is in a bad way financially, it was revealed today when the proceedings of the recent secret council session were published.

Reporting that only 64 per cent of the contributions for 1932 had been received up to September 19, Carl Hambro, of Norway, a member of the supervisory commission, asked that the true situation be disclosed to the assembly, and to all league members.

"If it should be impossible for the assembly and the secretary-general to induce states that have not paid to send their contributions this year, the league will be in a very difficult financial position at the end of the year," he said.

"It may be faced with the fact that in the first two months of next year it will either have to obtain a loan or be incapable of paying its officials.

"No additional work can be undertaken and no conference summoned if the members of the council and assembly are unaware of the financial position."

Nevertheless, the league treasurer took a hopeful view, expressing the opinion the budget would be balanced with the help of a 13 per cent saving effected on the disarmament conference appropriation.

A number of Latin-American nations are in arrears. Germany is the only large country that is delinquent. Germany deposited her contribution in a German bank under a closed account which must be expended in Germany. The outlook was improved during the last few days by the receipt of several contributions.

Mrs. L. B. Pitcher, 93 Years Old, Dies

Resident Claimed by Long Illness; Interment Probably in Arlington.

Mrs. Louisa B. Pitcher, long a resident of Washington, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William H. Meitzler, 3329 Nichols avenue southeast, following a protracted illness. She was 93 years old.

Mrs. Pitcher was the widow of Capt. David L. Pitcher. She was born in Royalton Center, N. Y., in 1839. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Pitcher is survived by a son, David L. Pitcher, jr., of the United States Soldiers' Home.

It is expected Mrs. Pitcher will be buried Saturday in Arlington National Cemetery.

EMANUEL STEINEM RITES.

Native of Germany, Capital Citizen for 60 Years, to Be Buried Today.

Funeral services for Emanuel Steinem, 77, a resident of Washington for 60 years, who died Monday night at his home, 4700 Connecticut avenue, will be held at 10 o'clock today at Geier's Funeral Home. Interment will be in the Washington Hebrew Cemetery.

Mr. Steinem came to this country from Baden, Germany, when a small boy and lived for some time on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. After coming to Washington, he established a loan business. He is survived by his widow and two sons, Albert E. and Lester H. Steinem.

SOCIALISTS OUTLINE 'PLAN FOR AMERICA'

"Breakdown of Capitalism" Is Cited in Plea to Voters by Norman Thomas.

Chicago, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The Socialist party of America tonight made public "a plan for America," setting forth 128 pages of reasons why Norman Thomas should be elected President of the United States.

Outlining completely Socialism's stand on what the party declares to be "the only true issues in the campaign," unemployment and farm relief, the campaign booklet attacks both Republican and Democratic parties for "coming to life to fight about prohibition in the presence of starvation."

One chapter is devoted to an article by Thomas, who declares: "Socialism in America seeks not to destroy democracy, but to fulfill it." He declared a vote for Socialism was "not so much a waste of the ballot as was a vote cast for the lesser of two evils by a citizen dissatisfied with both the Republican and the Democratic parties."

"Breakdown of Capitalism."

"Before our eyes," Thomas' article says, "the Socialist prediction of the breakdown of capitalism is being fulfilled. In less than four years from the time our gamblers' civilization was at the height of its boasted but tinsel prosperity, this collapse has come.

"Ten per cent of the banks of the United States failed in 1931; today there are approximately 12,000,000 unemployed, and a large part of the farming class is on the verge of bankruptcy.

"In this situation the major parties met in their conventions in a city whose mayor has frankly warned Congress that it must choose between giving Chicago some relief or sending Federal troops before the end of the winter."

Both Platforms Rapped.

The article goes on to say that "in the face of such circumstances" neither the Republicans nor the Democrats adopted constructive or positive platforms. He described the Republican platform as "vague, wordy, indecisive and designed to get votes from the fear-ridden workers."

"Wall street will not have much cause for worry about politics until voters begin to vote for something definite and positive," the article states.

Eighteen other writers have contributed to the booklet, including Paul Blanchard, executive director, and Henry J. Roaner, research director of the city affairs committee of New York, both of whom criticize Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt as "never having done one thing to eliminate corruption in New York City government."

The contribution of James H. Maurer, Socialist candidate for Vice President, is headed: "Every man has a right to earn a living for himself and his family. If he is not allowed to earn it, he has a right to it anyway."

Only Woman Warrant Officer Relieved of Post

(Associated Press.)

Olive L. Hoskins, the only woman warrant officer in the army, was relieved yesterday from her present assignment at the Seventh Corps Area headquarters in Omaha, and ordered to report to the commanding general of the Philippine department.

Miss Hoskins in a native of Berkeley, Calif., and her home is at Pasadena. There have been only two woman warrant officers in the army, and the other retired some years ago.

by prison-garbed waiters and were "fined" the price of drinks by a kangaroo court judge; the Oak Tavern, the Reel Cafe, the Kit-Kat, the 1808 Club, the Cotton Club, the Novelty Club, which identified patrons by their birth dates, and Hollywood Gardens. Nearly all were reported by the raiders to have contained elaborate gambling devices. Less imposing establishments were visited later and the drive continued until dawn.

Women screamed, bottles were smashed and doors broken down. Patrons were held for hours and many were permitted to go later, but 150 persons were taken to prohibition headquarters where 78 were especially listed as operators or employes.

Fancy Equipment Seized.

De luxe trappings, long shiny bars and fixtures, gaming tables, chuk-a-luck cages and bric-a-brac were dismantled and carted away to warehouses under supervision of Federal agents all day. The ornate mahogany bar taken from the novelty club was said to have won a prize at the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis.

One of those present when the raiders appeared at the 1808 Club was a deputy sheriff from Wyandotte County, Kans., who wes released after explaining he was there to serve legal papers on the proprietor.

One of the places raided was that of the Pusateri brothers, alleged to have operated an elaborate saloon and restaurant for the elite trade on the north side across the market square from police headquarters. Federal agents said they have been forced to move before, but always stayed in the same neighborhood.

Work Held Demoralized.

Hutchinson, Kans., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Prohibition agents who figured early today in raids which closed more than 30 night clubs and alleged speakeasies in Kansas City and vicinity and resulted in 150 arrests were charged here today with demoralizing enforcement work in Kansas.

Col. Amos W. Woodcock, national prohibition administrator, heard leaders of a group of citizens protesting the suspension from the prohibition service of John Madden and his associate, Brice Armstrong, "stormy petrels" of the Ninth District enforcement group, dropped from the rolls after defying orders to turn over evidence on which they based liquor tring charges.

He was told by the Rev. W. C. Temple, of Dodge City, that prohibition enforcement has been a signal failure under the present district officers and that Madden and Armstrong were hampered and opposed in all their efforts.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Chicago, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The imprint of the sole of a canvas shoe on a store counter today remained the only clew police had in the slaying of Miss Mabel Chenoweth, 60, found dead in the rear of her candy store, her skull fractured and he throat slashed. An early theory that the killers were robbers was discarded. Inquiry failed to reveal any relatives of the dead woman.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The Manufacturers Trust Co. filed suit for approximately $30,000 damages today, charging that Charles A. Levine, first transatlantic airplane passenger, used a stock certificate as collateral for a loan on which a broker's signature had been forged. Levine and Columbia Air Liners, Inc., of which he is president, are named as defendants.

Chicago, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Daisy and Violet Hilton, Siamese twins, who said they were born in England—not Siam—23 years ago, applied for naturalization papers to become citizens of the United States.

Indianapolis, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—State police were puzzled today by the finding of a large sedan buried 8 feet under ground near San Pierre, Ind.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Mrs. Charles Irwin, of Los Angeles, wife of a vice president of S. W. Straus & Co., stationed on the West Coast, was killed today in a plunge from a window of the fifteenth story suite in the Hotel Ambassador she was occupying with her husband and 8-year-old son.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, Democratic national committeeman from New Jersey, said today on his arrival from France that beer will be back by March if Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is elected President.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Instead of having beaten Ralph O. Brewster, Republican, by 1,177 votes for United States Representative from the Third District, John G. Utterback, Democrat, now has a lead of only 294 votes in a tabulation of State election clerks' returns, compiled in the State House today.

REICH TO POSTPONE PAYMENT DUE U. S.

before July 2, 1932. On June 30, 1932, the German Ambassador stated to the Secretary of the Treasury that the German government desired to make the payments due September 30, 1932, to the United States on account of the mixed claims and army costs, but that in view of exigencies which might arise making it impossible for the German government to pay he would be obliged to give notice of postponement then and there, unless he could have some assurance of the Secretary of the Treasury that the 90-day notice would be waived if the German government should find it impossible to make the payment.

"In order to prevent such a premature decision and in hope that postponement would not prove to be necessary, the Secretary advised the ambassador that if Germany delayed its decision the 90-day notice would later be waived if the German government should decide before September 30 that it must give notice of postponement.

"Such notice of postponement as provided in the original debt agreement has now been received, and the Secretary of the Treasury has waived the 90-day notice in accordance with his assurance to the German Ambassador."

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A certain shade of blue-green can be combined with green-blue in a lighter shade, the one decidedly blue, the other decidedly green. These two colors combined and worn over dull silver lame (lahmay) make this unusual evening gown, worn with two-tone cape and two matching shades in gloves. Slippers of the darker shade. (A Dah-ray Design.)

HUGE fur collars are seldom seen in the smartest collections, nor on the smartest ladies this fall. Not that elaborate and expensive fur trimming is out of date—far from it! But it has just meandered somewhere else than around her pretty neck. Bands of fur around the bottom of coats, of jackets, cuffs and smaller collars of the more expensive furs are smart.

Evening coats run to velvets and the red and Burgundy shades, and on these does one see the expensive trimming of chinchilla and sable, silver fox and all the more expensive furs. Else they aren't trimmed with fur at all, but ostrich or twisted fabric of some sort, either another color in velvet, or a brocaded lame (lahmay).

The Beauty Sorceress Says:

"As to that make-up for the new colors, ochre tones in powders, used with mandarin rouge and orange lipstick, will make the most sun-kissed complexion blend in with any of the new fall colors—those red and bottle-greens and off-shade purples that are so hard to wear without the proper make-up.

"And for the new brown tones, brown mascara and brown salve above the eyes will give that mysteriously alluring look to the wearer, which will make her outstanding among any group of lovely ladies."

Color, color, subtle color. That's what the clever woman will look for in her new clothes, knowing how a clever and becoming color combination will flatter her and prove her excellent taste and elegance.

In the evening gown I designed for you today there is color in clever combination, and an unusual line, flattering. Blue-green and green-blue, incrusted and seemingly buckled on right over the silver lame underpart of the gown. Each glove matches the side of the gown it is nearest to—and the cape is in both colors. But the shoe slippers must be in the blue-green, not one and one—comprenez?

• • • •

Quaint forms in jet are seen on the new gowns, especially those of directoire or period influence. Jet buttons, both large and small, and often in the same ensemble in both sizes—and jet jewelry are in this new group.

• • • •

A dragon is somethin', now, I think. 'Specially when it is a good dragon, oh, a fierce, bristly, flying one spouting green fire—but a good one for all that! And if the number of requests we had for a good dragon design are any indication, then this week's leaflet, which is nothing but a big 8-inch square dragon that you can transfer onto anything to paint or embroider, will need a second printing. Once and for all, if you might ever need a good dragon, designed for anything, send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it.

Au revoir.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF September 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2:20 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger hours are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:45 p. m.

The planetary aspects of September 29 denote a day of unexpected happenings. Risk of accident is c'early foretold, and more than usual care should be exercised. While success along usual lines of work can be safely anticipated, any efforts in untried fields of endeavor will be fraught with danger.

A child born on this September 29 will, as it matures, develop an interesting and pleasing personality. It will be entertaining, persevering, studious and ambitious, and the signs indicate for it a fair measure of worldly success. Its affections will be strong and its loyalty to kith and kin will never waver.

You, if born on September 29, are endowed with a happy disposition, and never allow worries to trouble or troubles to worry you. Always willing and ready to assume responsibilities, you, while not shirking them, rarely appreciate their full importance, and yet you invariably "get away with it." You neither take life nor yourself seriously, and, gifted with an unusually keen, and at times inappropriate, sense of humor, you get fun out of every situation, be it one of comedy or tragedy. You skim the surface; you do not touch the depths. Consequently you get a large measure of contentment and happiness out of life.

An omniverous reader, with a retentive memory, and facility of expression, you are invariably a welcome guest at all social gatherings. The signs say that you will travel extensively, chiefly, however, off the beaten track. Your ready adaptability will on these peregrinations serve you in good stead. You are not assured any outstanding success, but, on the other hand, you will never be "up against it."

In the family circle your perennial cheerfulness will always drive away all clouds of disharmony and disagreement, and, though your emotional character is not strongly developed, your care-free, dispositon will invariably ensure happiness and generate sunshine.

Successful people born on September 29:

Thomas Kingsford, manufacturer.
Thomas P. Rossiter, artist.
Horatio Nelson, British admiral.
Frederick Schwatka, Arctic explorer.
George Frederick Kunz, mineralogist.
Christopher C. Shayne, merchant.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BOTULISM AND PRESERVED FOODS.

THE old term, ptomaine poisoning, is no longer used among those who try to keep up with the times. Instead of that, we speak of botulism and of food poisoning. The first of these terms is based on facts, and, since it is not difficult to pronounce or spell, it is liable to stick. The second—food poisoning—is easy to remember and comes easy to the tongue, but it is too indefinite. In time it will be retained only as a group name, and various kinds of food poisoning will be known by their own names.

Botulism has not had the newspaper notice that was given it several years ago. The reason is that the canning industry knows all about it and has made its products safe. In the old days, one canner could cause many cases by putting out a large batch of bad product.

But while making safe commercially canned goods of American origin has put an end to the old-fashioned, dramatic outbreaks of botulism the disease is not due to disappear—not, at least, for many years. It is caused by a well-known bacillus and this organism is found in the soil in many parts of the world. It is not killed by boiling temperatures and it thrives under such conditions as many canned goods supply. A great many people put up their own vegetables, fruits and meats with such apparatus as they have in their kitchens. For these several reasons botulism is liable to stay with us for a long time, and the facts about it should be spread abroad.

Drs. Allen and Ecklund report three epidemics of it in North Dakota. One is an outbreak which occurred nearly 40 years go. It was caused by eating canned oysters. All who were poisoned in the outbreak died as a result. An epidemic in 1930 caused four deaths. Another in 1931 caused thirteen deaths.

In the 1931 outbreak seventeen persons had attended a party. One of the dishes eaten was a salad of canned carrots, peas and string beans served on lettuce and garnished with whipped cream. The carrots, peas and beans were home canned, having been put up in a farm kitchen and by means of the ordinary kitchen equipment. When an investigation was made some of these canned vegetables were found to be sour, to be biting and to have a "limburger" taste. One of the guests did not eat the salad. The other sixteen sickened and only three recovered.

Taste, odor and appearance in a sense, are good signs of danger. In another, they are not. Occasionally, a batch of contaminated canned stuff tastes and smells good, and occasionally the stuff is so very poisonous that tasting it may prove fatal. Trying it on the chickens is safer.

As a rule, botulism does not develop promptly and does not cause vomiting and purging, as we expect when we think of it as food poisoning. It is not a digestive disturbance. The effects are felt by the nervous system. They are: Double vision, muscle weakness, and paralysis of breathing. So far from causing prompt symptoms one may feel well for several days and then develop a fatal illness. One of these North Dakota cases visited his sick friends, went to the funerals of several, attended the coroner's inquest, gave testimony, helped put out a fire, and then, nearly five days after the party, developed his first symptoms of botulism, after which he speedily became worse and was dead a day later.

The methods of prevention are: 1. A careful selection of foods to be canned. 2. Rejection of all overripe and spoiled goods. 3. Great care in cleaning and cutting away unfit parts. 4. Use of vinegar or other acid in the pack when feasible, since botulism bacillus does not thrive in sour stuff. 5. Careful examination of canned food before serving it. 6. If in doubt, try it on a chicken.

LIMIT ON TEA DRINKING.

M. Y. writes: My mother is what one could call a tea fiend and yet, if she does not drink it, she has headaches and does not urinate. She is very nervous. Could you give me some substitute for her to drink that would be less harmful?

REPLY.

Coffee and cocoa contain the same alkaloids. She might change to one of these. However, in the last analysis, she must come to a more limited dosage of beverages containing caffein, or any of its relatives.

Why does she not face the issue squarely and limit herself to two cups a day?

DIET FOR ANEMIA.

F. A. S. writes: Please write what would be good to eat and drink for an anemic condition. Is I. Q. S. good to build up the blood?

REPLY.

"Anemic condition" is only a loosely used term with no particular meaning. Iron, quinine and strychnine is a popular tonic for people who do not feel peppy, whatever that is, and want to take some medicine—it doesn't matter much what. Iron, quinine, and strychnine is a doesn't-matter-much medicine, just as "anemic condition" is a not-much-the-matter disease.

The medicine fits the disease.

PSYCHOLOGY IN DUMMY PLAY.

MUCH has been said of the use of psychology in correctly bidding Contract hands. However, the opportunity to "fix" an opponent by the use of psychology does not end in the contracting. A really fine Dummy player is marked not only by his technique and ability to execute difficult end-plays (as there are probably scores of players quite capable in that respect), but by his ability to lead the defense into channels which best suit his purposes.

The good Dummy player knows that he is not a magician and can not make tricks out of nothing, somewhat as a magician would take a rabbit out of a hat, but realizes that to really "steal" tricks, he must have the cooperation, even though it be unwilling, of the opponents. Therefore, he must give them every opportunity to err, give them as many guesses as possible, and capitalize on any slips they may make. He should make his play of the Dummy as deceptive as possible, try to mask his intentions and give erroneous impressions of his holding. He should conceal the weaknesses and hide the strength of his hand as much as possible. Each hand offers different ways of doing this, and it is up to the resourcefulness and ingenuity of each individual Declarer to find the best way of leading the opponents from the straight and narrow.

The good Dummy player knows all the finesses that it is possible to take, but avoids taking them whenever possible. He tries to postpone his guesses as long as possible; something may turn up in the meantime to obviate his guess and save his taking a possible losing finesse. He is also aware that for every fine squeeze play, throw-in, or other end-play, there is a counterpart in the pseudo-play of the same type. In other words, pseudo-squeezes are just as good as legitimate squeezes if successful. Similarly, making the defense think a hand is stripped, and that they must lead up to your tenace is just as good, if they fall and do lead up to your tenace, as if you had legitimately stripped the hand.

In playing a difficult Dummy hand, which seems almost impossible to make, try to think of a possible division of the opponents' cards with which the contract could be made by a certain line of play, and then play for this distribution, if it seems at all probable, according to the knowledge you have of the hands up to that point.

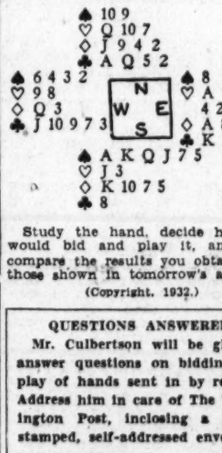
East had overcalled North's Opening diamond bid with one notrump, and that was the only adverse bidding. The Opening lead by West was the heart Ace. Small cards were played from Dummy and Declarer's hand. East played small. West now shifted to the deuce of diamonds, which Declarer was able to mark for a singleton lead and to place East with King-Queen-Knave-small. Accordingly, he went up with Dummy's Ace, and then studied the hand. A spade trick must obviously be lost and two diamonds, sufficient to set the contract. But this particular Declarer thougnt of the division of the cards, which was not at all improbable, wherein the contract could be made, and he acted accordingly. He played two rounds of hearts, discarding the third club from Dummy, played Dummy's Ace and King of clubs and then led the King of trumps. He followed this with a small trump, and when East played small, finessed the 9-spot. West took the trick with the Queen, did not have the Knave of spades or another diamond, and was forced to lead either a heart or a club, giving the Declarer the necessary ruff and discard. The making of this hand depended only upon East's holding three trumps to an honor and West holding two to an honor, as West already was marked with a singleton diamond. Of course, if East had held the Queen-Knave-small of spades, the contract could not have been made, nor could it have been made if East had held two spades and West three. But Declarer, on this particular hand, by playing for the one winning division of cards, was able to successfully fulfill a difficult contract.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

MOONEY CASE BOMB ADMISSION DOUBTED

Police Probe Story of Man Who Says He Unwittingly Placed Explosive.

Portland, Oreg., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Frankly doubting Paul M. Callicotte's story that he placed the suitcase containing a bomb which killed ten persons and injured 42 in the San Francisco Preparedness Day parade of 1916, police said tonight, however, they were going forward with their investigation.

Callicotte, 32-year-old mountaineer, told police last night he unwittingly participated in the crime for which Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings are serving life sentences in California prisons.

Officers reported Callicotte appeared to have a desire for publicity and that during the investigation of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case he offered them his deductions to show how the kidnapers could be found.

Police quoted Callicotte saying he received the dynamite laden suitcase from a man in front of the Industrial Workers of the World Hall in Oakland and carried it across San Francisco Bay. In San Francisco he delivered it to a man and later, at the stranger's request, he placed the suitcase at the corner of Steuart and Market streets. It was there the bomb exploded.

Western Conferences Start on Catholic U.

The first of a series of Western conferences at which the progress and accomplishments of Catholic University will be reported to prelates and clergy will be held today in Milwaukee, with the Right Rev. James H. Ryan, rector of the institution, and the Rev. Maurice S. Sheehy, representing the university.

Similar conferences will be held at St. Paul, Dubuque, Iowa, and St. Louis, September 30, October 3 and October 4, respectively. Catholic University is looked upon as the capstone of the educational system of the Catholic faith in America.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ALTHOUGH her screen appearances have not been of sufficient number to make her known otherwise than a newcomer to the film colony, Irene Dunne, whose performance of the role of Ray Schmidt in "Back Street," the current attraction at the Rialto, has placed her in the first flight of motion picture actresses, has been a resident of Hollywood for a long enough time to be convinced that the town should be known as Rumorwood.

Irene Dunne.

It hasn't taken all of her two years of residence on the West Coast to teach Miss Dunne that anyone who aspires to fame in the cinema must reconcile herself to an endless flow of speculative gossip regarding even the most private of her personal concerns. When she first reached the film capital the rumors concerning her centered in a reputed engagement, although Miss Dunne had already solemnized a more or less secret marriage to Dr. Francis Griffin in New York.

A few months after her marriage had become generally known, the gossipers had her and Dr. Griffin permanently separated, with a legal finis about to be written to their matrimonial venture. It must have been a keen disappointment when none of this came off!

Perceiving that Miss Dunne was not to be perturbed by these empty rumors, the gossip writers on the Coast—and there are almost as many of them as there are extra people out of work—wished her to say that living at the opposite end of the continent from her husband was an "ideal marital arrangement." Although this exaggeration of the Fannie Hurst point of view would have made very elegant copy, Miss Dunne would have none of it.

She is of the opinion that when husband and wife live on opposite sides of a land as big as these United States, seeing each other only once every three or four months or so, it is anything but the ideal arrangement. Some day, she says, something will have to be done about it.

If Irene Dunne is going to continue as fine an actress as she is in "Back Street," that something will in all probability consist of Dr. Francis Griffin's packing up his stethoscope and scalpel and moving to Rumorwood!

There is another young woman entertaining Washington audiences this week who also is achieving an outstanding popular success—the youthful and charming Miss Gracie Barrie, "Sweetheart of the Blues," at the Earle.

So overwhelming has been Miss Barrie's personal triumph this week, even on the same bill with Olsen and Johnson, that the management has secured her release from a previous booking for next week in Philadelphia and will continue her as a special feature of the stage bill through a second week, beginning tomorrow.

This is a distinction that has been bestowed on precious few artists since vaudeville was adopted as a part of the regular house policy. In this case it is richly deserved.

Pearl S. Buck, from whose novel of "The Good Earth" Owen and Donald Davis dramatized the play which the Theater Guild soon will present in the National Theater, may herself be a member of one or more of the audiences during its engagement in Washington during the week of October 10.

Mrs. Buck only a comparatively short time ago returned from China, where she has spent most of her life and where she wrote the novel that won for her the Pulitzer prize. She has been of every possible aid to the guild in its effort to make "The Good Earth" authentic in its Chinese background. In rendering this first-hand assistance it has been necessary for her to attend numerous rehearsals of the play and it is that experience that has made her theater conscious and, if anything, just a little bit stage struck.

However, if Mrs. Buck does attend the play here, she will do so with no fanfare whatsoever, according to those who know her best. She insists she will not let the cast or even the Guild officials know of her presence. She will just slip quietly into an obscure seat and see what goes on. She has seen very few American plays in her lifetime and is always an interested spectator for that reason, if no other.

But in this instance there is one other!

"The Good Earth," by the way, will be the first production of the fifteenth subscription season of the Theater Guild, now combined with the Professional Players to form the American Theater Society of Washington for purposes of local subscription. In securing the play as its first attraction of the season, the American Theater Society is especially fortunate. The subscription season will include six plays and subscriptions are now being booked at the Society's office in the National Theater. Season subscriptions may still be made to include "The Good Earth."

For those who may have forgotten others of their talents than inspired clowning, it should be recalled that Ole Olsen and Chick Johnson, whose "Atrocities of 1932" winds up a week of unbridled hilarity—horse laughs, probably, since they're unbridled—at the Earle tonight, are also musicians of parts. In fact, I believe their original act was founded largely on the ability of Mr. Johnson, unless it is Mr. Olsen, to play the piano and piano accordion and of Mr. Olsen, unless, of course, it is Mr. Johnson, to play the violin. They both are still competent tunesters, much to the benefit of the closing scenes of their crazy and frequently rowdy revue which you had better scurry around and catch before it is too late if you really think a riot is what you need.

Lou Brown, formerly in charge of advertising and publicity for the Fox Theater in this city and recently appointed to the same post on behalf of the Loew houses in Baltimore, is celebrating the assumption of his new duties by running off the Norma Shearer Handicap out at Havre de Grace this afternoon as a part of the promotion for "Smilin' Through," opening in the Monumental City tomorrow.

The Messrs. Carter Barron, Eddy Gilmore and Orangelo Ratto, of the Loew executive staff in Washington, are engineering another of their deep-sea fishing expeditions today and were so gracious as to invite your reporter to be among the more seasick of the party, not knowing, of course, that he once spent the longest night ever known to man down in the tropics lying flat on his back watching the tip of the mast cut a perpetual figure "8" in the balmy West Indian air. Ugh!

Thank you too much, but I'll be doing all right with some out of a can down at the Greek's on the corner!

THREE CARS SOUGHT IN THAYER BOMBING

Two From New York and One With California Plates Linked to Crime.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Three automobiles, two with New York registrations and one with a California registration, were the objects of a Nation-wide search tonight in the police investigation into the bombing early yesterday of the home of Judge Webster Thayer.

Late in the day the Worcester police sent out a broadcast asking that police throughout the country aid in locating the three automobiles and if they were found to hold the occuof the Worcester detectives, said the pants for questioning.

William P. Finneran, superintendent California car had been seen cruising in the vicinity of the Thayer home between 10 and 12 o'clock Monday night. One man was reported to have been in the car at that time.

"All I can say about the New York cars is that we want to question the occupants or the owner because we have received reports of their having acted suspiciously," Finneran said.

Justice Agent Aids.

The appeal for aid in finding the three automobiles followed closely upon the most concentrated display of investigative strength in the history of the Massachusetts State police and the arrival in Worcester of Arthur Chase, of the Department of Justice.

Chase, one of the Government's star investigators of radicals, came from Washington to aid in determining whether radicals were the bombers of Judge Thayer, the man who sent Bartolomeo Vanzetti and Nicola Sacco to the electric chair in 1927.

The State police display came during the afternoon when every high official of that department gathered at the Holden Barracks of the patrol for a conference to map out a plan of procedure. Led by Alfred F. Foote, State commissioner of public safety, the gathering included seven detectives, four troop commanders and four sergeants assigned to investigative work.

Bills Calls for Compensation.

A bill was filed with the Legislature today by Representative Joseph A. Logan, of Boston, providing for compensation for Judge Thayer for the damage to his home. The extent of the compensation would be set by the governor and council.

State Fire Marshal James M. Hurley said he would confer with Attorney General Joseph E. Warner on the drafting of regulations which would provide more rigid supervision of the State and handling of dynamite. State police found in a check-up yesterday that large quantities of the explosive had been stolen in various parts of the State in recent months.

Investigating officials also reviewed acts and threats against Judge Thayer since the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti in 1927 in the search for clews to the bombers.

RKO-KEITH'S

"A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT." RKO-Radio picturization of the play by Clemence Dane, starring John Barrymore, with Billie Burke, Katherine Hepburn, David Manners and Elizabeth Patterson. Directed by George Cukor. Reviewed Wednesday evening by W. A. Whitney.

For those many confirmed Barrymore addicts who crave the one-time delight of seeing John in a drama more serious than the frothy "Man from Blankley's" and yet less gruesome than the "Mad Genius," "A Bill of Divorcement" will satisfy like no other Barrymore opus of recent vintage, notwithstanding the excellent portrayal in "Grand Hotel." That other vast segment of his public, who admire his work apart from any comparisons that may be made, will find here a really astounding John Barrymore—a John appreciably more aged than in those days when his only effective attributes seemed to be a profile and a capacity to raise phenomenally the blood pressure of susceptible females but withal a finer actor, living up to the best traditions of the theater's royal family.

The Dane script has to do with the return to his family of a victim of insanity, aggravated, if not actually precipitated, by shellshock, in the manner of an Enoch Arden on practically the eve of his former wife's remarriage. Entirely unaware of the divorce, Hilary tries to regain that which has been for the past 20 years lost to him. However, he becomes reconciled to his former wife's remarriage, content to remain with his daughter, who has made the supreme eugenical sacrifice by refusing to run any risks of perpetuating the mental taint.

Such a plot offers Mr. Barrymore an exceptional opportunity, an opportunity such as might even test the greater talents of Brother Lionel. In fact, so like Lionel is John in this role that it seems not John at all, but rather the elder Barrymore as of ten years ago. Since his advent in pictures John has become soft—historionically—losing that inspired fire he once injected into his plays, but it is such work as he contributes to "Grand Hotel" and "A Bill of Divorcement" that will materially help in restoring his name to the rarified heights of stellar preeminence.

Whether Billie Burke, as the former wife, caught between the fires of moral obligation to the unfortunate Hilary and the finding of happiness in a second marriage, or Katherine Hepburn, as the daughter, tossed high by a dilemma whose horns are her own happiness with the man she loves and her duty to her father, and to future generations, should be accorded highest distaff honors is a moot question, both actresses giving their utmost in extremely difficult delineations—the former, one of expressed emotional response; the latter, no less emotional in essence but more cold, restrained, and deliberate.

David Manners, Elizabeth Patterson, Henry Stephenson and Paul Cavanaugh complete a supporting cast, that is exceptionally selected to accentuate the drama of the three pivotal characters. Altogether, "A Bill of Divorcement" presents marvelously acted, engrossing drama.

Completing the screen fare are Edgar Kennedy and Florence Lake in "The Golf Chump;" an animated Tom and Jerry cartoon, "Barnyard Bunk," and the Pathe News.

7,491 Students Enrolled In Night School Course

Enrollment in the white night schools reached 7,491 last night, it was announced by Edward J. Lockwood, director of evening schools.

McKinley has the largest enrollment, 2,975 students. This is the largest enrollment for a day or night school in Washington. Roosevelt night enrollment is 2,268, 700 more than the day. Central has 996 students, Hines, 789, Abbott vocational, 238 and the Americanization school, 225.

Gandhi's Work Exceeds England's, Briton Says

"The far-reaching influence of the work of Gandhi in India has been greater in the lifetime of one man than all that Great Britain has been able to do in hundreds of years," Francis St. Austell, former officer in the British army, author and world traveler, told the members of the Washington Lions Club at their meeting Wednesday noon at the Mayflower Hotel.

Speaking reminiscently on the topic "Interesting People I Have Met," Mr. St. Austell recalled experiences with Lord Kitchener, Lord Roberts, Gen. Hague, and others.

GEHRIG'S HOMER PAVES WAY AS YANKEES WIN, 12-6

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Yankee Stadium, N. Y., Sept. 28.

GUY BUSH had never seen or met Babe Ruth or Lou Gehrig personally or professionally before today's opening world series game and if their paths should cross again it will be too soon for Bush.

Baseball is a funny game. Only nine batters faced Bush in the first three innings. In the sixth, seven faced him, three scored and there were still three left on base when Bush's presence was deemed no further good to the Cubs.

Ossie Bluege had a box seat at the opening game. He took a motorman's holiday and sat directly behind third base, as if he didn't get enough of third base during 154 games of the regular season

With the tabulation of the attendance at 41,459, it was revealed that there were exactly 28,482 empty seats in Yankee Stadium today, which would seem to indicate that New York is not unduly exercised about this world series. The empty seats, if filled, would represent a near-capacity crowd in Griffith Stadium.

With the first game safely in tow, the Yankees' odds assumed 3-to-1 proportions to win the series. Before today's game, you had the choice of 5-to-9 on the Cubs or 5-to-2 on the Yankees, the difference representing the bookmakers' percentage.

The managerial responsibilities of Charley Grimm do not appear to be weighing heavily on his play around first base. His pick-up of Ruth's scorcher in the first inning was an open-and-shut case of robbery.

The Yankees made two hits in five innings off Bush, during which time the Cubs had combed Ruffing for five, but the Yanks got maximum production to enter the sixth with a 3-2 lead.

Crosetti neatly ripped the ball out of English's hand and appeared to be safe at third when he attempted to take two bases on Grimes' wild pitch in the seventh, but Mr. Magerkurth, umpiring at the bag, called him out without fear or favor for perpetrating the trick, and very emphatically.

Gehrig's home run in the fourth put the punch into the ball game and took the kick out of it in the same gesture. After that blow, it seemed to be only a question of the Yankees' winning margin.

The Yankees haven't been beaten in a world series game since that fateful day in 1926 when old Grover Cleveland Alexander made victory safe for the Cardinals by fanning Tony Lazzeri with the bases full. Since then, the Yankees cleaned up the Pirates in four straight in 1927, the Cards in four straight in 1928 and the Cubs today to give themselves a record of nine straight world-series victories.

Despite Bush's three scoreless innings, it was too much to hope that the Yankees' run famine would last long. McCarthy's team hasn't been shut out all season, and taking into consideration their last 55 games in 1931, they hadn't been blanked in 211 consecutive battles. Now why are the Yankees the favorites?

The first world-series game was a triumph of matter over mind. The Cubs had the old college spirit and the Yankees had Lou Gehrig.

New York Fan Dies While Watching Game

GROSNER'S

Principals Are Silent on Terms; Observers Say $150,000.

Neither would Mack give any indication of how much cash the White Sox had laid on the line. Baseball observers figured, however, that even with depression prices, at least $150,000 must have changed hands.

Simmons, principal figure in the amazing deal, twice won the American League batting championship, in 1930 and 1931, and has a nine-year major league batting average of well over .350. He fell off in his hitting this season, yet compiled the creditable average of around .325, collected about 220 hits and drove in about 150 runs.

Haas held down center field most of the current season, and hit above 300. Dykes has been the official handy-man of the Athletic infield, playing every position in the inner works at one time or another of his 13-year major league career, all of it spent in Philadelphia.

Grabiner Says Price Was Big.

Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox, declined to announce the exact amount of cash the White Sox gave up for the three Athletic stars, but said the deal "is the biggest we ever have been involved in and probably the biggest in American League history."

The biggest individual sale price in American League history was the $135,000 the Yankees gave the Boston Red Sox for Babe Ruth.

Grabiner said the deal marked the definite end of the White Sox' policy of attempting to develop young players.

"Hereafter we're going out and get our players," Grabiner said.

Simmons has been an outstanding cog in the Athletic array since 1925. The Athletics handed Milwaukee, of the American Association, $50,000 for Simmons in 1923 after he had amassed a batting average of .398. He clouted .308 for the Athletics in 1924, then boosted his average to .386 in 1925.

Thereafter he hit .343 in 1926, .392 in 1927, .351 in 1928, .365 in 1929, .381 in 1930, .390 in 1931 and wound up the 1932 season with an unofficial average of .323.

He participated in three world series with the Athletics, piling up an average of .333 in eighteen games. His best performance in the world series came in 1930, when he solved the St. Louis Cardinals' pitching for 8 hits in 22 times at bat, an average of .364.

Simmons Good Fielder.

Simmons also has been known as an exceptionally able fielder, a ball hawk and an accurate thrower.

Haas came up to the Athletics in 1928 from Atlanta, of the Southern Association, and has a batting average of around .307 for his five years in the majors. He batted .305 for the Athetics this year, according to the unofficial averages.

Dykes, now 35 years old, first joined the Athletics in 1917 and came back to stay in 1919, after brief seasoning with Gettysburg, of the Blue Ridge League, and Atlanta. Through all the innumerable player shifts Mack made in his long search for another pennant-winning club, Dykes retained his place with the Athletic organization. Most of the time he has played either at second base or third, but he spent part of the 1927 season at first base and parts of three other campaigns at shortstop.

His lifetime batting average for fifteen years is around .283, and he batted .288 in three world series. He is famous, however, as a "money player," a formidable man to pitch to in the pinches.

Koenig Injures Wrist, May Not Play Today

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Mark Koenig, veteran shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, injured a wrist in the opening game of the World series against the Yankees and may not be able to play tomorrow, Manager Charley Grimm announced tonight.

"Mark hurt his wrist sliding into third," Grimm said, "and I am doubtful he will be able to play. If he is out, I plan to put Bill Jurges in his place.

"But no matter who is in there, you can tell the world we will be in there fighting and that this series isn't over yet, by a long shot."

Hopes of Cub Fans High, Despite Loss

Chicago, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Cub fans, parked by the thousands around radio sets and scoreboards, took the defeat of their heroes in the first game of the world series against the Yankees today philosophically.

When the Cubs scored their first two runs in the first inning, to take a lead, great shouts could be heard all over the busy Loop, drowning out the roars of the elevated trains and automobiles. The police were called in a few instances to assist in the movement of traffic.

Meanwhile, ticket sales boomed in the Cub headquarters. All the box seats were sold for the games to be played at Wrigley Field, while the grand stand seats were disappearing rapidly. Internal revenue officers, working with an augmented force, posted men around hotel lobbies in search of ticket scalpers, to see that the Government gets its tax. It was also announced that roof sitters who were charged in excess of 40 cents for the privilege of a long distance view of the series at Wrigley Field from nearby housetops, would be taxed 10 per cent.

Bowen-Reed to Battle At Laurel Wednesday

Ray Bowen, raven-haired boxer from Washington, will get his long awaited crack at Jimmy Reed, cocky Erie, Pa., scrapper, next Wednesday night, when the fistic fireworks will be resumed at Twin City Arena in Laurel.

Bowen and Reed fought last on the same card at Twin City about a month ago, the clever local puncher losing to Tug Phillips, with boastful Jimmy taking the measure of Phillips' stablemate, Ray Collins.

Bowen always has contended he could slap Jimmy into defeat, despite the latter's bouncing ring tactics and rapid-fire attack. Bowen is in great shape, having been in constant training.

Suburban Net Title Is Won by Joe Rutley

Joe Rutley, portly local tennis player, won the twentieth annual Suburban Tennis League singles championship yesterday at the Argyle Country Club, ending the comeback of Colin Stam by the scores, 5—7, 6—0, 6—3, 7—5.

Rutley, taken off guard by the hard-hitting of Stam in the first set, began to level off his shots with the start of the second and ran through seven games without stopping. The third set fell to him easily, but a let down all but caused him the loss of the fourth.

Rutley reached the final round by beating Johnnie Ladd, 6—3, 6—4, while Stam put out Don Dudley in a three-set hummer, 4—6, 6—3, 8—6.

The doubles championship went to Rutley and Ladd, who beat Don and Jack Dudley in the final match, 7—5, 9—7.

Cubs Demanding Penalty For Unnecessary Ruffing

By H. I. PHILLIPS.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The Chicago Cubs had to come to New York to see a class A crime wave. What happened here today proves crime prevention is still the country's foremost problem.

The Yanks took the Cubs like the Democrats took Maine. With 72 counties missing the early evening returns gave Joe McCarthy 12; Charley McGrimm, 6.

The local boys were slow to get started, and for a time it looked as if the visiting Moose were putting the Yanks away for the long pull, but Messrs. Ruth, Gehrig and their affiliated playmates swung into action in the fourth, and after that it was merely a question of simple multiplication.

Tonight Chicago is demanding that the Yankees be penalized for unnecessary Ruffing.

"Big Red" looked shaky at times, but he was plenty good enough in the pinches, whereas Mr. Guy Bush, the Rogers Park gasoline pumping station proprietor, ran out of oil and gas very early in the day and at the finish was not even in shape to distribute road maps.

Before the Cubs got through they had staged a review of baseball pitchers, and it was none too impressive. Burleigh Grimes got the emergency call when Bush passed out. Grimes has been in three successive world series and today's work combined the worst features of each.

When he began hitting batters and throwing the ball into the box at Judge Landis he was given the referendum and recall in favor of one Claude Smith. But it was too late.

At that point even Al Smith couldn't have saved them.

LONDOS DUE MAT TEST TONIGHT

Champion Takes on Jim McMillan at Stadium.

JIM LONDOS, handsomest and most prosperous of all the boys who are lowing and grazing in the pasturedom of wrestling, comes back to Griffith Stadium again tonight to meet Jim McMillan in the final outdoor mat show of the year.

The two perennial rivals have not met in recent months, and never before in Washington. Their last bout, scheduled for Chicago some months ago, was canceled because of a shoulder injury on the part of McMillan, whose rough tactics and frequent flying tackles cause more injuries than the methodically accurate Londos suffers.

As usual Londos will be outweighed by about 20 pounds, and 6 inches in height and reach, but he has not lost a match since early in 1930 and it does not seem likely that he will lose tonight. His mere presence, however, as usual, has sent the box office sales up and the usual 7,000 fans are expected to be on hand tonight to hurl their choice boos.

McMillen Beaten Here But Once.

McMillan has lost only one match in Washington, and that when he was disqualified for roughing Gino Garibaldi. He earned the Londos match by popular acclaim last week. McMillan, is one of the few college wrestlers who ever learned to do anything but the flying tackle.

Rudy Dusek occupies his customary semiwindup position this week against George Vassell, whose chief claim to fame seems to be a victory over Abe Coleman. The most amusing of the preliminaries should be the Renato Gardini vs. Berto Asarati match. As is customary with Italian wrestlers, both claim the Italian championship, not that it matters greatly.

Abe Coleman, who dumped Rudy Dusek not long ago, meets Nino Dinaldi, and Son Jennings tackles Dick Stahl in other bouts.

Ruth Adds to 5 Marks In Yesterday's Game

Yankee Stadium, New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Although participating somewhat mildly in the opening day's world series scramble, Babe Ruth nevertheless cracked five of his own records for the baseball championship.

By merely going out to his position in the first inning, the Yankee slugger set a new mark of taking part in ten world series. He also boosted his records, for total series performances, to 34 runs, 28 runs batted in, 86 total bases and 31 bases on balls.

His only safe blow being a mere single, Ruth did not touch any of the numerous long-distance clouting records marked to his credit in the books.

Schmeling Examined As Suit Preliminary

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, appeared at the county courthouse today for examination before trial in a suit for $100,000 brought against him by Primo Carnera, who alleged that Schmeling broke a contract to box him in September, 1931.

Schmeling was examined behind closed doors concerning the existence of the contract. By appearing today and submitting to the examination, Schmeling purged himself of a charge of contempt of court brought against him after he failed to appear for the inquiry last June. He was fined $250 last week by Justice Bernard L. Shientag, who ruled however that the fine would be remitted if Schmeling submitted to the examination.

STAR SHOOTER DIES.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Harry Harrison, former holder of the Canadian trap shooting title and winner a few years ago of the grand American preliminary handicap shoot, died at his home here last night. He was 54, and at one time held the world's record for rapid rifle fire.

New Roosevelt High To Forego Football, According to Rumor

Rumors that Roosevelt High School would not have a football team this year grew in volume last night, although members of the faculty would neither confirm nor deny them.

The unsettled state of affairs prevalent at Roosevelt, which was occupied for the first time at the start of the current school year and absorbed all pupils of old Business High School, has prevented Coach Lynn Woodworth from calling out members of the football team for practice. Roosevelt's first game is scheduled October 7, with Swavely Prep at Manassas, Va.

An exodus of basket ball players from Roosevelt to Central gave credence to the rumor that this year would be a lean one in the athletic annals of the school. Mario Gregorio and Carrol Shore transferred last week, and Ollie Tipton, captain-elect of the team, followed yesterday.

Principal Allan Davis refused to comment on the peculiar situation last night.

Verification or denial of the stories being circulated may be made at a meeting of the board of faculty advisers today. If Roosevelt does not intend to compete in the interhigh school championship series, the schedule will have to be revised.

Condition of Donovan, D. C. Man, Is Critical

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Patsy Donovan Koontz, sports promoter, of 704 Maryland avenue, Washington, D. C., critically injured when the car in which he was riding collided with a truck in Raritan Township, had shown no improvement in his condition, it was said tonight at the Middlesex General Hospital.

After the accident police said that one of Koontz's hands might have to be amputated. Hospital officials tonight said the hand had not been amputated thus far.

E. J. McCarthy, 509 E street northeast, who suffered severe lacerations, was said to be in "good" condition at the Perth Amboy City Hospital.

Raritan Township police, who investigated the accident last night on the superhighway, said they were unable to determine what caused it.

Millers Beat Newark, 3-2, as Petty Shines

Newark, N. J., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Gray Thatched Jess Petty pitched the Minneapolis Millers, champions of the American Association, to a 3 to 2 victory over the Newark Bears, International League pennant winners, in the second game of the little world series under floodlights here tonight.

Petty held the slugging Bears, who had won the first game yesterday, to five hits and struck out eleven men.

The Millers won the game in the sixth inning when they drove Harry Holaclaw from the box with a batting rally that scored two runs. Ruble's triple drove one run across the plate and Rice's single then shoved Ruble over with the run that won the battle.

Big Jim Weaver and George Miner pitched effective relief ball for the Bears but their work went for nothing as Petty's puzzling slants had the International Leaguers whiffing.

Raymond in Net Lead As Dark Halts Play

Darkness stepped in to halt the final match of the Playground Tennis League yesterday after Raymond, winners of section A of the junior league, was leading Georgetown, winners of Section B, 2-1 in matches. The two remaining matches will be played this afternoon at Chevy Chase Playgrounds.

Georgetown won the feature match of the day when Hop Lomax, top spin artist, outlasted Maurice Rosenberg in a well-played three-set match, 6—0, 4—6, 6—4. The match developed many fine rallies.

Poretsky, of Raymond, beat Lochte, of Georgetown, 6—0, 6—0, in easy style, and Harrad, Raymond, eked out a fine win over Sailor, of Georgetown, 4—6, 6—1, 7—5, in the other matches. Both doubles matches were halted by darkness and will be continued today at 5 o'clock from the point where play stopped yesterday.

ENID WILSON, MRS. VARE ADVANCE

Favorites Victors in Play for Women's Championship.

By BILL KING.

PEABODY, Mass., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—An international battle for the women's national golf championship appeared in the offing today when Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare and Enid Wilson, the British champion, led the parade of favorites into the third round of the title match play on the Salem Country Club's course.

Mrs. Vare, who has held the national title five times in the past ten years and was a 1931 finalist, overwhelmed Mrs. C. S. Eddis, of Toronto, runner-up in last week's Canadian title event, by 7 and 5. Miss Wilson slugged her way to an 8 and 7 verdict over Grace English.

Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., stayed in the running by defeating Mrs. Leo V. Federman, of Lakeville, N. Y., by 2 and 1. Ada Mackenzie, of Toronto, another seasoned campaigner, shot the best golf of the day to overwhelm Jean Armstrong, of Winnetka, Ill., by 6 and 5.

The Canadian star went out in 39, one over par, and had a four hole lead at the turn. She played 17 strokes to reach the regulation figures for first four holes on the inward nine to end the match abruptly.

Peggy Wattles Winner.

In the same upper half of the draw Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, trounced Mrs. C. F. Eaton, jr., Wellesley, by 4 and 3.

It was raining hard when the first pair got off but the weather cleared while they were playing the first hole and did not break again until all except two of the matches had ended.

Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, whose record entitles her to a place in the lower half semifinal with the British champion, had a tight match with Edith Quier, of Haverford, Pa., for nine holes before putting on a surge that gave her four of the first six inward ones and a four and three victory.

Charlotte Glutting, Short Hills, N. J., a powerful hitter and about the best putter in the tournament, played through most of the downpour while defeating Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., 3 and 2.

FIRST INNING.

CUBS—Herman singled over second. English singled to right and he continued on to second and Herman scored when Ruth let the ball get by him and roll to the fence. Cuyler missed a third strike. Stephenson singled over Ruffing's head, scoring English. Moore went out, swinging at a third strike and Grimm went out the same way. Two runs, three hits, one error, one left.

YANKEES—Combs watched a third strike pass him. Sewell fouled to Grimm. Ruth rolled sharply to Grimm, who beat him to the bag after making a good stop. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING.

CUBS—Hartnett missed a third strike. Koenig rolled to Ruffing. Bush went out on a grounder to Gehrig. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

YANKEES—Gehrig was thrown out on a grasser to Herman. Bush tossed out Lazzeri. Dickey hoisted to Cuyler. No hits, no runs, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING.

CUBS—Ruffing threw out Herman. English grounded to Sewell. Cuyler singled over Crosetti's head. Cuyler stole second, Dickey's throw being high. Stephenson filed to Combs in short center. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

YANKEES—Chapman filed to Stephenson. Crosetti struck out, missing the third strike by a foot. Ruffing hoisted to Stephenson. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING.

CUBS—Moore lifted a high pop to Sewell. Grimm fanned for the second straight time. Hartnett doubled to the field boxes in left. Koenig was purposely passed. Bush walked, filling the bases. Herman filed to Chapman, who made a nice running catch near the foul line. No runs, one hit, no errors, three left.

YANKEES—Combs walked, being the first Yankee to reach first-base. Combs went to second on Sewell's bounder to Grimm, who juggled the ball but made the out at first. Combs scored on Ruth's hard single to right. The ball went through Grimm's legs like a rifle shot. Gehrig smashed a home run into the left-field bleachers, scoring Ruth ahead of him and putting the Yankees in the lead, 3 to 2. Lazzeri rolled to English. Dickey went out, Bush to Grimm. Three runs, two hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING.

CUBS—English fanned. Cuyler missed a third strike to become Ruffing's seventh strike-out victim. Stephenson filed to Combs. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

YANKEES—Chapman was safe on English's error, the third baseman juggling the ball and then throwing high to first. Crosetti bunted and both runners were safe when Hartnett threw wide trying for a force-play at second. It went as a sacrifice, with no error being charged to the Cub catcher. On Ruffing's bunt, Chapman was forced at third, Hartnett to English, Crosetti advancing to second. Combs hit into a double-play, Herman to Koening to Grimm. No runs, no hits, one error, one left.

SIXTH INNING.

CUBS—Moore filed to Sewell, who took the ball near the pitcher's box. Grimm walked on four successive wide ones. Hartnett missed a third strike. Koenig grounded out, Lazzeri

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—One resounding shot from the Yankees' heavy artillery, a home run drive by Lou Gehrig in the fourth inning, cracked the vaunted defense of the Chicago Cubs today, started the speedy downfall of Guy Bush and propelled the American League champions to a one-sided victory, 12 to 6, in the first game of the 1932 battle for baseball's world championship.

As if shaken by the recoil of this booming clout, which came with Babe Ruth on base and put the Yankees into the lead after a somewhat shaky beginning of their own, the National League pennant winners collapsed, afield and in the box.

Bush Blasted Off Hill In Sixth.

Bush, the ace right-hander of the Cubs, lasted less than two more innings before an uncontrollable streak of wildness forced him from the box in the sixth. The ancient spitball veteran, Burleigh Grimes, returning unexpectedly to the combat, was totally unable to check the surge of the Yankees, who combined a minimum of attacking power, well distributed, with a maximum of opportunities presented by the wobbly Chicago defense.

Staked to an overwhelming lead by a combined output of eight Yankee runs in two weird innings, the sixth and seventh, Charles Rufus (Red) Ruffing, big right-handed star of the home cast, had comparatively little trouble holding the Cubs in check. The National Leaguers put on a few brisk rallies and, all told, collected ten hits off Ruffing, as compared with only eight Yankee blows off the combined delivery of Bush, Grimes and Bob Smith, but it was much too big an uphill climb for the Cubs to negotiate through the last stages of the game.

Delayed by a sudden downpour of rain at the start, the opening game produced an exhibition of baseball as disappointingly drab as were the weather conditions and the size of the crowd.

One of Smallest Series Crowds on Hand.

The combination of threatened postponement, after an all night and morning rain, and a poor advance sale produced one of the smallest turnouts in the history of the world series competition in the stadium, biggest of the country's baseball parks. Exactly 41,459 cash customers, many of them half drenched by the early rain, cheered the rush of the Yankees in their bid for a third world championship in six years.

The attendance was slightly better than the previous low mark for the Yankee Stadium, 38,000 at the seventh game of the 1926 series, but far short of the record of 63,600. The total receipts of $133,493 were approximately $90,000 short of the stadium's high mark.

The bleachers were nearly filled by the $1.10 enthusiasts, but there were big vacant spaces in the triple-decked stands to indicate that not much more than half the stadium's capacity of 69,000 had been touched. It was the first big blow the times have struck at baseball's classic.

Picking up where the late Miller

Whitney Star 3 Length Winner

Two-Year-Old Brings Total Earnings to $63,195.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 28.—A great colt and a great jockey turned in a great race in the mud here today to carry off first honors in the twentieth running of the rich Eastern Shore Handicap. The colt is Caterwaul, coal-black son of Mad Hatter and Purr, and the jockey is Washington's own Sonny Workman.

Nineteen of the classiest 2-year-olds of the season trailed Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's star to the wire at varying distances in a race run on a muddy track. Three lengths behind the winner was the Sagamore Stable's Wave On, a field horse, with Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Poppyman, third, and Illusive, fourth.

The victory brought the season's earnings of the Whitney colt to $63,195, his share of the purse being $30,000, and his backers were rewarded with an $11 mutuel. Caterwaul has previously won the Keene Memorial and the National Stallion Stakes at Belmont.

There was no Whitney disappointment today as was the case when Equipoise and Topflight failed last Saturday. Today it was W. R. Coe's Ladysman, winner of the Hopeful Stakes and the Arlington Futurity, and Kerry Patch, Lee Rosenberg's long-shot winner of the Futurity, which were beaten. Ladysman, installed the favorite, finished eighth after trailing the field for some 3 furlongs, while Kerry Patch, jammed back at the start, never a factor, finished the 6 furlongs in eleventh position.

Wave On gained the early lead as the bulky field left the barrier, but Workman had Caterwaul well up and the Whitney juvenile pressed the pace of Wave On to the stretch turn where Workman called upon his mount for additional speed and the colt passed Wave On under mild urging. Wave On finished a length in front of Poppyman, which outbattled Illusive for the third money. Illusive had been a serious factor in the early running of the race.

Black Patricia won its second race in as many days, defeating platers, while Stealing Away won the opening test for juveniles.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STEALINGAWAY, $9.90, $3.80, $3.30; METAURUS, $3.00, $2.50; INDIAN BOY, $3.50.

STEALINGAWAY, at home in the going and having good speed to take command, raced PURE PACT into defeat when placed to the pressure when challenged and outstayed METAURUS. Latter kept close up and under stout pressure made a determined effort when approaching the homestretch, swerved to the inside and weakened when reaching the backstretch, was repeatedly blocked, and closed gamely when securing second place. INDIAN BOY went forwardly, but could not threaten the first two in the final stages.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:45. Off at 2:46½. Winner, W. C. Weant's b. g. (3), by Prince Pal—Lady Fox. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 4-5, 0:50, 1:16 1-5, 1:43 3-5, 1:50 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRINCE FOX, $7.60, $4.40, $2.80; MUD, $7.10, $4.00; MARPLOT, $2.80.

PRINCE FOX, partial to the footing and sent into a prominent position, came to the outside of the leaders when shaken up and moving into command in the final furlong, drew out smartly. MUD, hurried to the front, withstood stout contention from MARPLOT, was placed to punishment when entering the homestretch and held on gamely. MARPLOT, forced to hold a forward position while racing next to the inside rail, was held safe when the real issue came.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start bad from gate. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:20½. Winner, R. Green's blk. m. (6), by Alibi—Mary Patricia. Trained by R. M. McKeown. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:50, 1:16 2-5, 1:43 3-5, 1:50 2-5.

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK PATRICIA, $6.60, $3.50, $2.50; MISS CORINNE, $3.70, $2.70; BUBOLA, $2.70.

BLACK PATRICIA, under her field to the first turn, was rated in front while under steadying restraint, and drew out without effort in the final quarter mile. MISS CORINNE improved her position on the outside, and finished courageously. BUBOLA offered repeated efforts in the first six furlongs, but weakened when straightened into the homestretch. MOCKER, kept forwardly, placed early, tired when the final test came. FRESHET was never formidable.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:53. Winner, G. C. Melton's ch. m. (5), by Ladkin—Star Class. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 3-5, 1:16 2-5, 1:43 2-5, 1:50.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STAR LASSIE, $7.90, $4.20, $2.80; FERVID, $3.70, $2.70; VILLAGE VAMP, $2.40.

STAR LASSIE, well handled and placed forwardly, reached the leaders steadily when leaving the backstretch, wore FERVID down gradually and outstayed the latter nearing the finish. FERVID, going in her best form, shook off THOUGHTS early, placed second and continued gamely when caught. VILLAGE VAMP, sent up on the inside when reaching the backstretch, was repeatedly blocked, and closed gamely when securing fourth place. FUNNY, never a factor, was outfinished after showing speed.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $20,000 added; the Eastern Shore Handicap. For 2-year-olds. Start good from barrier, without stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:30. Off at 4:35½. Winner, Whitney's blk. c. (2), by Mad Hatter—Pun. Trained by T. J. Healey. Value to winner, $30,000; second, $3,000; third, $1,500; fourth, $500. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:14 2-5.

*Field. †C. V. Whitney entry. ‡W. R. Coe entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CATERWAUL, $11.00, $5.30, $3.70; WAVE ON (field), $4.60, $3.00; POPPYMAN, $4.20.

CATERWAUL, securing racing room on the inside to hold a forward position, came around WAVE ON and CUTIE FACE when reaching the homestretch and kept under strong urging, finished with speed in reserve at the end. WAVE ON, away quickly, raced CUTIE FACE into defeat, saved ground but could not stay when challenged by the winner. POPPYMAN worked his way up on the outside and finished willingly. ILLUSIVE, going forwardly under severe urging, held on with good courage. OKAPI weaved his way through between his field and was racing stoutly at the end. BALIOS finished with good speed. MUSLET went forwardly and showed a good effort. LADYSMAN broke slowly on the extreme outside and could never reach a contending position.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 5:04. Off at 5:12½. Winner, P. A. Markey's b. g. (5), by Sweep—Blue Jeans. Trained by R. E. Pons. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:41 1-5, 1:47 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—UNENCUMBERED, $7.50, $4.20, $3.20; FLAMING MAMIE, $8.60, $5.50; JOLLY PILOT, $3.40.

UNENCUMBERED, favored by improved handling, sprinted into an easy lead, raced under restraint until entering the homestretch and held sway thereafter. FLAMING MAMIE, sent up on the inside when midway of the turn, was eased back to come to the outside of the winner, but was not good enough. JOLLY PILOT followed within striking distance of the leaders, but weakened after six furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 5:45. Off at 5:45½. Winner, C. C. Smithson's br. g. (3), by General Thatcher—Columbia II. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:14 1-5, 1:41, 1:48 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENERAL LEJEUNE, $17.10, $7.80, $5.70; HOMEWORK, $6.00, $4.60; ZONE, $15.90.

GENERAL LEJEUNE, kept close to HOMEWORK from the start, swung to the outside entering the homestretch, and disposing of the pacemaker, drew out under stiff pressure. HOMEWORK, rushed to the front, was steadied along while saving ground, but faltered during the closing furlong.

AL HOUGHTON ANNEXES OPEN GOLF

Maryland's Event Won By Stroke

Diffenbaugh Second Despite Record 67 on First Round.

Winner Scores 144 in 36-Hole Event at Columbia.

By DAVE HERMAN.

CONSISTENCY is everything in golf, the experts say. For instance, yesterday at the Columbia Country Club, Al Houghton, professional wizard from Kenwood, and Freddie McLeod, home pro, shot 71s in their morning round, while the fiery little tutor from Indian Spring, George Diffenbaugh, burned up the course with 67 for a new competitive record.

An epidemic of inaccurate putting overtook Diffenbaugh in the afternoon and his score soared to 78. McLeod was forced to fight his way out of bunker after bunker only to find his putting touch failed him, and he used up 77 strokes. Pursuing the even tenor of his way, Houghton covered the last nine with a par-cracking 34, finished the 36 holes with 144, won the right to wear the 1932 Maryland Open golf crown, and left for his home richer by $150.

Diffenbaugh Beaten By Stroke.

Diffenbaugh, whose sensational score for the first eighteen—3 below par—shaved two strokes off the medal play mark established by Long Jim Barnes and Al Hackberth in the 1921 national open at Columbia, was nosed out by a stroke, and took place money of $75. McLeod, with 148, won $50. Glenn Spencer, Maryland Country Club pro, with 149; Bob Barnett, of Chevy Chase, 151; Gene Larkin, of Chevy Chase, 152, and Carroll MacMasters, of Hillendale, 152, earned $20 each. The defending champion, Ralph Beach, of Suburban, finding difficulty on the greens, finished in a tie at 153 with Cliff Spencer, of Beaver Dam, each capturing $10.

Houghton Puts on Strong Finish.

Houghton, starting with a 6 in the morning, rallied after taking a 38 on the first nine, to shoot the stretch in 33, two below par. Al again found the first nine holes none too easy in the afternoon, but blazed home triumphantly, starting with the twenty-eighth.

Diffenbaugh's morning round included birdies on the second, sixth, seventh, twelfth, fourteenth and eighteenth. On the last eighteen, he three-putted the fifth, sixth, ninth and thirteenth, being out in 42. He braced to finish with a 36. A 30-foot putt faced him on the thirty-sixth hole, and George missed his chance of tying Houghton when the ball barely rolled past the pin.

Perhaps the most spectacular coup of the day came in the afternoon on the 503-yard twelfth, which George negotiated in an eagle three. Here he drove, strange as it may seem, 400 yards, planted his mashie niblick second 3 inches from the hole and was easily down.

Boswell Bird Wins Race From Pulaski

Following is the speed flown in yards per minute of the finishing birds:

Boswell, 873.50; Diamer, 864.84; Hile, 863.25; Prather, 860.08; Darr, 859.60; J. Eck, 859.20; Goddard, 856.50; Dougherty & Son, 855.60; Whitmore, 854.20; Bethesda Loft, 828.34; Burke, 826.58; Thomas, 810.50; Pennington, 806.70; Woodside Loft, 782.20; Worch, 770.94; Hayes, 687.30.

CUBS' PITCHERS FAIL IN OPENING GAME

Huggins left off with eight straight conquests for the 1927-28 championship club, Marse Joe McCarthy directed his forces to a decisive victory, even though he was aided and abetted as much by the erratic Cub defense as he was by the Yankees' ability to hit solidly in the pinches.

Ruth showed little evidence of his recent illness, swinging with his customary vigor at the plate even though his output for the day included only a single, in addition to two walks, a grounder to Grimm and a pop fly to Koenig. The Babe looked none too good on the defense, however. He not only made a two-base error on English's line single down the foul line in the first inning but, in the seventh forced Earle combs to come galloping away over into the Ruthian precincts to snag the same Cub hitter's deep drive.

College Grid Year Opens At Park Tomorrow Night

George Washington Host to Westminster Eleven; C. U. Plays City College in New York; Maryland Visits Virginia.

THE first local college football game of the season will be held at Griffith Stadium tomorrow night when the big and speedy George Washington University eleven tangles with the even bigger, but somewhat slower, Westminster College team of New Wilmington, Pa.

The Colonials, seeking to keep their slate clean for the Alabama game October 8, will throw their best team against the Pennsylvanians at the start of the game, hoping to run up a comfortable lead which can be turned over to the G .W. reserves, who need the varsity competition very much.

The team continued its program of light workouts yesterday at Griffith Stadium, scoring frequently against the big freshman team equipped with Westminster plays.

Chris Doose, guard, who played a fine defensive game against Washington and Lee, will not play against Westminster, becoming a member of the injured fraternity yesterday with an infected foot. His place probably will be taken by Hardy Pearce, big lineman developed at Camp Letts, who has been on the injured list himself since early in the campaign.

"Threats" of the Westminster Team are Homer Dishong, 240-pound tackle; Whitey Siljander, right end, who is safety man on defense, and Bob Scarbrough, speedy half back.

Tickets for tomorrow night's game range from 25 cents to $1, plus tax. Tickets also go on sale today for the Alabama game, ranging from 50 cents to $1.50, plus tax. A special section of the stands at Griffith Stadium has been set aside for Alabama fans on October 8, these tickets being at Spalding's.

C. U. Leaves Tomorrow For New York.

Catholic University's big and speedy football squad went through one of its most encouraging scrimmages since the inception of the Notre Dame system at the school yesterday afternoon, bumping off the freshmen team without trouble and clicking at times like a South Bend varsity.

It was the final scrimmage of the week. The team, 38 strong, leaves tomorrow at 1 o'clock for New York, where City College will be met Saturday afternoon.

Red Fleming, 6-foot-2-inch tackle on last year's freshman team, earned a place on the first squad at right end yesterday, climaxing several weeks' fine play on the wing. He ousted Johnnie Ball, who was substituting for Ray Howe, crippled regular wingman.

Maryland to Depend Upon Speed.

Speed and still more speed is the keynote at Maryland University this week, where the Old Liners are putting the finishing touches on the team which will meet Virginia Saturday at Charlottesville.

Long since aware of the fact that Maryland's greatest chance this year lies in its Mercury-legged backs, Curley Byrd spent two hours yesterday afternoon inculcating more and more speed and deceptiveness into his raft of back field material, although as a whole the back field is considered comparatively much farther advanced than the line.

The feeling at Maryland is that nothing much is expected of the line this year. Rarely in the history of football at College Park have so many linemen graduated as did at the close of last year's school session, leaving Byrd but one 1931 regular, Charlie Keenan, tackle, who since has been hurt.

The 1932 Maryland back field is something else, being in many ways the best balanced group of ball runners the Terps have had in five years. Their present plan is to run the Cavaliers ragged with sweeping end plays, aerials and other such stunts. It is not planned to tamper much with line plunging, a decision formed partly because of the lack of confidence in the Maryland line and partly because of the burly Virginia forward wall.

G. U. About Ready for Opener Saturday.

Thirteen ball carriers, who possess the native talents of world beaters, were sent through another drill yesterday at Georgetown University's training field, where the Hoyas are girding for Saturday's initial fray with Mount St. Mary's at Griffith Stadium.

Through the long workout it began to appear evident that Coach Tommy Mills has at last decided on the combinations which he will match up this year among his raft of rampaging Hilltop backs. It is likely that the first back field, if one is any better than the other, will be made up of Bernie Donoghue, quarter back; Al Kelly and Stanley Alenty, half backs, and Wilmer Bradley, full back.

The second back field, which carries more brawn than the first and seems just about as fast, is made up of Hilary Costello, quarter back; Nick Viskovitch and Mack Stanley, half backs, and John Shimmins, full back. The so-called third back field seems to be Mike Lione, quarter back; Joe Severini and Mike Chappa, half backs, and Louis Dee, full back. Charlie Purcells, 170-pound half back, and a 10-second man, will see as much service as the next one. He works in well with any of these combinations.

Large Mohawk Squad Ready for Initial Tilt

With all sections of the country and a host of colleges represented on its roster, the Mohawk team last night proceeded with its work in preparation for the season's opening game at Griffith Stadium Sunday. The Overbrook Whitejackets, of Philadelphia, will oppose the Southeast eleven. Fee Collier, quarter back, donned his familiar No. 37 jersey for the first time last night. He is in the pink of condition and probably will start against the invaders.

PLAY BY PLAY

to Gehrig. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

YANKEES—Bush quickly filled the bases by walking Sewell, Ruth and Gehrig, the first three to face him, the Cubs holding a council of war and finally decided to let Bush continue on the mound. Lazzeri popped to Koenig. Dickey shot a liner-single to center, scoring Sewell and Ruth and sending Gehrig to third. Gehrig scored on Chapman's roller to Herman, who threw wide trying to nip the runner at the plate. It went as a fielder's choice. Dickey took second on the play. Crosetti walked, again filling the bases. Grimes, veteran spit-baller, then relieved Bush. Ruffing grounded to Koenig and Dickey was forced at the plate, the other runners moving up. Chapman and Crosetti scored on Combs' sharp single to center, Ruffing advancing to third. Grimm took Sewell's bounder and pegged to Koenig, at second, for a forced play. Five runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

SEVENTH INNING.

CUBS—Grimes missed a third strike. Herman singled over Lazzeri's head. Combs made a fine running catch of English's line-drive deep into Ruth's territory. Crosetti missed Cuyler's sharp drive and it was a two-base error, Herman reaching third and Cuyler second. Both scored on Stephenson's single to left. Moore walked. Grimm grounded out, Ruffing to Gehrig. Two runs, two hits, one error, two left.

YANKEES—Ruth walked and took third on Gehrig's hit-and-run single to left, Gehrig taking second on the throw-in. Lazzeri was safe at first, Ruth scored and Gehrig took third on a slow roller to Herman, which went as a hit. Dickey was hit on the leg by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Chapman hoisted to Moore, Gehrig scoring after the catch. Crosetti rolled to Koenig and Dickey was forced at second, Lazzeri stopping at third. Lazzeri scored on a wild pitch. Crosetti tried to reach third on the play but was called out on Hartnett's throw to English. The latter dropped the ball but the umpire decided he had tagged the runner before letting the ball get away from him. Three runs, two hits, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING.

CUBS—Hartnett lashed a double to left. Koenig drove a long triple to right-center, scoring Hartnett. Gudatt batted for Grimes and was called out on strikes. Koenig scored on Herman's roller to Gehrig, who tossed to Ruffing for a close putout at first. English walked on four pitched balls. Cuyler popped to Lazzeri who took the ball in short right. Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

YANKEES—Bob Smith pitching for the Cubs. Ruffing missed a third strike. Combs dropped a two-base Texas Leaguer in short center, Moore losing the ball in the sun. Sewell singled through short, Combs scoring. Ruth popped to Koenig. Gehrig lined to Cuyler, who took the ball high on the right field bank. One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

NINTH INNING.

BUSH OUT OF GAS, SAYS H. I. PHILLIPS

The opening game settled the National issue concerning Babe Ruth's stomach, over which there has been so much apprehension throughout the country that there was talk of putting it under Federal control.

No matter what's the matter with the most notable stomach in America, it is good enough for the 1932 world series.

The Babe was the big menace at all times and he really started the warfare in the fourth when he socked out a blazing single with one man on, and provided an inventive for his boy friend Lou Gehrig to sock a homer into the bleachers. When they cleared away the wounded Yanks had three runs, thereby vetoing a lead of two runs gained by the Cubs in a whirlwind start.

All the Yanks wanted to know was that the Babe was not sick and that Gehrig was healthy enough for the two of them.

In the sixth, they staged one of these uprisings that have put the Yanks in the class with the Great Roughnecks of history.

The entire line-up batted. Bush walked Sewell, Ruth and Gehrig to open the inning. And a little later when Chapman, the bad boy of the bases, got on the bags he threw the Cubs into such a case of big jitters that anything could happen. And almost everything did.

The Yanks got five runs in that one spasm and at its conclusion the Cubs were groggier than Mahatma Gandhi on the sixth day of his Hollywood diet.

In the seventh, Messrs. Ruth and Gehrig and Lazzeri scored again and it went on like that until the customers stopped counting. In the meantime the Cubs had managed to collect six runs but they didn't seem to matter.

All in all it was a severe blow to the Chicago strategy. Mr. Bush had figured to be their best bet against the Ruppert Maulers. He is a slow ball pitcher and the Yanks are supposed to thrive only on fast balls. Life is full of upsets.

New York's new thrift mayor, Joseph McKee, threw out the first ball, and in the interest of economy put a "cut" on it.

He entered the park in a dark suit and with no entourage. When Jimmy Walker was mayor his entrance used to be a thing worthy of the late Mr. Ziegfeld. All in all McKee's working through a world series furnished the youth of the country with a fine example of modesty and thrift.

But with the Yanks it was otherwise. They still consider it the home of the Riotous and the land of the spree.

off Ruffing in the first inning and scoring two runs with the help of Babe Ruth's two-base error on a single. Here was an intimation of the Cubs' renowned attacking qualities, and the 41,459 paid-up patrons in the three-tiered temple of swat sat back to watch the Yankees wipe out this lead.

The threatening weather and world series admission prices kept the crowd down to comparatively small proportions and approximately 20,000 empty seats stared out of the field. But the gathering would have been capacity or near for any other city, and the inpouring thousands a few minutes before game time, traditionally New York, brought the gathering up to more respectable figures. The box seats customers were drenched by a sweeping rain five minutes before game time, but a moment later the sun beamed its authority to start play on schedule.

Gehrig Gets Homer And Single.

Of the Yankees' eight hits, the trenchant bat of Gehrig accounted for two, a home run and a single, with Earl Combs sharing the Yankee honors with a double and single. Numerically speaking, Riggs Stephenson, the old hoss of the Cubs, was the leader with three singles that drove in three runs.

It would be correct to say that Ruffing struck out the side in the first inning, but jumping at conclusions would mean the failure to realize the damage done by the Cubs between strikeouts. Little Billy Herman, playing in his first world series, dropped a clean single to center and Elwood English responded with another single over Gehrig's head that Ruth permitted to hop past his glove for a two-base error while Herman scored and English reached third.

Ruffing struck out Cuyler, but Stephenson came through with the first of his three singles to bring English home. Ruffing then sent Moore and Grimm back to the bench on strikes to retire the side. They were the first of his eight strike-out victims.

Pitching as if his fate hung on every throw, almost heaving himself out of the box in his earnestness, Bush disposed of the top of the Yankee batting order in the first inning, of the middle in the second inning, of the bottom in the third, and had pitched three hitless frames. Three hitless frames to protect his 2-0 lead when Combs, the tenth Yankee batter, sauntered to the plate in the fourth.

Here Bush lapsed, his armor pierced for the first time, when he walked the Yankee lead-off man. Combs advanced to second as Grimm made a scintillating pick-up to beat Sewell to first base, and Ruth was given his second opportunity to atone for his first-inning error. He did. A slashing single off the Babe's bat into right field sent Combs home with the Yankee's first run, and brought Gehrig to the plate. It was the first hit off Bush.

Gehrig Makes Second Hit.

Gehrig made the second hit off Bush. The slender Cub pitcher with the serious mein, permitted Gehrig to work him for a three and two count. The next offering was waist high but slightly wide. It never reached the plate. Gehrig's bat intercepted it and whistled far over Cuyler's head halfway up into the right field bleachers for a home run that scored the Babe also and deposited the Yankees in a 3-2 lead that was the beginning of the end for the Cubs.

A double play started by Herman with two on base thwarted a hitless Yankee threat in the fifth, but Bush was routed off the hill in a five-run uprising in the sixth, much of it of his own making when he passed Sewell, Ruth and Gehrig in succession to start the inning.

After a reassuring pat on the back from Manager Grimm, it seemed that Bush might avert the threat when he forced Lazzeri to pop to Koenig for the first out with the bases still loaded, but Bill Dickey dispelled the rising hope with a sharp single through the box to score Sewell and Ruth. Herman presented the Yankees with their third run of the inning when he threw wide to Hartnett to catch Gehrig at the plate after taking Chapman's grounder and the bases were filled again a moment later when Bush's control lapsed to the extent of passing Crosetti.

Out of the bullpen in left field strolled Burleigh Grimes to relieve the tottering Bush. He engineered the second out when Koenig took Ruffing's bouncer to force Dickey at home, but Grimes did not escape before Combs, with a scorching single through the box, scored Chapman and Crosetti for the fourth and fifth runs of the inning. The rally finally expired with Sewell forcing Combs, Grimm to Koenig, and the summary of the inning showed five runs on two hits, singles, two fielders' choices and four bases on balls.

Cubs Fill Bases But Fail To Score.

The Cubs' attack subsided after the first, Ruffing turning them back runless until the seventh. He permitted a single by Cuyler in the third with two out and a double by Hartnett in the fourth under the same conditions. Following this latter blow, Ruffing filled the bases by walking Koenig intentionally and Bush accidentally, but he was rescued by Chapman's clever catch of Herman's long fly for the third out.

It was in the third and fourth that the first exchange of managerial strategy was witnessed. Cuyler negotiated the first steal of the series after this single with two out in the third, but it went for naught with Stephenson unable to deliver any of his three singles at that time.

Manager McCarthy's strategical effort was confined to the intentional walking of Koenig to fill the bases with two out and get a shot at the weak hitting Bush, but Ruffing evidently had become a slave to the four-ball habit for the nonce and he walked the pitcher on five pitches, Chapman's catch of Herman's fly averted a complete miscarriage of McCarthy's inside stuff.

The Yankees' 8-2 lead then withstood the late assaults of the Cubs and when Chicago, benefiting from an error by Crosetti, scored two runs in the seventh, the Yankees replied by combing Burleigh Grimes for three tallies in their half of the inning in which a wild pitch and a hit batter figured.

True to the theme of their National League pennant victory, the Cubs went down fighting, scoring twice in the eighth and once in the ninth, but Ruffing applied the brakes easily to win his first world series start and begin to justify the odds that had made the Yankees 2-to-1 favorites to win the series.

ST. JOHN'S AT BALTIMORE SATURDAY

Council Replaces Injured Cullinane Against St. Joe.

GRATIFIED with his team's showing against Central Tuesday, Coach Jack Dunn, of St. John's, looks forward to Saturday's game with Mount St. Joseph's at Baltimore. The cadet mentor anticipates a hard battle with the Josephites, but he expects a victory also.

Joe Cullinane, plucky St. John's end, who put up a whale of a fight against the heavier Central team before he was carried off the field in the third quarter with a wrenched knee, will be on the side lines, probably for several weeks, but he will have a worthy and capable man in Council filling his shoes.

Small But Hard-Working Back Field.

The surprise of the St. John's-Central game was the manner in which its small back field worked. Only one, Johnny McCarthy, could be called big, and he was lanky rather than hefty. But the drive and willingness they exhibited compensated in a large measure for their lack of size.

Francis Jordan looked good at his full back post and has a bright future. Jordan carried the ball on every other play for the Johnnies and usually advanced the pigskin 4 or 5 yards every trip. McCarthy's judgment in handling the team's attack, and the sterling work of Capt. Turk Daly on the defense were enough to warm the heart of St. John's supporters.

Women's Golf Final At Congressional

Mrs. J. F. Dowdall and Miss Virginia Williams will clash tomorrow at Congressional Country Club, to determine the 1932 women's golf championship. Mrs. Dowdall reached the finals by defeating Mrs. Henry J. Richardson, 3 and 1, while Miss Williams eliminated Mrs. H. A. Knox, 2 and 1.

In the second flight Mrs. Ralph W. Orr defeated Mrs. C. B. des Jarin, 6 and 4, and Mrs. H. H. Moffitt defeated Mrs. Robert C. Jones, 2 and 1. Third flight honors went to Mrs. Elden MacFarland, who beat Mrs. Frank Yager, 4 and 2.

FINALS AT WOODMONT.

Mrs. Jack Shulman defeated Mrs. Theodore Peyser, 3 and 1 yesterday, to go into the finals of the Woodmont Country Club golf tournament. Today she will meet Mrs. Ralph Goldsmith, who beat Miss Bertha Israel, 1 up. In the second flight Mrs. Gilbert Hahn defeated Miss Vera Reisken, 5 and 3, and Mrs. E. W. Straus defeated Mrs. I. Goldenberg, 5 and 4.

WOMEN VIE AT COLUMBIA.

Women golfers from Maryland and the District of Columbia will compete today at Columbia Country Club in an 18-hole medal handicap tournament, with 14 prizes to be awarded. Play will start shortly before 9 o'clock. Entries without Maryland State Association handicaps will be asked to pay 50 cents at the first tee.

MERCURY TO DRILL.

Manager Chick Webster is endeavoring to book a practice game for the Mercury A. C. Practice will be held tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at Sixth and B streets southwest. Call Metropolitan 4711.

Hitting the Headpin

WRECKING CREW and Tornadoes lassoed the team prizes last night at Arcadia in the opening matches of the Dynamite League. Wrecking Crew had a game of 519 and the Tornadoes' damage was to the extent of a 1,500 set. Cyrnes' 134 game and Edwards' 340 total were high.

Rena Levey rolled the highest set of the young season, 357, in the Ladies' District League at Convention Hall to help the Columbias win the odd game from their hosts. Mrs. Reudi, enjoying her first season in bowling, spilled 135 pins for high game, but it failed to save the home team.

Ollie Webb's 406 effort, including a high game of 144, topped all individual sets in the Takoma League. His team, Walker-Buschling Printers, took the odd one from Old Colony. Blue Ribbons, with 1,706, rolled the best team set.

The champion Rendezvous quintet slaughtered Georgetown at Rendezvous last night, landing all three games. Irene Scott was the heroine of the evening with a 322 total. Her best game amounted to 120 badly dented pins.

Loretto Leaman's 141 score for the 10 boxes, made for King Pin in its match with Recreation at Lucky Strike, constitutes the best game rolled thus far in the Ladies District League. Miss Leaman finished with a 336 set and her team finished a game ahead of its opponent.

Elaine Palmer's 120 and 324 scores led the Bill Woods to a 2-1 victory over Lucky Strike on the latter's drives in another Ladies District League match. The only other matches rolled resulted in a clean sweep for the Mills Five over Petworth and a 2-1 triumph for Arcadia over Meyer Davis.

HOME LOAN BANKS EXPLAINED TO CLUB

Speaking at the fall meeting of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, held yesterday in the Jefferson Firemen's Hall, Miss Julia D. Connor, assistant secretary of the Federal Home Loan Board, declared it the only relief measure passed by the last session of Congress that is a permanent addition to the credit structure of this country.

Miss Connor pointed out that the Home Loan Banks will provide a reserve system where home financing institutions can obtain funds which will make possible the renewal of straight mortgages, and the making of extended time, reduced-payment mortgages, which will make it possible to reduce the mortgage in small monthly payments.

The following nominating committee was elected to select a slate of officers which will be elected at the November meeting:

Mrs. Ruth B. Lowell, Mrs. Jessie Roberts, Mrs. H. P. Simpson, Mrs. E. J. Skidmore, Mrs. Marion Hagan, Mrs. J. Vernon Smith, and Mrs. Carrie Gibson.

The president announced the appointment of Mrs. A. Dexter Davis as delegate to the Arlington County Civic Federation to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Ruby G. Simpson.

Houghton and Shorey In Exhibition Sunday

Al Houghton, of Kenwood, new Maryland open golf champion, and Mel Shorey, pro from East Potomac, will play an eighteen hole exhibition match against Cliff Spencer, of Beaver Dam, and his brother Glenn, of Maryland Country Club, Sunday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock at Beaver Dam.

SENIOR-PRO GOLF PLAY.

The senior-pro golf tournament postponed this past Monday at Chevy Chase, will be held next Monday, starting at 2 o'clock. Tutors and senior members from the Middle Atlantic section will participate.

SAVAGE CUP GOLF.

Match play competition for senior golfers for the Savage Trophy will commence today at Chevy Chase with all first round matches to be completed before October 5.

Pairings for the first round follow: Admiral C. B. McVey vs. Gen. H. E. Ely; Gen. R. H. Allen vs. Capt. C. A. McKay; Col. William Morrow vs. L. R. Eskin; C. V. Wheeler vs. Col. J. H. Cowles; Gen. C. B. Drake vs. Judge E. K. Campbell; Gen D. C. Shanks vs. Maj. H. A. Gillis; Gen. M. M. Patrick vs. Judge W. C. Brentley; Gen. E. D. Bricker vs. Col. Edward Clifford.

SERIES HIGHLIGHTS

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The Yankees came quite close to a world series record by manufacturing their dozen runs in today's game on only eight hits. They forced Guy Bush out of the box after connecting with his curve balls for only three safe blows, two in the fourth and one in the sixth that was sandwiched between four bases on balls.

Bush apparently never recovered from the shock of Lou Gehrig's home run in the fourth. The next time he faced the top of the Yankee batting order he was so unsettled he passed Sewell, Ruth and Gehrig in rapid succession.

Burleigh Grimes didn't look like the same pitcher who baffled the Athletic a year ago for the Cardinals. The spitball veteran was almost as wild as Bush. His performance did not strengthen the belief he will see any further action against the Yankees, except in a relief role.

To Babe Ruth fell the doubtful distinction of making the first of three errors that marked the opening game. Frank Crosetti, the Yankees' recruit shortstop, and Elwood English, Cub third sacker, made the others. There were only two errors in the first five games of the 1931 series, both by the Cardinals, as the Athletics made a record of five straight games without a misplay.

Marvin Gudat, reserve Cub outfielder, went the way of most world series pinch hitters. He batted for Grimes in the eighth and fanned.

Just when it looked as if the skies had gotten all the rain out of their systems a sudden squall hit the stadium as Bush and Ruffing started to warm up. Players rushed to the dugout, spectators scurried back into the stands from the exposed lower sections and bleacherites hoisted umbrellas and wrapped newspapers about themselves. The shower held up the start fifteen minutes.

Commissioner Landis proved himself a weather prophet. An hour and a half before the game was scheduled to start, Manager McCarthy was all in favor of a postponement because of wet grounds, but Landis demurred. "The sun will pop out in a little while and we'll have a game," he predicted. It did, and they did.

The Yankees finished the first game without a scratch or an injury of any kind. Babe Ruth, the noted invalid, said he "felt swell." Lefty Gomez, choice of Manager Joe McCarthy to work tomorrow, said he was in great shape.

Ruth, who had "ridden" the Cubs before the game for allotting Mark Koenig only a half share of their world series profits, was more sympathetic after it was over. Told the Cubs had barred their clubhouse door, the Babe remarked: "I don't blame them for not wanting to see anybody. That's the kind of a game that breaks your heart."

Manager Charley Grimm couldn't solve Ruffing's high hard ones. He struck out on his first two trips to the plate, but walked twice thereafter.

Ruffing evidently didn't feel chummy with the Cub pitchers. He floored Bush with a wild curve in the second inning and forced Grimes to hit the dirt abruptly to escape being hit in the seventh.

PAGING DEL RAY PILOT.

TROJANS TO PRACTICE.

Young Democrats Club Begins Meetings Tonight

The Young Democrats Club of Fairfax County will meet this evening in the town hall at Vienna. Representative Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, will be the principal speaker.

This is the first of a series of meetings by the Young Democrats prior to the presidential election in November. A meeting will be held in each of the six magisterial districts of the county.

DEMOCRATS LAUNCH DRIVE IN ARLINGTON

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Democrats of Arlington County launched their campaign to carry the county at the November election with a mass meeting last night in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon with more than 150 persons attending.

Representative Howard W. Smith, of the Eighth Congressional District, the principal speaker, declared he resented the rule of the Republican party toward the practices of the Civil Service Commission "which prevents a Federal employe from expressing his God-given rights as to who shall and who shall not govern. When the Democratic party comes into power next March I do not believe that such practice will be tolerated," he added.

Smith attacked the veto of the Garner relief bill by saying that that portion of the bill which would have given the right of the smaller man to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was stricken out. Today, if the large railroads want a loan they get it; if the manufacturers of railroad equipment want a loan they do not, he said.

Among other speakers were Robert Barton, of Richmond, former member of the General Assembly; Mrs. Catherine M. Rogers, president of the Woman's Democratic Club of Arlington County, and Robert N. Anderson, president of the Men's Club.

MacWhite Heard At Rotary Session

Minister of the Irish Free State Stresses Work of League.

Addressing a meeting of the Washington Rotary Club in the Willard Hotel yesterday, Michael MacWhite, Minister of the Irish Free State, stressed the influence of American thought in the founding of the League of Nations and pointed out that its principal aim was to promote cooperation between countries and reduce, rather than prevent war.

Many definite accomplishments are credited to the League of Nations, Mr. MacWhite declared. As examples he cited the troubles of Finland and Sweden, settled by the league; the Polish-Lithuanian struggle over the City of Wilna, which was settled in part and the work in the Greco-Italian troubles over the seizue of Crete by the latter.

"The league's work to promote disarmament is well known," Mr. MacWhite declared, "but less well known are its efforts on the humanitarian side. It has helped develop high standards governing child labor and has played an important role in attacking the problems of tariffs and embargoes."

Royal Arcanum Lodge Meets in Alexandria

Alexandria Council No. 627, Royal Arcanum, held its semimonthly meeting Tuesday night in the George Mason Hotel, Alexandria. Guests included the grand regent of Virginia, the grand regent of the District of Columbia, and the field manager of the order in Virginia, and delegations from Washington and Warrenton, Va.

James Bayne, regent of the Alexandria council, welcomed the guests, and the honors of the order were rendered to the supreme and grand council officers. Addresses were delivered by Grand Regent C. B. Connor, of Lexington, Va.; Arthur A. Philo, field manager for Virginia, of Keyport, N. J.; E. G. King, grand regent of the District of Columbia; Supreme Committeemen S. H. Talkes and W. M. Shumaker, both of Washington, and James R. Mansfield, of the Alexandria council.

Evans Is Named Head Of Lyon Park Citizens

DeWitt M. Evans was elected president of the Lyon Park Citizzenzs Association last night. Other officers elected were Clement M. Johnson, vice president; Mrs. John Kulps, recording secretary; Mrs. N. B. Medley, corresponding secretary, and J. C. Folsom, treasurer.

Takoma Park Chamber Again Elects Bennette

Gordon W. Bennette was reelected president of the Takoma Park Chamber of Commerce yesterday at a meeting held in the Takoma Inn. This will be his third term.

Other officers elected were Oliver W. Youngblood, vice pesident; John W. Coffman, secretary, and J. Milton Derrick, treasurer. New directors included Roy C. Potts, Charles H. Knett and H. L. Thornton.

Patel Denies Audience With Hoover Refused

V. J. Patel, former Lord Mayor of Bombay and close associate of Mahatma Gandhi in India's fight for autonomy, denied, in an address before the National Press Club yesterday, that he had been refused permission to see President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson.

Commenting on published reports to that effect, the eminent Indian declared he had not sought any audience with either the Chief Executive of the Secretary of State but affirmed his confidence that they would see him. He described conditions in India.

Dance Series to Start.

Announcement is made that the Jefferson Fire Department at Virginia Highlands will start the series of weekly benefit dances Saturday night. They will be held in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall.

Stocks Renew Advances, Inspired by Trade Gains

Average Rise of 1.9 Points Recorded in Sale of 1,500,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Stocks took advantage of favorable midweek trade statistics today and most of the active favorites expanded their quotations 1 to 3 points, although trading volume hung around recent low levels.

The market had a rather decided professional aspect, for business was confined to comparatively few stocks. The improvement, however, proved to be more durable than yesterday, final prices being around the highs. Sales totaled about 1,500,000 shares.

Wheat lent support to the generally better feeling of the moment and its modest gains were used as levers to mark up farm implement and mail order issues. There was, nevertheless, a reasonably cheerful tone to the day's general news. It included formal announcement of the Coolidge rail committee, small gains in steel production and electric power output, and further evidence that railroads were enjoying more substantial traffic.

Iron Age's report that steel mills were averaging 17½ per cent of theoretical capacity against 16 a week ago helped equities representing that industry. U. S. Steel common and Bethlehem finished a point or more.

American Can, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Case, Harvester and Westinghouse, up 2 to more than 3, contributed substantially to the industrial group's progress, while American Telephone, 3 higher at the best, gave strong leadership to utilities.

Montgomery Ward reached a new 1932 high. So did Mack Truck. Drug hardened on the lifting of selling pressure. New York Central and Pennsylvania, whose August incomes were larger than July's, presumably due in larger measure to reduced operating costs, were firm. Several rails gained at least a point.

Several railroads reported larger car loadings for last week than for the previous period, although advances were not as striking as a week ago, when recovery from the Labor Day lull was being experienced. New York Central, Pennsylvania and Santa Fe were among the roads to show gains.

New steel business is confined largely to small lines, but orders have been sufficient, apparently, to insure a September mill output nearly equal to June's, and the trade expects better inquiry from the railroads will soon appear, the theory being that repair shops will need material.

Electric current produced last week registered a moderate gain over the previous week, and the decrease from a year ago was reduced to 10.2 per cent, the most favorable comparison in some time. Improvement in the central industrial region was noted, but that area is still lagging considerably behind others.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Wednesday.	Tuesday.
Advances	288	246
Declines	130	172
Stocks unchanged	112	115
Total issues traded.	530	533

Stocks.

Favorable trade reports encouraged stocks to renew advances. An average gain of 1.9 points was recorded. The market had a professional aspect. Steels firmed a point. The turnover was approximately 1,500,000 shares.

Bonds.

The market dawdled irregularly and closed with prices on the selected list of 60 issues unchanged. High-grade issues held firm. Some loans gained new high levels. The turnover was $8,929,000.

Curb.

Trading slowed down to 150,000 shares, but prices moved higher. Utility issues led gains. Oils were stagnant. Sugars lost 7 points on hurricane news.

Wheat.

Active buying support firmed prices after a sharp decline. Chinese and Japanese purchasing prospects aided, but it was Eastern buying again that strengthened the market. September wheat sold for 52½ to 52⅝ cents per bushel. Corn and oats were irregular.

Cotton.

Quieter trading and consequent lack of demand sent cotton down 6 to 10 points. December closed at 7.34. Liverpool reported buying.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON — Gilt-edged securities and Japanese bonds were firmer on the stock exchange in the forenoon. Transatlantic shares, speculative issues and home industrials drooped due to lack of support after early steadiness. The market closed dull.

PARIS—Trading was hesitant on the bourse. Rentes were sustained but French bank stocks declined. The closing was heavy with few transactions.

BERLIN—Prices on the boerse were generally steady with occasional fractional improvements in some sections. The closing was listless.

CURB PRICES CLIMB IN LIGHTER DEALING

Utilities Move Up 2 Points in Day's Turnover of 150,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Trading slowed down to a jog trot on the curb market today, transfers totaling 150,000 shares against 170,000 yesterday, and prices working irregularly higher.

Electric Bond & Share moved up more than 2 points, after a slow start, and fractional gains were made by Cities Service, Niagara Hudson Power and United Light & Power A.

American Gas & Electric, which in its latest 12-month report again showed its $1 common dividend more than earned, attracted fairly heavy buying. The stock moved up a point.

A repercussion of the Puerto Rican hurricane was furnished in Fajardo sugar stock which broke more than 7 points.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—A net gain of $2,628,100 in America's monetary gold supply was reported today by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. It resulted from a release of that amount from gold earmarked for foreign account. There were no imports or exports.

Steel Ingot Yield Increases To 17½ Per Cent of Capacity

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Steel ingot production this week has risen to an average of 17½ per cent of capacity, against 16 per cent a week ago, Iron Age reported today.

Much of the gain occurred at Chicago, where the operating rate advanced from 13 to 17 per cent, but there was also improvement in Pittsburgh and Youngstown areas. The Birmingham district, at 33 per cent, makes the best showing, followed closely by Wheeling, which is at 30 per cent for the second consecutive week.

"It is significant," said the review, "that most of the gain at Chicago has gone principally in orders from the miscellaneous group of buyers, including many small shops, with the major steel consuming industries contributing less than their normal portion to the better tonnage, a situation that prevails, in fact, throughout the country."

Major industries, the publication said, are expected to become more of a factor in the steel market over the next month or two. Railroads are opening repair shops and will soon need material, while progress is being made on applications for Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans to finance public projects, although steel requirements for these will be slower in reaching the mills than the railroad orders.

Texas Oil Groups Plan Yield Curbs

Bankers and Business Men Join Move to Uphold Prices.

Tyler, Tex., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Southwestern oil operations, conservation officials, bankers and publishers agreed at a conference here to support a cut in crude oil production if it were found necessary to prevent reduction in prices. The conference was called last night by Carl Estes, Tyler publisher, after reports that large purchasers were planning to slash prices. At present the top price is $1 a barrel.

Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma addressed the gathering by radio and reviewed his efforts of a year ago in behalf of proration and higher crude prices. He said his work had brought Texas into line in holding down production and advocated a petition to Congress to authorize a league of oil States. The governor said congressional control of the industry would not work because representatives of States not producing oil would be in the majority.

Every speaker expressed the opinion a price reduction would disorganize the industry, lead to demands for changes in proration laws and upset the national confidence in economic recovery.

38 Chain Stores Decline In Sales for August

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Aggregate August sales of 38 leading chain store companies are estimated by E. A. Pierce & Co. at $244,965,552, a decrease of 16.8 per cent from August, 1931.

For the eight months ended August, the sales of these groups are estimated at $2,035,534,027, a decrease of 14 per cent from the 1931 period.

Spring Orders for Cloth Up.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Cotton gray goods were in moderate call today and prices held firm. There was more widespread placing of spring wash goods lines with printers.

Power Production Higher for Week

Loss Under 1931 Period Cut to 10.2 Per Cent; East Gains More.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—A gain of 14,419,000 kilowatt hours in power production was reported today for the week ended September 24 over the previous week by the National Electric Light Association. For the week ended September 24 production totaled 1,490,363,000 kilowatt hours. The latest figure was 10.2 per cent below the corresponding 1931 figure. The week before, a difference of 11.2 per cent was recorded.

The total for the week ended September 24 represented an increase of 64,000,000 kilowatt hours over the first week of August. For the corresponding period last year the gain was 18,000,000; in 1930, 21,000,000, and in 1929, 48,000,000. For the September 24 week, gains from the previous week were reported in the Atlantic Seaboard and central industrial regions, while there was a slackening in New England alone, and in the Pacific Coast States as compared with the corresponding figures of last year.

Production in the Atlantic States, excluding New England, was 6.9 per cent below last year, whereas the week before it was 7.3 below; New England production was 6.0 per cent below against 4.1 last week; the central industrial States, 13.8 against 15.3, and the Pacific Coast States, 8.1 against 5.6. Gains in the central industrial and Atlantic Seaboard regions were large enough to result in an improvement of 1 full percentage point for aggregate production figures for the whole country.

Furniture Activity Continues.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The rise in furniture activity that started early in July has carried through with vigor into August, says the current bulletin of Seidman & Seidman, accountants to the industry.

Rayon Cloth Shortage Seen.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—It is reported that leading sellers of rayon underwear are experiencing an acute shortage of tubular knit cloth.

BOND SALES QUIET; PRICES UNCHANGED

Higher-Grade Issues Firm, With Some Advances; Volume, $8,929,000.

The session was not quite as dull as that of yesterday, but it was far from active. Sales totaled only $8,923,000, par value, and the average for 60 corporate securities was unchanged.

Higher grade bonds were in fair demand at moderately increased prices. A number reached new highs for the year with only fractional gains. The speculative category, at the same time, was barely steady.

The foreign section attracted considerable attention with most Australian issues gaining from 2 to more than 7 points. Heaviest trading was in Commonwealth 4½s and 5s. The Queensland list showed the greatest gains.

Improvement was recorded by bonds of Santa Fe, American Telephone, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Burlington, Delaware & Hudson, Great Northern, New York Central, Consolidated Gas, Pacific Gas, Pennsylvania Railroad, Western Electric and a number of other higher priced loans.

Nickel Plate 6s dropped 3½ points owing to the uncertainty regarding the refunding of this maturity next Saturday.

The United States Government department eased moderately.

Curtiss-Wright Asks To List More Shares

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—An application to list 808,100 additional shares of common stock of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation was filed today with the New York Stock Exchange.

The application stated that the company had arranged to sell 106,100 of the additional shares at $4.25 a share and had authorized the sale of an additional 400,000 shares at an average price of $4.25. Proceeds, the company stated, would be used to pare down bank loans.

Lancashire Mills Begin Work as Strike Ends

Manchester, England, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Work in the cotton mills of Lancashire, which has been suspended for some time as a result of a textile workers' strike, began generally to be resumed today following the signing of a peace pact yesterday.

In Burnley, which was a storm center of the strike area, nearly all the mills resumed operation. The only district in which work was not begun again was around Nelson, where the weavers were holding out for further discussion of the settlement terms.

Shop Activity Planned By New York Central

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The New York Central Railroad, because of an improvement in traffic, today announced a tentative program of expanded operations in its car and locomotive shops, beginning October 1.

The plan calls for the employment of about 4,000 men. Its continuance will depend upon the course of business. Locomotive shops at Bucyrus, Ohio; Jackson, Mich.; St. Thomas, Ont.; West Albany, N. Y., and Beech Grove, Ind., will be opened for the first time since July. Smaller forces will be put to work on light car repair jobs at scattered points, including Toledo, Ashtabula and Buffalo.

Greece May Pay Cash and Script

Two Foreign Loans to Be Met Next Year; Part Held in U. S.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Speyer & Co., as fiscal agents, announced today that the Greek government contemplated payment of part cash and part scrip to meet interest requirements on two foreign loans during the next fiscal year.

The New York bankers said they had been advised, following a conference in London, that the Greek government lacked funds to assure payment of interest in cash and that its finance minister had recommended a part payment be made. Under the plan now being considered Greece would pay 60 per cent of the interest due in the next six months in cash and the balance in scrip, which is tantamount to a promise to redeem later at 100 with cash. Later the government would determine what percentage of the year's remaining interest could be paid in cash.

The loans consist of approximately $98,000,000 of bonds, of which $21,000,000 were floated in this country.

COTTON PRICES DROP ON QUIETER TRADING

December Closes at 7.34 in Losses of 6 to 10 Points; Liverpool Buys.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Trading was quieter, and the cotton market sensitive to comparatively small orders either way today, with an opening advance to 7.50 for December, followed by reactions which carried the price off to 7.34 in the late trading. The closing was barely steady at net declines of 6 to 10 points.

Relatively steady Liverpool cables and reports of further rains in the South were reflected by an opening advance of 3 to 6 points, and active months sold about 5 to 7 points net higher during the first few minutes.

After easing off to net losses of 6 to 7 points later in the morning, prices steadied up on covering. Later they eased again with most of the active months reaching the lowest levels of the day in the late trading.

Liverpool cables reported local and foreign buying in that market and said there was a broadening demand for cotton cloths. Exports today 3,294 making 1,034,520 so far this season. Port receipts 45,262. U. S. port stocks, 3,602,720.

WHEAT VALUES FIRM ON BUYING SUPPORT

Eastern Demand Again Aids Market to Rise; Corn, Oats Irregular.

Chicago, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Active buying support that developed after a sharp decline gave a late hoist to wheat values today.

Intimations that Japan as well as China was in the market for wheat attracted notice. Besides Argentine reports suggested uneasiness over the wheat crop outlook in northern Argentina.

Wheat closed unsettled, at the same as yesterday's finish to ½ higher; corn, ⅜ off to ⅛ up; oats, unchanged to ⅜ lower, and provisions, unchanged to 5 cents down.

Concentrated purchasing credited to an Eastern pool accompanied the late upward movement of the Chicago wheat market. On the advance, however, spread traders sold here against buying at Winnipeg, a reversal of earlier tactics. Canadian country marketings were still heavy, and this with scantiness of export business and a downward trend in the Liverpool market were largely responsible for setbacks the first part of the day.

Aids to Rallies.

Helping to promote wheat price rallies was the fact that numerous traders were basing operations a good deal on the course of securities. Something of an offset, though, was word that instability of wheat values abroad came from big increases of world's available stocks and from uncertainty about action of the British Parliament as to taxing wheat imports.

In some quarters, buying both of wheat and other grain was advocated on the ground that strong efforts would be made to lift prices as a matter of political expediency, and that bear factors had been fully discounted for the time being at least.

All deliveries of corn sold at a new low for the season, December the bottommost since 1899, and September since 1898. Favorable weather conditions prevailed, with primary receipts about double those of a year ago. Oats sympathized with corn.

71 Railroads Report Net of $27,363,000 for Month of August.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Directors of Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. today declared a regular quarterly dividend of 87½ cents on the preferred stock, payable October 31 to stock of record October 10.

The first 71 railroads to report for August had aggregate net railway operating income of approximately $27,363,000, a decrease of 47.8 per cent compared with the $52,501,000 reported for August, 1931.

For the first eight months the total net operating income of these roads was $146,460,000, compared with $331,362,000 in the same period last year, a decrease of 55.8 per cent.

Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad today reported August net operating income of $2,651,032 against $4,734,209 in the same month last year.

Figures for other roads were:

Great Lakes Loadings To Be Under '31 Period

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The Great Lakes regional advisory board's estimates of car loading requirements for the last quarter of 1932 in the Lakes area show a sharp drop from 1931. The board placed them today at 231,991 cars, compared with 264,633 cars in the same quarter in 1931.

The outlook as members gathered today for their meeting was one of quiet optimism. Charles F. Macree, of Cleveland, said the lumber industry reported good sales. W. E. Maloney, of Buffalo, reporting for the grain trade, said the Kellogg Company of Battle Creek, Mich., had advised him of a projected $500,000 addition to its plant because of increased business.

AUTO PLANTS LOOK AHEAD TO BIG SALES

Business of 10,000,000 Cars to Follow '32 Low Level, Leaders Say.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—American automobile manufacturers who are not expected to sell more than 1,400,000 trucks and motor cars this year, estimate a backlog of future business amounting to at least 10,000,000 units.

Their problem now, some executives point out, is to carry on through the present lean period so that they may reap a better harvest "when, as, and if" this prospective new buying demand finally asserts itself.

They have derived encouragement from a moderate upturn in business starting late in August. Both General Motors and Chrysler Corporations, two of the largest manufacturers, have reported an improvement.

1932 Sales Lowest.

Automobile sales in 1932 have sunk to the lowest level since the World War. In the first half, 17 car and truck makers reported an aggregate net loss of $1,200,000—this after counting in the $15,043,245 profit of General Motors.

Five manufacturers reported aggregate net income of $9,061,743, which contrasted with profit of $90,870,130 for the first half of 1931. Only two of the five reported "in the black" during the 1932 period.

In measuring future prospects, the automobile industry figures that 9,000,000 passenger cars, now on the roads, are at least five years old. About 13,000,000 are more than four years old. The manufacturers contend that owners of these cars are, in most cases, eager to buy new automobiles, but will not do so either until the cars break down or until business and incomes improve.

August Record Better.

In August, General Motors had a better sales record than in July. August business was 46.7 per cent below the same month of 1931, against a decline of 61.4 per cent in July. A further gain is expected in September because current business is said to be somewhat ahead of August, while last year September returns slumped sharply.

The August improvement helped the company to lighten inventories. While retail sales gained 13 per cent, actual sales to dealers declined 22 per cent.

If a similar rate can be maintained throughout the rest of this year, the company's management is hopeful it can enter 1933 with low, inventories and with dealers needing new cars to replenish their stocks.

Sugar Prices Advance On Hurricane Reports

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Reports of hurricane damage to the Puerto Rican crop, as well as a better spot inquiry, were responsible for increased covering and trade buying in sugar futures today.

December worked up to 1.09 and May to 1.07. The general market at 2 p. m. was around these levels, from 2 to 4 points net higher.

C. & S. Road Elects Scott.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Bruce Scott, vice president and general counsel of the Colorado & Southern Railway, was today elected a director of the company, succeeding the late James N. Hill.

Soft Coal Output Gains.

New York Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Last week's production of bituminous coal is estimated by the National Coal Association at 6,200,000 net tons, compared with 6,100,000 tons in the preceding week, and 7,432,000 tons in the corresponding period last year.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL PENETRATES THE BATHYSPHERE.

AT SEA ON THE TUG WHERAMI. (2:05 p. m.)—Here I am down in the sea so deep that I feel like a nonswimmer who has inadverently stepped into the deep end of an indoor pool. I am now down 1,100 feet. It is very difficult to detect any fish here. This makes it very similar to our most exploited American fishing resorts.

* * * *

A curious V-shaped fish with pink whiskers and a green tail-light has just come up against the glass and is peering in. He is staring at me intently. It is most embarrassing. It reminds me of the morning I woke up in a huge punch bowl in the old Waldorf Astoria after the Beaux Arts ball and found the night watchman looking at me in complete amazement.

* * * *

Now I have been lowered to a depth of 2,200 feet. I ought to see some big fellows here, if it is the right tide. Ah, an enormous fish just swam by. A most astounding specimen! It had two front headlights. The left one was, of course, out.

* * * *

Kindly stand by! Oh, boy! I am now in a school of giant fish! I recognized them at once as of the Wunatgotaway species, so familiar to all imaginative anglers. Every specimen has a mouthful of hooks, each hook with a section of line trailing behind. There's a big fellow dragging a broken rod! And here's a whopper dragging hook, line and sinker, and the front end of a rowboat! It is a wonderful sight. There are great schools of Wunatgotaway fish at this level. Some of them are dragging as many as seven or eight broken rods, with reels attached.

* * * *

I am now down another hundred feet. Beams of light flash through the deep. It is pitch black here and each fish carries a light. He'd be a sucker if he didn't.

* * * *

WE have just passed a boneless shad and a most peculiar giant halibut with the parsley and sliced lemon attached. Quite fascinating, if you ask me.

* * * *

Look! Directly in front of the glass is a sailfish. It is sailing without lights. This is a direct violation of the navigation laws.

* * * *

By George! I have just seen a bendless eel. It has to turn corners like anybody else! Quite extraordinary, if I do say so!

FOR GOOD GUESSERS.

President Hoover is quoted as saying that perhaps what the country needs to lift it out of the depression is a great poem. But if a poet and a financier called at the White House together, which do you think would have to wait?

HISTORICALLY IMPORTANT.

MR. SOL BLOOM takes issue with a professor who says George Washington had a set of false teeth made by Paul Revere (presumably on horseback) which had such a clumsy hinge on them that they kept his mouth agape while he crossed the Delaware. But the question whether George crossed by boat because of poor bridgework will continue to worry historians.

G. B. H. says that Ima Dodo thought "Goona-Goona" was a picture based on a Yale football song.

One of the things that must be worrying Mayor McKee of New York no end is whether courtesy and custom require that he arrange for a municipal welcome to the distinguished visitor, James J. Walker, when he returns to New York.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

PRESIDENT HOOVER and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt are both scheduled for tonight. The President, speaking from the White House, will address the second women's conference on current problems (WRC, 8:30 o'clock).

Immediately following this, Gov. Roosevelt will be heard over a 58-station network from Sioux City (WRC, 9 o'clock). What he has to say may be a reverberation of the broadside of Secretary of the Treasury Mills at the Michigan Republican State convention at Detroit (WRC, 11:45 a. m.).

The second world's series broadcast from New York begins at 1:15 p. m. (WMAL-WRC).

Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, song sleuth, reveals origin of "School Days," and "M-i-s-s-i-s-s-i-p-p-i" (WJZ, 8:15 p. m.).

"MANDY OF MARYLAND" will be brought forth by Frederick Phillip Stieff, author of "Eat and Be Merry in Maryland" (WEAF, 2:45 p. m.).

Crowning their appearance at the Earle, Olsen and Johnson will return to the "Padded Cell of the Air," accompanied by Rudy Vallee (WRC, 8 p. m.).

Harmonized assurance by the Boswell Sisters that "Love Goes On Just the Same" will introduce the broadcast of "Music That Satisfies" (WMAL, 9 p. m.).

ED HILL is being swamped with requests for personal appearances. He never made a platform address in his life.

THE alligators that Liebert Lombardo picked up when the Royal Canadians were on their recent Southern trip are causing him plenty of trouble . . . he has had to make a bathtub their official residence, filling it with mud and stones . . . he is learning about their feeding habits also . . . alligators, he revealed the other night, are supposed to be fed three times a week, but only during the spring and summer months . . . the rest of the time they get along on surplus.

MARIO CHAMLEE'S first professional appearance was in San Francisco, just after he left college, and it was very much of a disappointment. When he stepped on the stage his voice failed him. Shamefaced and penniless, but too proud to appeal to his family for funds, he "rode the rods" under a freight car and returned to Los Angeles where a patient teacher began anew to coach him.

With the opening of New York schools this week Angelo Patri, commentator on child training, entered his twenty-fifth year as a school principal and his thirty-fifth as a teacher.

MARYLAND "ATTACK" ARMY UNIT TO STAGE

Third Corps Area to Work Out Series of Tactical Problems.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Regular Army units from Fort Myer, Langley Field and Fort Humphreys, Va., will join with other units of the Third Corps Area in working out a series of tactical problems and maneuvers in the annual field exercises beginning Saturday at Fort George C. Meade, Md.

The exercises, to be under the direction of Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, corps area commander, who also will act as chief umpire, will be built around an imaginary hostile invasion of Maryland by way of the Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac River.

Movement of troops will begin Monday, when troops will be organized into opposing forces for two-sided maneuvers for study of problems of security, reconnaissance in force, and attack and defense of position. For the next two days all troops will be organized into a reinforced brigade and employed in a continuous exercise against an assumed enemy. All mobile units of the Regular Army stationed within the corps area will take part.

Virginia units to participate in the exercises are the Third Cavalry and First Battalion, Sixteenth Field Artillery, of Fort Myer; the Second Bombardment Wing, air corps, of Langley Field, and the Thirteenth Engineers from Fort Humphreys.

Intercoastal Steamship Rate Accord Approved

(Associated Press.)

The Shipping Board yesterday approved an agreement for uniform rates between fourteen intercoastal steamship companies operating between Atlantic and Pacific ports via the Panama Canal.

The agreement, effective from October 1 to March 31, 1933, provides for a surcharge of 3 per cent which is to be paid into a pool for monthly distribution between the lines. Those with slower ships would receive a greater portion than the others.

Oklahoma Holdup Man Is Sentenced to Chair

Ardmore, Okla., Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Albert Ellis, convicted here recently by a jury on a charge of robbery with firearms in connection with the holdup of the family of John Weber, Fort Worth broker, and mistreatment of Weber's daughter, was sentenced today to die in the electric chair on December 9.

As Judge John B. Ogden set the date of executoin, Ellis said: "I never threatened to kill the Webers," and then sat down stoically at the counsel table.

3 SUSPECTS HUNTED IN HIJACKING CASE; MUMPER IS CHARGED

Calvert County Resident Is Arrested and Receives Mystery Call.

Three Washington men were hunted, another was formally charged with hijacking, and still another was implicated as Federal investigators yesterday grew hot on the trail of the fourteen men who stole a load of whisky and kidnaped four dry agents in southern Maryland Sunday.

The three hunted men have disappeared from their haunts in Washington, Lowell R. Smith, deputy prohibition administrator, said last night. The men have been identified by the kidnaped agents from pictures in the police files here. Investigators are working on the theory that the hijacking was the work of a Calvert County gang, reinforced by Washington criminals, Mr. Smith said.

Warrant Names Mumper.

Edwin Allen Mumper, who was a Washington policeman until his car turned over last summer and disclosed a load of alcohol, was named in a warrant sworn out in Baltimore yesterday. He is accused of assault with a deadly weapon, interference with a Federal officer, and stealing Government property. Mumper and Martin Boland, son of a former Washington policeman, are being held here, and another prisoner is held in Baltimore.

Woodley Commodore, who lives in Calvert County, the scene of the hijacking, is the new man linked in the case. Commodore was arrested by Federal agents yesterday morning as he was fishing near his home.

Phone Call for Prisoner.

A phone call was received at the Marlboro Jail for Commodore last night, but the party calling refused to give his name. Commodore was told about the call, and said:

"Was it——?" naming a Calvert County man who is suspected of hatching the plot.

The use of submachine guns in the hijacking has increased the activity of police and agents of the United States Bureau of Investigation in their search for two Browning automatic rifles which were stolen from the Fifth Regiment Maryland National Guard Armory in Baltimore last August.

At the time of theft, Capt. William C. Purnell, of the Maryland National Guard, in whose office at the armory the guns were kept, notified Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition, that the guns had been taken, and said he was afraid they might find their way into the hands of rum-runners in Southern Maryland.

2 Gunmen Take Man's Car and Cash; Escape

Two armed men last night held up and robbed Dr. Thomas J. Howerton, of the Westchester Apartments, 3900 Cathedral avenue northwest, and escaped with his automobile and a small amount of money.

Dr. Howerton told police that he had stopped for a traffic light near his home, when two men jumped on his machine. They forced him to get out, he said, and after taking a small amount of cash from his pockets, fled in his car.

'Giant Killer' Dillon Turns To Salvation Army for Aid

"Ain't Licked Yet," Says Fighter; Came Here With B. E. F.

Jack (the Giant Killer) Dillon, top-notch light-heavyweight fighter of the World War days, has slid down the beanstalk. Yesterday he was found gratefully sipping a bowl of beef stew at the Salvation Army.

"But I ain't licked yet."

"Oh, I don't know; you gotta figure the breaks. You can't get 'em all," said Jack.

Dillon was here with the bonus marchers. His presence, however, had gone unnoticed in the phalanx of headlines that the bonus seekers attracted. He was marched out of town by the troopers, but decided to come back.

He hopes he'll get a pension of some sort from the Government. He contracted trench feet during the war, besides the two machine gun bullets. Besides the Meuse Argonne, Jack fought with the Fifth Marines in the battle of Chateau Thierry and other major engagements.

Dillon enlisted in the Marines a few days after America entered the World War in April, 1917. Since the war he fought an exhibition bout with Jess Willard in 1922 at Galveston, Tex.

Now, the excess weight that overtakes the inactive athlete has put the kibosh on any sparring exhibitions or lesson giving. As far as fighting goes, Jack is only good for training. Maybe some hopeful will turn up.

His last bout was against Battling Levinsky at Boston in October, 1916. This was only a few months before he signed up for the "Big Scrap" across the seas. Battling knocked him out in the twelfth stanza of a twenty-round go. Only a few months before, Dillon, who garnered the title Giant Killer because he always fought men much heavier than he and was never knocked down by them, had knocked out Frank Moran, of Pittsburgh, leading light-heavyweight.

Other first-raters fought by Jack were Bombardier Wells, Gunboat Smith, Bill Brennan and a host of others. Jack is now 42. His home town is Indianapolis, where in the halcyon days of his fighting career, he was the toast of the city.

MILK SUPPLY SLASH DRIVE NEAR CLIMAX

Producers' Heads Report Pledges to Cut Capital Shipments.

Officials of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association will complete their campaign today to obtain a 5 per cent reduction in the supply of milk to Washington when they address farmers in Ashburn and Purcellville in Loudoun County.

Frank S. Walker, president of the association, and John McGill, jr., secretary-treasurer, spoke last night to Fairfax County shippers in Fairfax and earlier in the day at Remington and Warrenton in Fauquier County.

Nearly 500 producers are reported to have agreed to cut their supply 5 per cent in order that the price of milk in Washington may be kept at the present level. Attainment of this objective will prevent a shortage which would be caused by shipping the milk to more profitable centers, it is pointed out.

Farmers send 50 gallons of milk each, on an average, to this city. A 5 per cent cut will mean curtailment of 2½ gallons. A total of nearly 60,000 gallons of milk are shipped into Washington a day at the present time.

Farmers are planning to regulate the supply of milk by controlling the feed given cows. A reduction in rations will result in a decrease in milk production. Mr. McGill said that there will be no waste of surplus milk, as it will go into by-products.

3 Bitten by Dogs, 2 Stopping Fights

Three persons, one of them a 2-year-old girl, yesterday sought medical treatment for dog bites.

Dean Short, 12 years old, of 3705 Harrison street northwest, was the most seriously injured. He attempted to separate two dogs fighting on the street at Connecticut and Nebraska avenues northwest. He suffered bites on the left ankle, knee and hand, and was treated at home.

Policeman Hurt In Fall.

While walking his beat on Seaton street between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets northwest, early yesterday, Policeman Thomas O'Donnell of the Third Precinct slipped on the curb, suffering a possible fracture of his right foot. He was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to Emergency Hospital.

CHARGE OF LAZINESS MADE TO ENGINEERS

Interest in World Affairs Is Urged by Harrington as Parley Closes.

Engineers were charged with being mentally lazy concerning any phase of life but the technical side of their own profession by John Lyle Harrington, a member of the engineering advisory board of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at a banquet of the American Association of Engineers last night at the Shoreham Hotel.

As a result of this mental laziness, engineers have contributed toward the causes of the depression, Mr. Harrington asserted.

"I am not accusing all engineers," he added, "but for the most part they have been too mentally lazy to do the necessary work to take a seat at the first table. They have restricted themselves and have failed to live up to their possibilities."

Mr. Harrington declared that the majority of engineers have failed to study business problems, politics and economics and consequently are not equipped to take a leading part in the world's work.

"The engineer is a follower, not a leader," Mr. Harrington said. "But he has the ability to be a leader and he would be welcome. Whenever you take the business point of view, learn to make a decision and express yourselves, you'll find yourselves at the first table," he told the association.

Howard Levering, of Huntington, W. Va., and Victor Baum, of Tulsa, Okla., were installed as new members of the board of directors. The banquet was the closing feature of the convention which opened last Monday.

CATHEDRAL TO MARK DUAL ANNIVERSARIES AT SERVICES TODAY

Fete to Honor Bishop Freeman on 25th Year of Laying Foundation Stone.

A dual celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the laying of the foundation stone of Washington Cathedral and the ninth anniversary of the consecration of the Right Rev. James E. Freeman as third Bishop of Washington, will make memorable this Michaelmas day on Mount Saint Alban.

The principal event of the day will be the festival service in the great choir and sanctuary of Washington Cathedral at 4 p. m. when Bishop Freeman will deliver the commemoration address.

Another event in connection with the dual celebration will be a service in Epiphany Church at 11 a. m. at which Bishop Freeman will deliver the sermon. Holy Communion will be celebrated by the rector of the Church of the Epiphany, the Rev. D. R. ZeBarney T. Phillips, chaplain of the United States Senate.

At the festival service in the Cathedral, Canon Raymond L. Wolven, chaplain to the bishop, will be master of ceremonies. The clergy from all parishes in the diocese have been invited to march in the procession. Special music will be rendered by the Cathedral choir of men and boys, under the direction of Edgar Priest, who had charge of the music at the great service on Mount Saint Alban 25 years ago, when the foundation stone was laid. The choir will sing the Te Deum of Thanksgiving in B Flat, which was sung at the service 25 years ago.

Anthem to Be Sung.

The offertory anthem will be "Whoso Dwelleth Under the Defense of the Most High," by Sir George Martin.

Bishop Freeman will lead the congregation in "The Bidding Prayer" and will deliver the commemoration address.

Although cards announcing the festival service have been sent to members of the National Cathedral Association and other friends of Washington Cathedral, no tickets of admission will be required. The general public will be welcomed to the full seating capacity of the great choir and the east aisle of the north transept, which were opened for public worship last May. Both the north and south transept entrances will be used and members of the cathedral guild of ushers will be on hand to seat the congregation.

Following the service there will be an important special meeting of the Cathedral Chapter, over which Bishop Freeman will preside in the cathedral library.

The keynote of the day's program will be one of devout thanksgiving for the remarkable progress which has been achieved in the cathedral enterprise since the first Bishop of Washington, the late Right Rev. Dr. Henry Yates Satterlee, set the foundation stone and hallowed it. The second Bishop of Washington, the late Right Rev. Dr. Alfred Harding, and other leaders in the cathedral enterprise, will be remembered in the prayers of commemoration.

Luncheon at Beauvoir.

A luncheon in honor of Bishop and Mrs. Freeman will be held at 1 o'clock at Beauvoir, the spacious estate south and east of Mount Saint Alban, which has recently become available for use by the National Cathedral School for Girls. George Wharton Pepper, former United States senator from Pennsylvania and member of the Cathedral Chapter for many years, will preside, and there will be informal greetings and addresses from Miss Mabel B. Turner, principal of the National Cathedral School; Mrs. William Adams Brown, of New York City, national chairman of the national women's committee for Washington Cathedral; the Very Rev. Dr. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington, whose associations with the cathedral cover the entire 25 years since its construction began; Alexander B. Trowbridge, local architect and member of the Cathedral Council, who has recently returned from a visit to more than twelve of the cathedrals in England to gather information for the building committee of Washington Cathedral; Newbold Noyes, member of the Cathedral Council committee on ways and means, and by Bishop Freeman.

Greetings will be read from the Lord Bishop of London, the Right Rev. and Right Hon. A. F. Winnington-Ingram, who made an address at the laying of the foundation stone 25 years ago; also from Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., member of the Cathedral Chapter, who is chairman of the Cathedral Council committee on ways and means.

Guest Sues Hotel For $50,000.

The Annapolis Hotel yesterday was named defendant in a suit for $50,000 damages filed by Lucie J. Martin, a resident of the hotel, who charges that she slipped in one of the corridors of the hotel last September and suffered serious injuries. Attorney Daniel S. Ring represented her in the suit, which was filed in District Supreme Court.

CIVIL SERVICE HEAD DEFENDS PRESIDENT

Refutes Harrison's Charge Hoover Gave Protection for Political Reasons.

Thomas E. Campbell, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, issued a detailed statement yesterday afternoon refuting the charges of Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, that President Hoover for political reasons, had extended civil service protection to employes appointed without examination in the Departments of Commerce and Justice and in the Veterans' Administration.

Mr. Campbell declared that the President's order was concerned with the classification of the positions and not with the protection of the individuals "and certainly not with political matters."

"The commission has continuously and for years worked by conferences and correspondence toward the elimination of excepted positions," he declared.

Mr. Campbell said that on March 10 of this year the President issued an order classifying the positions in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce within the competitive classified status. This order was for positions in continental United States, Hawaii and Alaska, excluding the director and assistant director. The order affected 147 employes of the bureau, Mr. Campbell said.

Request for Amendment.

This order followed a request from the Secretary of Commerce to the President for an amendment to civil service rules to provide for noncompetitive examinations for appointment of trade specialists to promote both domestic and foreign commerce, Mr. Campbell said.

The President's executive order of April 23, 1931, affording the protection of the civil service act to more than 1,000 employes of the national homes for disabled volunteer soldiers was simply an outgrowth of former act consolidating the Veterans' Administration, the Bureau of Pensions and the national homes for disabled volunteer soldiers, Mr. Campbell stated. The act gave specific authority to the President and the classification of these employes was both good business and good civil service administration, he added.

Recommended to Hoover.

The placing of 231 miscellaneous positions in the Department of Justice under the civil service act and rules was the result of a recommendation to the President that the power of the Attorney General to make appointments without regard to the civil service act and rules be restricted, Mr. Campbell said.

President Hoover issued an order in compliance with this recommendation on February 2, 1932. Mr. Campbell declared this is regarded as a major step in the furtherance of the merit system and good business administration. Prior to the order, the Attorney General was able to point any persons he desired positions and employments d... by that official to be legal or confidential in their character."

2,000 Pennies and Watch Stolen.

The theft of 2,000 pennies from the home of Mrs. Mary Jackson, 3100 Connecticut avenue northwest, was reported to police of the Eighth Precinct yesterday. Mrs. Jackson said a gold watch, valued at $40, was also missing.

Auto Robbers Get $8, But Skip Over $275

When two armed bandits forced Paul P. Bowdler, of 811 B street southeast, and his companion, Miss Doris H. Day, of 1620 A street southeast, to surrender their automobile parked in Potomac Park last night, they didn't realize the magnitude of their loot.

Bowdler told police that he and Miss Day were sitting in his machine, parked in Potomac Park, near lower Fourteenth street. Suddenly, he said, two men approached and brandishing a revolver, ordered them from the car.

After rifling his pockets of $8, Bowdler related, the men jumped in his machine and sped away. In the rumble seat, Bowdler told police, was a strong box containing about $275, receipts from a downtown oil station where he is employed. The money, he said, was to be deposited in a bank.

Man Working on Car Is Crushed as It Falls

Bernard Bradley, 33, of 1278 I street northeast, suffered severe injuries yesterday when crushed beneath an automobile on which he was working in an alley in the rear of 49 H street southwest.

Bradley was lying on the ground beneath the machine, the front of which was jacked up. The jack suddenly gave way, pinning him beneath the car. He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where it was found he suffered several fractured ribs.

$25 Stolen in Woman's Home.

Change and bills amounting to $25 were stolen from the home of Mrs. Florence Browning, 1310 Belmont street northwest, she reported to police yesterday.

ACCORD IS REACHED IN TAXICAB DISPUTE

System of Retaining Title to Hacks and Hiring Drivers Is Agreed Upon.

The City Cab Corporation, leader in the zone fare and rental operation fields, and William A. Roberts, special counsel of the Public Utilities Commission, apparently reached an agreement yesterday as to a method of conducting business which will meet the demands of the commission and not violate the antirental provision of the general taxicab order.

Under the terms of the agreement, which is expected to be approved by the commission, the City Cab Corporation, according to Albert W. Jacobson, counsel, will retain title to all of its cabs, employing all drivers. Each driver will be paid 25 per cent of the first $3.75 collected each day and 100 per cent of all above that amount.

No driver will be deprived of his cab for failure to turn in the required $3.75 on any one day, however, but collections will be averaged over short periods, as a week. As formerly, the operator whose collections average $3.75 for a year will be given the cab as a bonus.

Compensation insurance for the drivers will also be taken out by the City Cab Corporation, Mr. Jacobson said, if the commission so desires.

Such an arrangement will comply with the commission's order, in the opinion of Mr. Roberts. Other cab companies which operated on a system that is merely an evasion of the rental ban are expected to follow the City Cab's lead.

Several Police Court prosecutions have been made by Mr. Roberts since the taxicab order became effective in an effort to break up the evasions of the rental provision.

UTILITY BODY RAPS PHONE CONCERN FOR REFUSING RATE CUT

Court Is Due Today to Grant Restraining Order in Favor of Company.

That the battle between the Public Utilities Commission and the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. will be fought with tooth and nail both in court and in the press was apparent yesterday when the former broke a precedent of long standing and issued a formal statement criticizing the latter for its refusal to accept the ordered 10 per cent rate reduction.

Earlier in the day the telephone company issued another formal statement, the second since the issuance of the order, showing that its operating revenues for the first eight months of this year fell $121,235 below the profits for the same period in 1931 and that net earnings in August showed a decrease of $6,883 as compared with the same month last year.

Drawn Out Fight Seen.

"The Public Utilities Commission had hoped that the telephone company would comply with the order reducing rates for exchange service by 10 per cent," the commission statement said. "Instead, the company has seen fit to appeal to the courts, thus starting what may be a long drawn out legal battle, the outcome of which is, of course, problematical. One thing is certain, however. If, as seems probable, the court enjoins the commission from enforcing the order, the relief which it was sought to obtain for the rate payers will be long delayed."

The utilities body then goes on to explain it had proposed, "as an alternative, a sliding scale of rates, to be based upon an agreed value of the company's property, to remain in force for a limited period, but that the company had flatly rejected every proposition advanced by the commission."

Earnings Drop Claimed.

Meanwhile, the telephone company contended that its net earnings for the first eight months of this year "in relation to the average plant in service" reached only 6.03 per cent and only 5.86 per cent in August. The commission in its order had held that the company is entitled to 6 per cent, but on a greatly reduced rate base.

That the proposed rate reduction will not become effective for at least six months, if at all, is generally admitted, as the District Supreme Court is expected to grant the preliminary restraining order today against the commission's order.

William A. Roberts, special counsel for the commission, failed to complete his answer to the rule to show cause yesterday but will file it today prior to the scheduled hearing.

Court Weighs Record Of Teller in Shortage

An investigation of the record of Bernard L. Mann, former teller of the Morris Plan Bank, is all that stands between him and the judgment of the District Supreme Court, following his plea of guilty yesterday in the District Supreme Court to an indictment charging him with the embezzlement of $11,850 of the bank's money.

Mann allegedly absconded May 31 last, and the following day he was married, it was learned. Shortly after that he was arrested on the Pacific Coast with his bride and was returned here to face charges. His plea of guilty was made yesterday with Harvey Rabbitt representing him. Mann may obtain probation.
